INTRODUCTION

Early in 1912 the author of this revised edition of the genealogy of descendants of Andrew Newcomb, began the light task of looking up and extending the records of the single branch of William Newcomb of Maine, grandfather of the writer. This work was so quickly and readily completed that a desire was created to learn more of the entire line of descendants of our original American ancestor, and the resolution was formed with this in view. It is of advantage to future generations that the labor required for such an undertaking was an unknown quantity, for no one excepting those engaged in such work have an approximate idea of the vast difficulties to overcome in securing addresses and records of such a numerous family. However, such success as has been achieved is due to persistent efforts and a strong faith in the family name.

Had one the power to look into the future, the work would have been published in 1916 at a greatly reduced cost, but at that time several new lines had been established which required further time to fully work out and obtain full records, and publication was delayed until 1917, when war with Germany was declared, and since which time conditions have still further delayed.

This edition contains all of the records of the 1874 edition published by John B. Newcomb of Elgin, Ill., so far as the branch of Andrew Newcomb is concerned. For several years after the publication of his genealogy, Mr. Newcomb kept a record of such changes as he was notified of by those interested; the author has had advantage of these notes and corrections through the kindness of George Eddy Newcomb of Chicago, the custodian of John B. Newcomb's effects after his decease, and to whom great credit is due for his assistance and interest in this later work. Others deserving of special mention are Edward Borden Newcomb of Kentville, N. S., for collecting later Nova Scotia family records, John E. Woodworth of Berwick, N. S., Dr. Fred C. Newcomb of Akron, Ohio, Frank S. Newcomb, Campbell, Calif., Mrs. Annie Newcomb True, Everett, Mass., and Mrs. Seville K. Dearborn, Newburg, Me.

The author regrets exceedingly that many persons belonging to some branches have not been located, a few others have been located but have failed to respond, and entire families seem to have vanished, leaving no record. Very earnest efforts have been made to locate all such, successful in some instances, but failing in others. A few of these families doubtless have become extinct.

Some mistakes doubtless will be found, but trust there are no serious ones. It has been said that "Genealogy is the science of personal identification." "Time corrodes our epitaphs and buries our very tombstones." Therefore, happy is he who knows and appreciates his own origin and ancestry with sufficient interest to record it in a family genealogy where it will be perpetually preserved.

The search for the parents and ancestors of Andrew Newcomb has been continued, supplementing the search made by John B. Newcomb, but no trace of parents has been found. From the fact that Andrew Newcomb was a master mariner and the early records were of his arrivals and departures between ports of New England and Virginia, he doubtless arrived from England upon his own vessel and perhaps his son Andrew[2] and their families with them, as Andrew[2] appears at about the same time at the Isles of Shoals. Therefore, their names are not found upon lists of departures from England. Before the World War, 1914, an effort was being made to examine the marine records of England, but searchers had not advanced far when all records were withdrawn to protect them from being destroyed, and conditions for further research have not been favorable since that time.

All of the following quotations from the 1874 edition are faithfully subscribed to by the author of this edition.

A most thorough and exhaustive search has been made of the records of a large number of towns and counties in New England, at their capitols, at the capitols of many other states and towns and counties therein. These researches extend back to the landing of the Pilgrims, 1620. The town records thus examined have been those of births, marriages, deaths, business meetings, etc.; the church, of baptisms, admissions, dismissals, etc.; the land and proprietors; the probate, of wills, inventories, distributions; other court records; state records of military service in early colonial wars, the Revolution, War of 1812, Mexican War, the Great Rebellion, etc.; military records at Washington, including those of the Pension Office; the "Roll of Honor"; a large number of tombstones; family Bibles; many books, newspapers, magazines, old documents, letters, etc.

For a number of years John B. Newcomb employed at London a thoroughly competent antiquarian of large experience, who devoted much time to an examination of the early records of England; and though the facts obtained will prove interesting to the family in this country, yet a lack of means prevented what would probably have proven the successful consummation of the end sought, namely, the learning with certainty from what part of England the progenitors of the family in this country emigrated, and the names, etc., of their ancestors. The Harleian and other Manuscripts in the British Museum were examined, as also the Records of the Herald's College, the Wills at Doctor's Commons, etc., and full abstracts made and forwarded. In addition to the foregoing, records were examined at various places in England by persons employed for that purpose.

John Newcomen[13], of Saltfleet, d. 1621; had 11 ch.; in his Will names Elias[14], eldest son of brother Charles[13]; the author has pedigrees of John[14] and Thomas[14], sons of John[13], made up chiefly from chh. records at S. and Wills at Doctor's Commons; a pedigree of son Stephen[14] in 8 generations appears in Berry's printed Pedigrees of Herts, pp. 118-119, in which several prominent men are named, among them Rev. Henry J. Newcome[21], now Rector of Shenley, Hertford.

William Newcomen[12] d. at Saltfleet 1545; had son Richard[13], whose son Thomas[14] had son Samuel[15] whose son Francis[16] may have been the Francis[1] who came to America 1635. Dr. Henry Newcome, an eminent man, attended St. Paul's School, London.—Newcomb, author of "Parochial History of London," 1708. Matthew Newcomen, an eminent puritan divine, in reign of Charles I. Rev. Peter Newcome[19] was rector of Shenley and historian of St. Alban's Abbey, Hertford. Thomas Newcombe, in first part of last century, established famous school at Hackney. Rev. Henry Newcombe[17], rector of Middleton, diocese of Chester, reign of Q. Anne. Abp. Newcome of Armaugh, theological writer, d. 1800. Rev. Peter Newcomb's Diary, 3 vols., recently pub. in London. The following Newcomens lived in Lincolnshire: Walter in 1185; Robert 1206 to 1291; Radulf 1279; Gilbert 1275; Roger, son of Walter, 1327; Walter had son William, whose son Henry of Laceby made land grant 1361; John 1401; Martin presented to Heling 1558; Charles 1566. Augustine Newcomb of Chagford, Devon, had Chancery proceedings temp. Q. Elizabeth; had brothers John and William, all sons of John. Charles Newcomen, Mayor of City of Lincoln,	1707.

Family Coat of Arms: Several coats of arms have been granted to the family in England, and there are several families of Newcombs in this country who have been using one or more of these coats of arms, but as no member of the family has been able to demonstrate positively that Andrew Newcomb was a descendant of any line in England which was entitled to use a coat of arms, any person using the same does so without authority. The following notices of Coats of Arms, in heraldic language, are from Burke's General Armory:

Newcom (Cheshire) Ar. a cross flory sa.

Newcom or Newcomen (Saltfletby, Co. Lincoln temp Richard I.) Ar. a lion's bead erased, sa. betw. three crescents gu. Crest—A lion's gamb, erased and erect, sa.

In a work of this kind, containing so many thousands of facts, including the names of several thousand persons born Newcombs beside collateral relatives, and with reliance for the facts relating thereto and to some extent based upon information received from such a great number of sources, it must of necessity be impossible not to fall into some errors; yet neither pains nor expense have been spared to secure thoroughness and accuracy where possible. Many hundreds of letters and circulars have been sent out to which no replies have been received, or, if received, not until many appeals had been forwarded; the facts herein contained respecting persons thus referred to, and of their families, have been gleaned and made up from other and many sources. Where the compiler has found upon record, or been furnished with various or conflicting statements respecting persons, dates, names, events, etc., he has adopted such as seemed supported by the greatest weight of evidence.

Not one in ten thousand—only such as have had experience in genealogical inquiries—understands or appreciates the immense labor, the personal research, extensive correspondence and amount of means required to collate a family memorial, materials relating to the early settlers, and their widely scattered and numerous descendants through a period of 300 years. The labor in many instances of obtaining indubitable record proof of the exact relationship of persons who lived so long ago that their names have not been preserved even in tradition, is, in many instances, simply incredible; a great amount of time is required also for the arrangement of materials in manner easily and quickly understood.

That the records now rescued from oblivion and herein contained will be more and more prized by generations to come there can be no doubt. There is a pleasurable consciousness in having done something in grateful reverence to enshrine in a permanent memorial the lives and virtues of ancestors and kindred. A pardonable gratification is engendered by the knowledge that the family, through generation after generation, appears in the attitude of a highly moral, patriotic, enterprising, intelligent and inventive race, whose deeds and achievements must ever be a source of justifiable pride to their descendants.

THE NAME

The name Newcomb is said to be of Saxon origin, combe signifying a low situation, a vale, a place between two hills. Newcome, Newcomes is defined by Halliwell as "'strangers newly arrived'; but the family of this name, who trace back to Hugh Newcome, of Saltfleetby, Co. Lincoln, temp. Coeur de Lion (1189-1199), are not parvenus in this or any other sense. The name is doubtless the same as Newcombe, though the locality from which that is derived is not known."

Names beginning or ending with comb, which in the ancient Celtic signified a low place or situation, are favorite names in Somerset and Dorset, but especially in Devonshire. (New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 22, p. 29.)

In early records in this country the name is found written Newcom, Newcome, Newcomb, Newcombe, Newcum, Newkum, Newkom, Newckum, Nucom, Nucome, Nucomb, Nucombe, Nucum, etc.; in some instances in two or more ways in same document; now it is almost invariably written Newcomb. The Newcombs residing in Canada generally use the final e, while nearly all residing in the United States omit it.

The following is from the "Dictionary of English and Welsh Surnames," C. W. Bardsley, 1901: Newcome, Newcomen, Newcomb, Newcombe,—Nickname, the new-comen; a newly-settled stranger, cf. Newman (g. v.). The b in Newcomb is escrescent. Newcomen is the invariable form in early rolls. M.E. cumen, comen, come, (Skeat). 'Newcomes, stranger newly arrived; v. Hollinshed, Cong. Ireland, p. 55.' (Halliwell.) Gilbert le Neucum, co. Linc. 1273 A. Gilbert le Neucomen, co. Linc., ibid. Robert Neucomen, C. R., 9 Edw. I. Ricardus Newcomen, 1379: P. T. York, p. 264.

The records of baptism, marriages, etc., at Saltfleetby, where the family has been seated 700 years, begin in 558, and are written in Latin; in these records the name is written Newcomen; the known descendants write the name Newcomen, Newcome, and perhaps Newcomb. It is a question with the author as to whether Newcomen and Newcomb are only different ways of writing the same name.

Certain writers contend that the name Newcomb is of German origin, and while it is a fact that a similar name is found in Germany and Switzerland, the spelling has materially changed from that of early date. A party of Swiss and Germans settled in Lancaster Co., Pa., in 1720, among them was one Peter Newcomat; a land owner in the same county, 1764, was John Newcomer.

There are numerous Newcomers in the United States, and those personnally known to the writer are of German origin and in no instance has the writer found this spelling among English immigrant stock. Again, the name is found in the very early records of England soon after the period when surnames were being adopted by reason of change of government from Tribular to more modern methods. History informs us that names did not become hereditary till after the time of the Norman Conquest, 1066. Even in the 11th and 12th centuries hereditary names were uncommon. It was not till the 14th and 15th centuries that the lesser people assumed the dignity of surnames as such.

All male Newcombs who in the early generations lived to the age of 21 years have been given a number, and in the later generations, all living are numbered. When an x follows the birthdate, this indicates that the name is carried forward and becomes the head of a family.

Map of Portion of Salem and Hanover Sts., Boston, Mass.

The lots marked A, B and C, containing 8½ rods of land, were owned by Robert Hull in 1646, who sold to Josiah Atwater, who sold to Augustine Lindon in 1659, who sold to Gaudy James in 1668. Gaudy James sold the lot marked C to Richard Brooks, who sold it to Thomas Ricks in 1677-8, and Thomas Ricks sold to Capt. Andrew Newcomb, 13 Apr. 1681. This lot, C, was given by him to his daughter Grace (Newcomb) Butler-Rankin, and from her it descended to her son James Butler, 1715, and to his son James Butler who sold it to Harrison Gray in 1751.

Gaudy James bought lot B 1668; his estate was sold to Bartholamew Cheever, 1687; the Cheever estate was sold to Andrew Rankin in 1694; Rankin gave it to his widow, Grace (Newcomb) Butler-Rankin, in 1702, and she to her three children in 1713.

William Ricks (or Rix) owned lot D, E, and died there in 1657; his widow Grace married Capt. Andrew Newcomb in 1663, and they appear to have resided there until 1681, when they removed to the lot marked C, at what is now No. 166 Hanover St. In 1672 there were two dwelling houses on lot D, E, the old house on D of William Ricks in which Andrew Newcomb lived, and the new house adjoining on E, in which John Rix (son of William) lived. Thomas Ricks mortgaged this lot to Simon Lynde in 1677-8, and failing to pay the mortgage, it was sold to Capt. Andrew Newcomb 13 Apr. 1681, who sold it the following day to John Ricks (brother of Thomas) for £25. The old house on lot D was built by Thomas Ricks in 1641.

ANDREW NEWCOMB AND HIS DESCENDANTS

1. Capt. Andrew[1] Newcomb, born probably in England about 1618; died in Boston, Mass., Nov. 1686.†

The name of his first wife and date of his marriage is unknown. He may have married first in England or Virginia. He m. second, 1663, in Boston, Grace ( ) Ricks, b. about 1620-1625, the widow of William Ricks who was the son of Robert Ricks of Kenninghall, Co. of Norfolk, Eng. John Davys in 1641 agrees to build a house in Boston, 16 x 14 ft., for this William Ricks, for the sum of £21.

John Bearse[8] Newcomb of Elgin, Ill., the author and compiler of "Genealogical Memoir of the Newcomb Family, 1874," says: "Of the early history of Capt. Andrew[1] Newcomb comparatively little is known; but from the records information has been obtained by which some idea may be formed of the man who appears to have been the progenitor of the largest branch of the Newcomb family in America. That he was born in England is quite certain; that he emigrated from the west of England, perhaps Devonshire or Wales, nearly all traditions declare. Beside tradition, however, there are other reasons that make it probable that such was the case. The date of his arrival in this country is not definitely known, but it is quite probable that he was among the earliest settlers of New England. First mention of him is made in 1663, in Boston, Mass., when and where he married his second wife, Grace; he was at that time a mariner or sea captain, and it is quite probable that this had been his occupation from youth, although there is no record to show it."

Later research inclines to the opinion that Capt. Newcomb came to America as captain of a sailing vessel, making his first landing perhaps at Barbados and from thence to Virginia. Absence of records in Virginia makes it impossible to verify this opinion.

Records indicate that Capt. Newcomb had not obtained a residence in Boston until after his second marriage, but that soon thereafter he, with his wife, occupied the former residence of William Ricks. The latter had children, born in Boston 1645-1656—Elisha, Mary, John, Thomas and

Ezekiel. Suffolk Deeds, Vol. 8, p. 64-5, contain a copy of Agreement, dated Feb. 14, 1672, in which Andrew Newcomb and wife, Grace, are to enjoy during life the old dwelling-house, "now in the tenure and occupation of the said Newcomb," formerly of William Ricks, deceased; John and Thomas Ricks, sons of William, to have the new dwelling-house adjoining the same, etc., near the water-mill in Boston, half of land to each, they to pay Newcomb £20. July 13, 1672, he employed Samuel Bridge, carpenter, to build him a "Leantow one foote wider than now it is and the length of his house and shingle it and the back side of his house and find shingles and shingle nayles for the work"; consideration £5: 15s: od.; work to be finished by the last of July, 1672. (From Suffolk Court files No. 1157.)

Probate Files, Boston, Andrew Newcombe, boatman, signs bond of guardianship of Mary Ricks, 22 May 1680; John Ricks, guardian of said Mary Ricks. Suffolk Deeds, Vol. 10, page 358, Andrew Newcomb, mariner, for £67: 16s :3d., bought of Simon Lynde, merchant, and Sarah, wife of Joseph Goodale, the administratrix of Thomas Ricks, the right to redeem an estate in Boston mortgaged to Lynde by Thomas Ricks in 1677, date 13 Apr. 1681. Again, Vol. 12, page 46, Andrew Newcomb of Boston, and wife, Grace, for £25, sold John Ricks all right in house near Mill Bridge that belonged to Thomas Ricks, then deceased, date 14 Apr. 1681.

The old dwelling-house, where Capt. Newcomb lived 1663 to 1681, was built in 1641 and was located upon the lot now numbered 182 Hanover street; the new dwelling-house, where John and Thomas Ricks lived, was upon the lot which is now No. 184; and the new house, built by Capt. Newcomb upon land which he bought 13 April 1681 and where he lived from 1681 till his death, 1686, was located where is now No. 166 Hanover street, Boston. Hanover street in a very early day was known as the "Way to the New Meeting House" (2d Church), afterwards Middle street. (See map.)

Page 281 of Charlestown, Mass., Records shows shipment of cattle, etc., 28 Feb. 1666-7 by John Page, of Boston, in Ketch (name blank), Andrew Newcome, Master, for Virginia for account of John Ely and Eliakim Hutchinson—various horses described—avouched by Mr. Page, being bought of Capt. Hutchinson and Samuel Gough.

Capt. Andrew Newcomb was defendant in a suit for damages, held in the County Court at Boston, 25 April 1676, in which he was accused of "Willfully or carelesley runinge upp on a small boat with my Shallop." The court decided against him and he appealed the case 31 Aug. 1676.

New York Col. MSS. at Albany, Vol. 29, page 13, date 28 Aug. 1679, show "Andrew Newcombe" to have been "Master of ye Sloope Edmund and Martha," then in the port of New York and bound for "Boston in New England"—probably from Virginia, a part of his lading being tobacco.

Suffolk Court files at Boston contain depositions of Philip Foxwell, in which the statement is made that Andrew Newcomb was with his (Newcomb's) vessel in Saco River from Boston, Oct. 1684.

The signature of Andrew[1] Newcomb may be found upon several documents on file in Boston, and, while there is considerable difference in penmanship and also in spelling, his signature is readily distinguished from that of Andrew[2]. There is a family resemblance in the forming of letters in the word Andrew but a difference in spelling of Newcomb; Andrew[1] usually spelled the name Newcombe, but at other times he has dropped the final e. In one document where he witnessed a deed, 20 Sept. 1686, Matt Mayhew to John Boult, both of Martha's Vineyard, the name is written Andrew Nucombe. This signature is evidently that of Andrew[1], as it corresponds closely to his signatures upon other known documents. He was appointed administrator of the estate of his daughter, Susannah Blague, 13 Oct. 1681, and upon this document he wrote his name Andrew Newcombe, while upon a bond with his daughter Susannah, in settling the estate of her first husband, Philip Blague, he wrote Andrew Newcomb. (Both bonds are on file.)

Andrew Newcomb

Capt. Newcomb's will is recorded upon Suffolk Probate, Vol. 11, page 48, an exact copy of which is hereafter given. His signature to it indicates an expert writer; it is written with a worn quill pen, apparently with no hesitating or faltering movement, and the ink has continued jet black though written more than 230 years ago.

From the omission of either bequest or mention in his will of a son, Andrew^{2} Newcomb, a doubt has been expressed of his relationship, but the fact that "Capt. Newcomb, at the time of the making of his will held peculiar relations to his grandchild Newcomb Blague, who demanded from his youth and condition as an orphan (then twelve years old, and the only living child of his parents) his most conscientious consideration, and that his child Grace^{2} Newcomb, by his second wife, had in her mother a watchful guardian or friend in presenting her claims to the consideration of Capt. Newcomb; all of which easily and plainly may account for the diversion of his property from his son Lieut. Newcomb. It needs but to be added that in colonial times, where bequests were not made to children of the testator, their names were frequently omitted. This much is known, that both Capt. Andrew^{1} Newcomb and Lieut. Andrew^{2} Newcomb were living in America at or near Boston at the same time, and in command of sailing craft; and that at the time Capt. Newcomb made his will Lieut. Newcomb was living at Martha's Vineyard in circumstances of worldly prosperity, and in no need of pecuniary aid. Other facts are given in the following pages, all of which go to show that Lieut. Andrew Newcomb was a son of Capt. Andrew Newcomb, by his first wife, and an own brother to Susannah^{2}." No inventory or settlement of his estate appears upon record or on file in Boston.

That Capt. Newcomb was a man of education is shown from the specimens of his writing, still extant, that exhibit facility with the pen in times when it was a common occurrence for men of property and respectability to sign their wills and deeds with a cross. And, since it appears that he was a shipmaster for so many years on the Atlantic coast, it is clear he must have been possessed of nautical skill. Nor would he have become a mariner if he had not been a person of courage, for in those days, even more than at present, it was necessary for one to be brave to "go down to the sea in ships." That he was a man of vigor and enterprise, like all the New England pioneers, needs no proof, and that he was characterized by something of the same uprightness that the author trusts still belongs to those who bear the name of Newcomb seems absolutely certain. Finally, that he was a peaceable citizen, a good husband and father, occupied with the common interests of mankind, as his descendants of to-day, is no mere conjecture, but a reasonable certainty.

By Rankin she had:

5. Andrew, b. 13 July 1693.

2. Lieut. Andrew[2] Newcomb (Andrew[1]) was b. about 1640, exact date and place unknown, d. after 20 Aug. 1706 and before 22 Oct. 1708 at Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard; m. first, about 1661, place unknown, Sarah ——— who, d. about 1674 at Kittery, Me. He m. second, in Edgartown, 1676, Anna Bayes, b. about 1658 in Edgartown, dau. of Capt. Thomas and Anna (Baker) Bayes of Edgartown. She d. at Edgartown in the summer, or Sept. 1731, ae. 73 years.

Andrew[2] Newcomb was residing at the Isles of Shoals as early as July 1666, as at this date he attended a meeting at the Isles of Shoals, near Portsmouth, N. H., of several merchants and men engaged in the fisheries, for the purpose of fixing the price of fish.

In a case brought by Richard Endell of the Isles of Shoals against Jonathan Wade of Ipswich in March 1672, for fish and oil delivered to Wade for several years, the case turned on the price of fish in 1666; and to this Mr. Newcomb made affidavit, which is now on file among the court papers at Salem, Mass. This affidavit, written by Mr. Hathorne, reads as follows:

> Andrew Newckum aged thirtey tow yeares or theare aboutt Swaren and Saith that in the year 1666 the prise off ffish wass Sett and mad at the Illes off Showles marchanabell fish—thirtey tow Railles per quntel this deponent then Receued Seuerall poundes in marcha fish att the prise Corrantt aboue Rightin and this deponent Knew no other prise Corrantt Butt that aboue Rightin and fforder Saith nott

By the foregoing it is shown that Mr. Newcomb was born about 1640. Jenness, in his history of The Isles of Shoals, says:

> "Kittery is the least quantity of land of any town in the county. To the town of Kittery was attached the north half of the Isles of Shoals; was then and has ever since been attached. This portion of Kittery was 'the N.½ of 'the Isles of Shoales.' This N½ consisted of two islands, Hog Island and Smutty Nose (alias Church) called Georges part or northerly part of the group. These isles contained the better land but Star Island, on account of their convenience for the fisheries, was very early lined with fishing stages and studded with fish houses—taken up before 1660. Majority of people lived upon the northerly islands.
> "While the Church, Court House and principal Ordinary still remained on Smutty Nose, about 1629 the southerly half of the Shoals was reclaimed from Mass., and annexed to N. H., the new Province, and a large part of the inhabitants of the northerly half removed across the harbor to Star Island. No less than 40 families crossed over from Hog Island at the time. Courts ceased to be held on Smutty Nose after 1684."

Women were excluded from the islands, 1635 to about 1647, at which time the court refused a petition to exclude the wife of John Renolds from the Isles. In 1650 this law was practically annulled. The Isles were called "Appledore" in 1661; they are situated in the ocean about nine miles southeast of Portsmouth.

The earliest record found of Andrew[2] Newcomb's purchase of land in this country is upon deeds at Alfred, York Co., Maine, Vol. 2, page 162, date 20 Apr. 1669, from which it appears that Daniel Moore of Portsmouth, blacksmith, for £58, sold Andrew Newcomb of Kittery, York Co., Me., fisherman, a dwelling-house in Kittery, near Thomas Spinney's and formerly in the tenure and occupation of James Emberry (Emery), also, 6 acres of land adjoining the house at Emberry's (Emery's) Point. The house and land, as above, "next to the land of Spinney's of Kittery side," were sold 7 July 1674 to John Cutt of Portsmouth; and he sold the same 8 Jan. 1674-5 to Samuel Fernald, who bequeathed them, 1698, to his son, Nathaniel; and Nathaniel, again, in 1743, to his son, Nathaniel. This place in Kittery, York Co., Me., is on the southeast side of the mouth of Spinney Creek, and bounded westerly by the Piscataqua River, about half a mile from the city of Portsmouth and owned and occupied by Miss Sally Carter in 1874. He also appears to have owned other land at Kittery, record of purchase not found.

York Deeds at Alfred, York Co., Me., 3/123-4—"William Hearle and wife Beaton of Portsmouth, for valuable sum of money and goods, sell John Fernald of Kittery, Shoemaker, all that parcel of land which was formerly in possession of Andrew Newcomb, lying in Kittery near unto and butting upon ye Broad Cove commonly called Spinny's Cove, containing 20 acres, being 40 rods broad butting upon said Cove and having the land of Christian Ramix (Remich) on the South side, and the land of John Saward on ye North side, and so runs 80 rods east into the woods; which said land was sold by William Hilton unto the said Andrew Newcomb." Deed acknowledged 1 Feb. 1680 and recorded 26 Apr. 1683.

Mr. Newcomb held the office of constable and was living at the Shoals or in Kittery in 1671, as shown by the following from York Court Records, Book E, page 51:

> Septembr : 8 : 1671 Marke Roe complaynd of by Andrew Nucum Constable of ye Yles of Shoales for threatening to break his bones and tearing of his shyrt, & other uncivill behayo^rs^ towards him, in the execution of his office, vpon his serueing of an Attachment: from the . . . for the breach of his bonds And further the Constable complayns of seuerall Oaths sworn by the s^d^ Roe in comeing ouer, who upon examination the s^d^ Marke Roe confesed before mee y^t^ hee was provoaked to sware seurall oaths Probate at Exeter, first file, Edward Carter's estate owed Andrew Newcomb 12 shillings 16 May 1672.

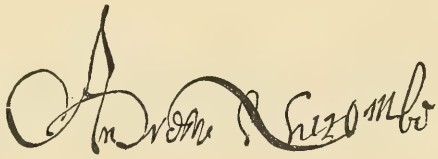
Among the court papers (filed in covers at office of deeds) at Exeter, N. H., is an original bond given by Mr. Newcomb, in which he agrees to appear at next county court at Dover, the last Tuesday in June 1673, to answer complaint of Francis Small for withholding the "Hull of a ffishing shallop of s^d^ Smalls receiued of Thomas Trickie by virtue of s^d^ Small's order." The case came to trial 26 June 1673, at which time Lydia Green testified that she heard Small agree with "Andrew Newcombe of the Ile of Shoales that he would carry on one quarter part of A fishing voyage at ye Ile of Shoales in the Shollop that the said Andrew Newcombe rec^d^ of Mr Thomas Tricky pr order of s^d^ Small and this was sometime about Nouember or December last past." The case was withdrawn, there being no cause for action. Below is a facsimile of Mr. Newcomb's autograph signed to the bond 19 June 1673, more than 240 years ago.



The name of his first wife, Sarah ———, whom he m. about 1661, has been found but once upon record. From deeds at Exeter, N. H., Vol. 3, p. 80, it appears that "Andrew Newcombe, of Hogg Island (so called from its rude resemblance to a hog's back) on ye Ile of Sholes," fisherman, for £52 in merchantable fish, sold Henry Platts, of same place, with consent of his wife, Sarah, house on Hog Island (not described) 19 July 1673, in the 25th. year of Charles the Second, deed recorded 21 July 1673. From the foregoing it would seem that Mr. Newcomb had previously lived upon Hog Island and after the purchase of his house in Kittery he removed his family to the mainland.

At the time of his residence upon the Shoals they were places of resort, and the Church, Court House and principal Ordinary being located upon Smutty Nose or Church Island, together with the fishing industry, in which Mr. Newcomb was engaged, caused the islands to be preferred for residences until later, when the mainland became more thickly settled.

"Att a County Court houlden at Wells for the County of Yorke July 7, 1674, the Worshipfl Major Tho. Clarke, Praesident, Major Bryan Pendleton, Mr. Geo. Munjoy, Edw— ReCor. Assotiates.

Mr John Cutt is plantiffe in an action of debt Contra Andrew Newcom Defendt. In ye action Capt. Davess is taken off and Capt. Charles Frost is put in his place. The Jury finds for ye Plantiffe 16:00:0 one halfe in marchtble fish & ye other halfe in refuge fish, according to bill: 5s Damage & costs of Court 25 & 6d."

Mr. Newcomb removed from Kittery and Isles of Shoals in the year 1674 or early in 1675. From the foregoing it will be seen that after the decision of the Court at Wells (7 July 1674) he turned over to John Cutt his house and land in Kittery and, his wife having died previously, he took his seven young and motherless children to a more favorable locality, for it is possible that the Indians had become troublesome in that locality, as King Philip's war broke out in June 1675, and this may have influenced him in his removal. He settled at Edgartown, on the Island of Martha's Vineyard, the same year, where he became a proprietor and at various times received shares in the divisions of lands in that town and where he and his wife both died.

That Mr. Newcomb was one of the prominent citizens of Martha's Vineyard is shown by the fact that he was juror at quarter court at Eastham 25 Sept. 1677 and 28 Dec. 1680; foreman of grand jury Sept. 1681, June 1700 and 1703, and 7 Mar. 1704; constable in 1681; was chosen 25 Nov. 1685, with two others, "to make ye governors rate of three half penny upon ye pound"; tithing-man 10 May 1693; select-man 1693-4; and overseer 16 Mar. 1693-4. His name appears many times upon record as witness to deeds, etc. Upon the records of Martha's Vineyard, Mass., he is in nearly every case called "Mr." a title then conferring more honor and distinction and doubtless commanding higher respect than that of "Hon." at the present day. There are reasons for believing that he was a merchant several and perhaps many years. On the 18th. Feb. 1683 he paid Nathaniel Fryer £3: 11s. in feathers.

Land Records, Edgartown, Dukes Co., Mass., Vol. 1, p. 219.

"Received this 18th of February 1683 from Mr. Andrew Newcomb of Edgartown upon Martin Vineyard the sum of three pounds, eleven shillings in feathers for account of my father Nathaniel Fryer in full of all debts dues and demands from the beginning of the world to this day. "October ye 27th 1684 voted that Mr. Newcomb Joseph Norton and Thomas Butler are chosen to make up ye accounts of ye men that have done any Seruice for ye Town or Layed out any money for ye town and to make a Rate and to sett all things to Rights and to make all Rates for this year."

Maj. Wait Winthrop in a letter to Gov. Phips, no date but received 21 Oct. 1692, mentions "Mr. Newcomb"; and in a letter Simon Athern to the Governor and Council Oct. 1692 says: "being sensable of much troble on marthas vineyard for want of dew settlement of the affairs of that Iland And Considering the present state of persons and things there I humbly shew that if Mr. Andrew Newcomb be made Cheefe Justice And Mr. Joseph Norton & Mr. James Allen Justices there who are reputed welthy and having such influence in the people there, will be most Reddy way to settle your government there."

Mr. Newcomb's first purchase of land on Martha's Vineyard was made 13 Feb. 1677, of John Daggett, for £25, 10 acres land, "according to the bounds thereat as it was layed out, unto John Freeman, Blacksmith, and to him granted by the said town; as likewise half a Commonage in the said townshippe; for him, the said Andrew Newcomb, to have and to hold the aforesaid land and p^r misses, with the now dwelling house thereon standing and being, with all and singular the outhouseing barnes shoppes hovells fence and fencing stuff on the said land and p^r mises being." This land situated on the south side of the village, together with a house-lot, he sold Israel Daggett for £40, 3 Feb. 1702. May 13, 1686, he bought of Jacob Washaman and Notickquanum (also written Wonnottoohquanam) alias Elizabeth, his wife, Sachem, and Queen of Nunpauque, for £5, a piece of land called Job's Neck, alias Sapotem or Sapotamane, running into a pond on south side of the township, bounded southerly by pond, easterly and westerly by coves of water to Mill Path (also written Milne Path). He sold this land, Job's Neck, 22 Jan. 1701-2, to his son, Simon[3], one of the witnesses to the deed being Peeter[3] Newcomb.

He sold for £22 land at Sanchacantaket, bought of Misam alias Wabamuck; and in 1700 he sold the land, later occupied as a famous camp-meeting ground on Martha's Vineyard. (Vol. 3, p. 320.)

In June 1703 he, with others, gave Samuel Holman, the tanner, a lot of land "to encourage him in his business." Mar. 10, 1709-10, Thomas Harlock sold lands bought of "Mr. Andrew Newcomb, late deceased." He owned the land in Edgartown upon which the Court House was afterwards built.

Mrs. Newcomb's name is in the earliest preserved list of church members, 13 July 1717; also in the list of 24 Jan. 1730-1. She received in 1680, by will of her father dated 4 Feb. 1679-80, £50; also, a three-eighths interest in his real estate, which was increased by rights of her sister bought by Mr. Newcomb in 1686. Of the Indian lands of Capt. Bayes Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb owned, in 1688, three and a half shares at Sanchacantaket, near the camp-meeting ground, ten acres at Pompineches Neck, and one half-share on the Island of Chappaquiddick.

In 1710 Mrs. Newcomb sold 5 acres of land near the court house in Edgartown, formerly from her father, and in 1716 she, "widow, Relict of Andrew Newcomb, late of Edgartown," sold her stepson, Simon[3] Newcomb, for £20, land in Edgartown. In 1728 she sold her dau. Mary "all my household goods, to enter upon at my decease."

Mr. Newcomb was chosen Lieut. of Militia 13 Apr 1691, and that he was in command of fortifications is shown from the following:

Mr. Newcomb appears to have died without making a will, and no inventory or settlement of his estate has been found upon record.

By his first wife he had seven children, all of whom appear to have been born in the vicinity of Kittery, Me. By his second wife there were eight children, all of whom were married and had families, and although no record of their births has been preserved yet their relationship as brother and sisters, also that they were children of Andrew[2] and Anna Newcomb, has been authenticated by a plea for partition of land brought 1 Oct. 1731, in which all, or nearly all of the children and heirs are named.

Ebenezer Hawes in 1715; appointed Capt. 1720. He was one of the first seven members of the church, organized 1720, and was prominent in controversies which arose between Rev. Hugh Adams and Rev. Samuel Osborne, the Eastham minister. In his will, dated 10 Jan. 1732-3, he mentions Emlin, his brother Samuel's wife; no children or grandchildren are mentioned. His widow was living as late as 29 Mar. 1743, when she joined with her sister Emlin and husband in conveying by deed to their nephew, Bayes[4] Newcomb, "all our land in Edgartown," which they had doubtless inherited from their parents.

7. x. JOSEPH, b. 1683. x

xi. EMLEN or EMELINE, sometimes called "Emblem," b. about 1685, d. before 26 Aug. 1768; m. 8 Apr. 1703, Samuel[2] Atkins (Henry[1]), b. 25 June 1679, d. before 9 Aug. 1768, a brother to Capt. John Atkins who married Elizabeth Newcomb, his wife's sister. They also settled at Chatham, where he held various town offices, being juryman in 1728, selectman for three years from 1736. His name does not appear on the tax list or records of the town after 1755, but his estate was not administered upon until 9 Aug. 1768, when his son, Henry, was appointed administrator; inventory taken 26 Aug. 1768, estate settled 8 Aug. 1769. No mention is made of his widow, and the entire estate was assigned to his son, Henry, he paying to his sisters certain sums of money. Children, order of births uncertain: 1 Eunice, b. 1704, d. 2 Jan. 1790; m. about 1726 Solomon Collins, son of John. xv. MARY, b. about 1700, d. 19 Sept. 1784; m. 13 June 1728, Jonathan Pease of Edgartown, son of John. His will was proved 14 Feb. 1738. On 5 Apr. 1743, she sold to her nephew, Bayes[4] Newcomb, for £20, "all estate descended to me from father and mother, Andrew and Ann Newcomb, excepting my lot at harbor" at Edgartown. Children: 1 Mary Pease, bapt. 7 Nov. 1736. 2 Anna, bapt. 7 Nov. 1736. 3 Sarah, bapt. 21 Aug. 1737.

3. SIMEON[3] NEWCOMB, also written Simon (Andrew[2], Andrew[1]), b. about 1662. The name of his wife or the dates of their death are not on record.

He resided in the north part of Eastham, now Truro, Cape Cod, Mass. January 28, 1701-2, "voted to make inquiry concerning a whale whitch (it is said) Simon Newcomb and Rich[d] Rich cut up at Billingsgate last year." Mr. Newcomb was chosen fence-viewer in 1702. There was laid out to him in 1711, as one of the proprietors of Truro, two pieces of land—4 acres for his tenement on Lieutenants Island, 2 acres in northeasterly corner and 2 acres northeasterly of Samuel Mayo, Jr's, lot. "A record of the divition of the pond of Moonpoon and the Old Field at Eastern Harbor in ye north part of Truro called Moonpoon old field divition as they were laid out and lotted and bounded for ye proprietors thereof on ye fourth day of March 1711-12 the 6th lot fell to Wm. Dyer Simeon Newcomb and Daniel and Benj. Small," 12 acres. He received, by division, other lots of land near the line of Eastham and Truro and near Pamet Point.

His name, as also those of his sons, Simon and Andrew, was signed 12 June 1711 to a petition of the inhabitants of Billingsgate, a village of Eastham, "desiring John Done to go before the governor and seek remedy for difficulties they were subject to." The petition is now on file in Vol. 113, p. 606, of Mass. Archives at Boston. The following names were signed to the petition: "John Latimer, Elisha Eldridge, Simon Newcome, Timothy Cole, Richard Rich, Jonathan Young, Benjamin Young, John Myrick, John Ruick (Rich ?), Simon Newcomb, Jr., Isaac Baker, William Cole, Isaac Perse, Andrew Newcomb, Elisha Eldridge, Jr., James Brown, Eleazer Wood, John Wood, Sam'l. Wellfleet, 1761, 1778; was caretaker of Indian lands; was appointed executor of his brother's, George Ward's, estate 4 Dec. 1776. 2 George Ward.

10. vi. JOHN, b. about 1695-6. x

vii. ELIZABETH, b. ———, d. ———, m. 10 Apr. 1718, Charles Paine.

4. SIMON[3] NEWCOMB (Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) was born about 1665, probably at Kittery, York Co., Maine, and d. at Lebanon, Conn., 20 Jan. 1744-5. He m. at Edgartown, Mass., about 1687, Deborah, b. about 1664 and d. in Lebanon, 17 June 1756.

It is possible that at the time of his birth his parents were residing upon one of the islands of the group called "Isles of Shoals," situated in the ocean, a few miles from Kittery and Portsmouth. It appears that the first four years of his life were spent on what was then called Hog Island or Appledore, the most picturesque of the "Shoals." The next four years were spent on the mainland, in the village of Kittery. Soon after he was eight years old the family removed to Edgartown, on the Island of Martha's Vineyard, Dukes Co., Mass., where they remained until the autumn of 1713, when his father established the family at Lebanon, New London Co., Conn.

Mr. Newcomb's name first appears upon record as owning land at Sagadahock, Me., in 1686. Under date of 26 July 1693, he bought land; recorded Salem, Me., 28 Aug. 1693, "near the mouth of Sagadahock River." On the 13th of Mar. 1693-4, he bought of Thomas Wallen, for £10, Meadow at Manado, by the beach, one share called the Purchase, 10 acres upland a half-mile from the harbor, adjoining Mill Path, and half of Common, on Martha's Vineyard. He was named in the will of Wm. Vinson of Edgartown, 10 May 1690, as one to see that the provisions of the will were faithfully executed. He owned several shares of land upon the Island of Chappaquiddick, across the channel, and a short distance southeasterly from the village of Edgartown, where he kept large numbers of cattle and sheep—his mark a "slit on ye Right Ear."* As one of the proprietors of lands in Edgartown, Mr. Newcomb received several shares, the first in 1695. He made several purchases of lands at Pohoggannut, near Job's Neck. Under date of 22 Jan. 1701-2, Simon Newcomb bought of his father, Andrew[2] Newcomb, for £50, a tract of land called Job's Neck, alias Sopotaming, situated four miles southwest from the village of Edgartown, and bounded on the south and west by what is now known as Job's Neck Pond, and two years later purchased two shares of adjoining land. In 1707 there was granted to him by the freeholders, a certain tract of land, "to extend from his corner bounds of Job's Neck, next to Pohoggannut, and so to come six rods above his house, and thence upon a straight line to the head of his corner next to Pokitipasses Neck." Upon this large farm—the result of purchases and grants as above—he lived for many years. His house must have been in full view of the blue Atlantic. In 1710-11 Mr. Newcomb bought of Susannah, widow of Wm. Vinson, for £40, shares in meadow in Sanchakantachet Neck and Commonage—later the celebrated camp-meeting ground near Holmes Hole, in the town of Tisbury. In 1716 he bought of his stepmother, Anna Newcomb, for £20, land in Edgartown, bounded easterly by Weentucket, northerly by Mill Path to the utmost extent of town, southerly by ponds and cove. He also owned lands at Swan Neck Point, and at other places, all on Martha's Vineyard. His lands on Chappaquiddick he sold to various persons; a part of his home farm at Job's Neck he sold, 6 Mar. 1711-12, to Samuel Smith. June 1, 1713, for £27, he sold to his brother, Joseph[3] Newcomb, a half-share meadow at Felixes Neck, and 6 acres at Manado; also, 10 June 1714, for £7: 12s: 6d., half of the 15th in Farm Neck. Joseph[3] Newcomb sold these lands in 1727 to John Worth of Edgartown for £70, and described them in his deed as lands "which I bought of my brother Simon Newcomb, late of Edgartown." In 1734 Mr. Newcomb sold to his son Thomas[4], for £70, all rights by heirship of all estate in Edgartown—doubtless as heir to his father, Andrew[2]. His name appears several times in land titles of Tisbury; and a cart path—long known as "Simon Newcomb's Path"—leads to that place.

Mr. Newcomb made several purchases of land in Lebanon, Conn. He gave farms to each of his sons (except Simon, who received the homestead) the consideration being "love, goodwill and affection." Mr. Newcomb's earliest purchase of lands in Lebanon was made of Israel and Mary Phelps, 26 Sept. 1711, for £290, about 160 acres on the eastward side of town, with the "buildings, orchards, gardens, fences, fencing stuff and fruit trees thereon; also, 50 acres common right, and 30 acres common at the village." The farm, situated on the south side of Windham road, near Phelps hill, two miles and fifty-two rods northeasterly from the town of Lebanon, and about three-fourths of a mile beyond the old cemetery, was described then as "butting on the highway that goeth towards Windham northwestwardly, being about one hundred and sixty rods at said highway lying against the heirs of John Hadlock's land northeastwardly and butting against land of Mr. Samuel Bliss southeastwardly and lying against Abel Janes land southwestwardly." Mr. Newcomb lived upon this farm, one of the very best in the locality, until his death, when it went by will to his son Simon, by whom it was conveyed in 1761 to Silas Sprague for £750, by whom it was sold the following year to Jabez Dean, of Norwich. Mr. Dean sold it, 1773, by one deed, the purchasers being Daniel and Joshua Lothrop, of Norwich; and Nathaniel Greene, Jonathan Simpson, Esq., John Hancock, Esq. (first President of Continental Congress), and Ebenezer Storer, all of Boston, Mass. The farm was later owned and occupied in part by Asa N. Burgess and F. H. Simpson.

Mr. Newcomb served as a member of various committees in town affairs; in May 1693 had "full power and order for ye ordering of ye sheep & cattle"; signed a venire as Constable of Chelmark, 1699 (according to Court Record); was chosen to settle bounds of lands in 1704; viewed lands to find Thomas Peas' dividend on 28 Jan. 1705; found record of town's bounds 5 Mar. 1705-6; in 1710 he was chosen by his townsmen as "Field Driver" at Edgartown. Simon Newcomb took the Freeman's Oath at Lebanon and was elected highway surveyor in 1714. On 15 Sept. of the same year he was one of a "Comity" of three for building "meetin" house in Hebron, and reported, 5 Oct. following, a proper site for same. In 1718 he was chosen grand juryman; in 1721 he was appointed guardian to Caleb Jones and in 1741 was chosen fence viewer.

That Mr. Newcomb and his wife belonged to the churches of Edgartown and Lebanon there can be no doubt; but the loss of early records makes it impossible to give positive proof. That they had a family of about twelve children, baptized in infancy, is proven by a tradition, entitled to the very highest respect, and furnished by John Burton[7] Newcomb, in 1873, then 64 years of age, who stated that his father's mother, Mercy (Gore) Newcomb, his contemporary twenty-four years, informed him that her husband's father, Simon[4], who died when she was twenty-four years old, told her that he was the youngest (or nearly the youngest) of a large family, about twelve in number, all of whom were in their infancy presented to the Lord in baptism and prayer by their pious and truly exemplary parents. (This leaves an opening for other children, providing a record of such can be found, who perhaps died young.)

The following is a copy, verbatim et literatim, of the Will and Inventory of Simon Newcomb, from Windham Probate Records, Vol. 3, pages 169 to 172. The original will is not on file.

Deborah moved to Lebanon 1713. Timothy Hatch moved to Tolland when a young man and purchased land in 1721. They settled at Tolland, Conn., where their children were born. Fourteenth May 1739, he, of Tolland, bought, for £300, land in Kent, Conn., to which place he removed. On 12 May 1743, he was commissioned Captain of the Train Band. He and his wife were received into the church at Kent 28 June 1741, and he was appointed the first deacon on the 31 July of the same year. Captain Hatch laid out the town of Kent and was an influential citizen. He owned considerable land in the vicinity and served as justice of the peace. 16. ix. SIMON, b. about 1705. x

5. THOMAS[3] NEWCOMB (Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. about 1668 at Kittery, Me., or immediate vicinity. No record of his death remains. He m. at Eastham, Mass., the first week of October 1693, Elizabeth, b. June 1674 and d. ———, dau. of Josiah and Deborah[3] (Hopkins) Cook (Giles[2], Stephen[1]—Mayflower line) and granddau. of Joseph Cook of Eastham, 1635.

They resided in the northern part of Eastham, and the births of their first three children are recorded there. The baptisms of their other six children are recorded in the Congregational Church at Truro, 2 June 1717. At a meeting of proprietors of Pamet Lands, 2 July 1703, three or four acres of land near the swamp above Thomas Newcomb's were granted to Michael Atwood. In Pratt's History of Eastham, Thomas is said to have been son of Simeon Newcomb, but no evidence has been found going to show that such was the case. Mr. Newcomb's name is upon an original petition from the inhabitants of Billingsgate, alias North Eastham, to the legislature, 1723, concerning attendance on public worship, the petition now on file in Mass. Archives. There is no record of the settlement of Mr. Newcomb's estate. Elizabeth Newcomb of Provincetown, whose estate was administered upon in 1776 by James Pratt of Boston, may have been widow of Thomas Newcomb.

CHILDREN. The last six all baptized 2 June 1717, at Cogregational Church, Truro, Mass.:

17. i. EDWARDS[4], b. 3 Aug. 1695; no further trace.
18. ii. THOMAS, b. 13 Aug. 1697. x
19. iii. SIMON, b. 30 Nov. 1699. x
iv. DEBORAH, b. about 1702, d. ———, m. 28 Jan. 1729, Thomas Larkin (E. and O. Vit. Rec. "Lamkin").
v. MARY, b. about 1704, d. ———, m. 11 Apr. 1723, Luke Stubbs, b. 5 July 1696, Hull, Mass., son of Richard and Rebecca.
20. vi. JOSIAH, b. about 1706, m. at Norton, Mass., 16 Feb. 1758, Esther Briggs of Easton.
vii. ELIZABETH, b. about 1708, d. ———; m. 24 July 1729, Joshua, b. 1707, d. 1760, son of Isaac and Esther Pierce and brother of Joseph Pierce who married Susannah, (No. 19-ii). Children: 1 Samuel Pierce, b. 1730 at Eastham. 2 Dan, b. ———, m. Eliza Atwood. 3 Joshua, b. about 1740.
21. viii. EBENEZER, b. about 1710. x
22. ix. JOSEPH, b. about 1712. x

6. PETER[3] NEWCOMB (Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. about 1674, probably upon the Isles of Shoals, near Portsmouth, N. H., d. prior to 31 Mar. 1723; m. in Sandwich, Mass., 11 Mar. 1699-1700, Mercy Smith, dau. of Shubael and Annie Smith of Chilmark. The date of her birth or death is not known. Her brother, Shubael Smith, m. Martha Mayhew, whose mother's brother, Andrew Rankin, m. Grace[2], dau. of Capt. Andrew[1] Newcomb of Boston.

In the record of his marriage to Mary Smith, Mr. Newcomb is said to be "late of Edgartown." He established the family home at Sandwich, Mass., where he kept an inn or public-house until his death. The inn passed into the hands of his son, William, and his grandson, William Newcomb, and for many years remained in the possession of the family. The name of Peter Newcomb appears as a witness to a deed, dated 22 Jan. 1701-2, given by his father, Andrew[2], to his brother, Simon[3]. By his will, proved 16 April 1723, he gave all his estate to his wife, Mercy, she to divide it between their two children "as she shall see cause." In Mrs. Newcomb's will, proved 17 Jan. 1723-4, she gave to her daughter, Mercy, silver tankard, big brass kettle, and £150; the real, and the remainder of the personal estate, was given to her son, William. It is recorded that on 5 Oct. 1718, Mercy Newcomb joined the church in Sandwich, whether mother or daughter is not fully established.

Rev. William Holmes, minister at Chilmark, Mass., 1715-1746, wrote the following in his diary under date of 31 Mar. 1723: "I had an account that Mr. Newcomb died lately; he was taken suddenly while (he) was in the cellar drawing molasses, either with an apoplectic fit or a lethargy which carried him off."

i. MERCY[4], or Mary, b. 4 Mar. 1701, at Sandwich, Mass., b. before 1734; published to Jabez Dimmock of Boston, 5 Dec. 1722. He was baptized in Boston 5 Oct. 1719, and d. 15 Jan. 1771. He was probably a son of Shubael and Bertha (Chipman), was a shipwright, and was admitted to Second Church 23 May 1725. On 22 Nov. 1734, Jabez Dimmock and his wife, Elizabeth, are named in a deed of Samuel Staples of Falmouth, York Co., Me. He probably lived in Falmouth as late as 1736, for he is mentioned in a deed in Falmouth dated 23 Dec. 1736.* Children of Jabez and Mercy (Newcomb), b. in Boston: 1 Mercy Dimmock, bapt. 7. CAPT. JOSEPH[3] NEWCOMB (Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 1683 at Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard, Mass., d. just before 17 Jan. 1733, Fairfield, Salem (later Cumberland) Co., N. J., intestate. He m. 20 Nov. 1705, Joyce Butler, b. 1683, d. 1739, dau. of Capt. John and Priscilla (Norton) of Edgartown, and granddau. of Nicholas Butler.

Mr. Newcomb lived for many years in Edgartown. He was a man of prominence and held positions of trust in the community. He was chosen selectman and sealer of weights and measures in 1712 and sealer of weights in 1713. He served as town treasurer and moderator of the town meeting. On 19 Feb. 1718, he was one of a committee to consider the matter of building the meeting house. Three years later, 1721, he was representative from Edgartown to the General Court (Legislature) of Mass. at Boston. Prior to 1722 he was called "Capt.," afterwards "Gent." Doubtless he was a commander or captain of ships; he may have been captain of a military organization.

Besides the lands which he received from his own and his wife's parents he made several purchases between 1713-1722; between the years 1717 and Sept. 1731 he made seven sales of lands. On 17 Feb. 1726-7, Mr. Newcomb sold for £70, to John Worth, two tracts of land "which I bought of my brother Simon Newcomb late of Edgartown." On 21 Sept. 1731, for £490, he sold to Jacob Norton 10 acres adjoining the harbor at Edgartown; also, all right to land in front of house joining to westward part facing the harbor; also, half a gallery pew. In 1732 he removed, with his wife, three sons, and perhaps other children, to Salem (now Cumberland) Co., N. J., and settled in the town of Fairfield, where upon his death, his widow, Joyce, was appointed administratrix of the estate of her "husband Joseph Newcomb late of Salem County." Administration was also granted to his son, Bayes[4], at Edgartown 20 Feb. 1739-40, to settle affairs at Edgartown. The inventory of his estate is dated 4 Nov. 1732, and "praised" at Morris River by Samuel Tomson and Gabrel Glenn. The inventory included "bonds from New England against sundry persons living there." The record speaks of him as "late of Cohansey, Gent." Captain Newcomb and wife were interred in the old cemetery, near where they first landed, at what was called New England Cross Roads. The old cemetery is about one mile south of Fairton on the east bank of Cohansey Creek. The other cemetery at the old stone church is about one and one-half miles southeast from Fairton on the road to Cedarville. A clergyman in New Jersey writes: "They have transmitted to their descendants of the present time a character for morality and religion unsurpassed by any other community." The following is a facsimile of Capt. Newcomb's autograph written in 1703, signed to a deposition in court in Boston.

9. ANDREW[4] NEWCOMB (Simeon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 1680, d. 9 Dec. 1748; m. at Scituate, Mass., 4 Nov. 1708, Mercy[4], b. 28 July 1689, and d. ———, dau. of Thomas and Mercy[3] (Sprout) Oldham (Robert Sprout and Elizabeth[2] (Sampson), Henry[1] Sampson—Mayflower line).

In the record of their marriage it is stated that Mr. Newcomb was "of Eastham." They resided in Scituate until after the birth of their first child, when they settled in the northern part of Truro, Mass., near a place known as "Newcomb's Point." Andrew Newcomb and his wife were admitted to the church at Truro 2 May 1730. He was one of the proprietors of Truro and received by division, 1715-1730, several lots of land. In 1715 he was "to have as much land about where his house now standeth as he hath in the 6th lot of wood land division of Eastern Harbor." In 1716 "Town meeting for settling a School agreed the School shall be kept one half the time at Andrew Newcombs or somewhere thereabouts." In 1723 "agreed the school should be settled the first half year at house of Andrew Newcomb or as near it as may be," and again, in 1730, the same decision regarding the location of the school was made. In 1719 Mr. Newcomb was chosen moderator of town meeting and the three years following, 1720-1-2, he served as selectman. He was a grand juryman in 1730. His cattle mark was "a crop off ye tip of right ear."

There was a Hannah Bullard b. in Dedham 13 Aug. 1704, dau. of Joseph and Mary Bullard. On 2 Nov. 1729, seventeen days after John's marriage to Hannah Bullard, there were baptized at St. Michael's Episcopal Church, at Marblehead, six children of John and Hannah (Newcomb) to wit: Hannah, Elizabeth, Margaret, John, Mary and Henry.

John Newcomb was a master mariner and lived in Salem; removed to Chatham, 1720, where he was constable the same year, was grand juror 1721; returned to Salem, where he was taxed 1726-1737. He was probably the "Captain Newcomb" who subscribed £1 for a bell for St. Peter's church at Salem in 1741. Captain John Newcomb owned no real estate in Essex Co., no grantor nor grantees in the index; nor was there any settlement of his estate in Essex Co.

CHILDREN. By first wife:

i. HANNAH[5], b. 1718, d. 29 Sept. 1796, at Salem, unmarried. Hannah Newcomb, Salem, spinster, made a will 21 Sept. 1796, same probated 10 Nov. 1796. Elizabeth Jeffrey, Salem, is "to retain in her hands certain two bonds, belonging to me, such as will pay for my sickness and funeral expenses, and reimburse her for all her monies she shall have advanced for me, and in addition $20." To Elizabeth Reed, wife of Nathan Reed, and daughter of Elizabeth Jeffrey, she gives $33.34; "all residue to my niece Mary Story of Marblehead, whom I make sole executrix." (Prob. Rec. Essex Co., Mass., Salem, 364: 508.) Mary Story was probably dau. of Robert[5] Newcomb (No. 35), and Mary ———.
ii. ELIZABETH, b. about 1720, d. ———.
iii. MARGARET, b. about 1723, d. ———, m. 31 Mar. 1741, at Salem, James Burwell.
33. iv. JOHN, b. about 1725; no further record.

By second wife:

35. vii. ROBERT, b. ———, d. ———, bapt. Salem, 26 Aug. 1731, and recorded St. Michael's Church, Marblehead, m. Mary ———.
viii. MARY JANE, b. ———, d. ———, bapt. 30 May 1734, Salem, recorded St. Michael's Church, Marblehead; m. 17 Sept. 1752, at Salem, Thomas Jarvis, tailor, of Marblehead. Thomas Jarvis, Marblehead, "Taylor," £150, and wife Jaen, convey 22 July 1788, to Hannah Newcomb, Salem, spinster, a small lot (no house mentioned) on Newton or Rowland's Hill. The deed was recorded 31 July 1788. On even date Hannah Newcomb, Salem, spinster, conveys the same, at same value, to Jane Jarvis, wife of Thomas Jarvis. (Essex Co. Deeds, Salem, 147-256-7.) Thomas Jarvis served as one of the sidesmen, and as one of the vestrymen, several times. He owned pew No. 16, probably purchased 1754, or somewhat earlier, from Thomas Cavendish. Accounts for the pew with the Church extend over a period of years, from 1754 to 1786. The children of Mary Jane and Thomas Jarvis were baptized at St. Michael's Episcopal Church, Marblehead, the historic building erected in 1714, originally in the form of a cross. Children: 1 Mary Jarvis, bapt. 30 Sept. 1753. 2 Susanna, bapt. 18 Jan. 1756. 3 Thomas, bapt. 30 Aug. 1758. 4 John, bapt. 15 Feb. 1761. 5 Hannah, bapt. 15 Jan. 1764. 6 William Beale, bapt. 30 Nov. 1766. 7 Robert, bapt. 13 May 1770.

11. Deacon John[4] Newcomb (Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. in the town of Edgartown (Island of Martha's Vineyard), Mass., about 1688, d. 23 Feb. 1765; m. at Edgartown, 23 Sept. 1709, Alice Lombard, b. 19 Oct. 1686, at Edgartown, d. 8 Jan. 1767, dau. of Jonathan and Elizabeth (Eddy) Lombard of Eastham, granddau. of John and Hepzibah Eddy, and great-granddau. of John[1] Daggett and Joshua and Abigail (Linnell) Lombard.

Deacon John Newcomb removed to Lebanon, Conn., where he was admitted to the First Church, 20 Mar. 1715, and his wife was received into the church 8 June 1718. They settled in the northern part of the town, called the "Crank," "Second Society," or "North Society," which in 1804 was set off from Lebanon as a town under the name of Columbia. Upon the organization of the Second Society, in 1718, he joined it and became first deacon, an office which he held forty-two years, or until his removal to Cornwallis, Nova Scotia, in 1760. The date on which he took the "Freeman's Oath" in Lebanon is not recorded; he was elected surveyor of highways in 1725 and selectman in 1744. He made several purchases and sales of land in Lebanon. On 29 Jan. 1716-17, he bought from Thomas Root 69 acres in the third division; consideration £20. In 1729 he received from his father 20 acres in Lebanon, consideration "love, respect and goodwill that I bear to my son John Newcomb." His name is mentioned many times in the church records. In 1738 he was chosen as "one of the most judicious, prudent and skillful of the brethren of the church to assist in the management of all affairs in church government." In 1741 he was on a committee with Deacon Eliakim Tupper to manage the prudentials of the parish. From the Society Rate Bill, containing one hundred and fifty-four names, made out by them that year for "defraying the necessary charges in ye North Parish in Lebanon," £330 16^{s} 9^{d}, it appears that Deacon John Newcomb paid the highest tax but one in the parish, this tax being £5 11^{s} 2^{d}. Of the amount raised, £290 was for the support of Rev. Eleazer Wheelock, who was their pastor for 35 years, and afterward first president of Dartmouth College. The following is a facsimile of Dea. John Newcomb's autograph upon the Rate Bill:

In 1744 Mr. Newcomb was on a committee to see that a school be kept in the parish the ensuing year.

Tradition says that John Newcomb, at the age of 72 years, made a trip to Nova Scotia in order to investigate conditions. He was so favorably impressed with the country that he returned to Connecticut and immediately began preparations for removing his family to Nova Scotia. Deacon John Newcomb was evidently the recognized head of the family, for it is certain that three generations of Newcombs were among the pioneer settlers. Old Deacon Newcomb worked valiantly with others in bringing the settlement into a condition of order. He was prominent in religious and secular affairs, but his greatest interest was in the establishment of a church. In the summer of 1760 he brought his wife and their children, Eddy, Abigail, and John, and perhaps also Jonathan and their families, to the lands vacated by the deportation of the French Acadians, 1755-6. The three sons were among the grantees of the township of Cornwallis,* 1761. In 1762 Deacon Newcomb assisted in the organization of the First Presbyterian Church, to which many of his descendants have since belonged. The homestead upon which both Deacon Newcomb and his wife died has for generations remained in the possession of their descendants, three consecutive generations bearing the name of John. A correspondent writes: "His descendants were persons of strict uprightness, stern integrity and unflinching perseverance, many having remarkable developments of natural talent and native energy." The town records of Cornwallis contain the following notice of the deaths of Mr. Newcomb and his wife: "Deacon John Newcomb Departed this Life the 22nd day of February Anno Domini 1765." "Ellis (Alice) Newcomb widw of sd Decn John Newcomb Departed this Life January the 8th Day A. D. 1767 Aged about 77½ years."

* The township of Cornwallis, about 40 miles in length and 10 miles in breadth, "containing in the whole 100,000 acres, more or less" was granted July 21, 1761, to proprietors chiefly from Connecticut, invited by Proclamation in the last year of the reign of George II and after the expulsion of the French. The Newcomb grantees were six in number, viz: Eddy, Jonathan, and John, Jr., sons of Dea. John Newcomb, Benjamin (a brother of Dea. John Newcomb), and his son William, also Simon, (youngest brother of Dea. John). Each of the above drew a right and a half—each proprietor was entitled to a right for himself and half right for his family—each right consisted of a town lot of 3 acres, a farm lot of 40 acres, and 700 acres of wilderness land. It appears from this grant that there was an earlier one, which, not fully securing the grantees in their rights and shares therein, was returned; the one on file being a substitute for the first. The following is a complete list of the names of grantees as copied from the grant now on file in Cornwallis: Laurania Akley, Perez Anderson, John Bartlett, John Beckwith, John Beckwith, David Bently, Amos Bill, Esq., Ebenezer Bill, Edward Bill, Ichabod Bordman, Samuel Brewster, John Burbige, William Canada, Ezekiel Caulkin, Jabish Chappell, Mary Chappell, Hezekiah Coggswell, Gorham Cummings, John Dean, Ezra Downer, Abigail[5] (Newcomb) English, Ezekiel Huntington, James Johnson, Lawrence Johnson, Benjamin Kilbourn, Benjamin Kinsman, Francis Morris, Hezekiah Morris, Elkanah Morton, Benjamin[4] Newcomb, Eddy[5] Newcomb, John[5] Newcomb, Jr., Jonathan[5] Newcomb, Simon[4] Newcomb, William[5] Newcomb, Solomon Parish, David Parker, Elisha Parker, Robert Parker, Elisha Porter, John Porter, Samuel Porter, Ethan Pratt, Jonathan Rockwell, Jeremiah Rogers, Samuel Starr, John Steadman, Nathan Styles, Stephen Strong, John Terry, Oliver Thorp, Eliakim Tupper's heirs, Elias Tupper, William Tupper, Abraham Webster, Stephen West, William West, William West, Caleb Wheaton, Peter Wickwire, Dr. Samuel Willowby, Amasa Woodworth, Jonathan Wood, Benjamin Woodworth, Silas Woodworth, Thomas Woodworth, William Woodworth.

12. THOMAS[4] NEWCOMB (Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 1691-2 in Edgartown, Island of Martha's Vineyard, Dukes Co., Mass., d. 1761; m. at Nantucket, Mass., by William Worth, Esq., 28 Oct. 1712, first, Eunice, b. about 1685, d. 7 Dec. 1715, dau. of Dennis and Catharine (Innes) Manning of Nantucket. Thomas Newcomb m. second, 17 Jan. 1720, Judith, dau of Benjamin and Deborah Woodworth of Lebanon, of whose birth or death there is no record.

Mr. Newcomb settled in Lebanon, Conn., about 1714 and resided there until 1739, when he removed to Salisbury, Conn. He is called "cordwainer" in deed of 1734 from his father. Soon after his settlement in Lebanon he became largely interested in mercantile pursuits, which business he followed until 1739, or over 20 years. The venerable Book (No. 5) in which he began accounts, Oct. 1735, and which he appears to have used until 1738, is a prized possession of the family. It was owned by his son Simon[5], and grandson, Dr. Simon[6] Newcomb of Lansingburg, N. Y. This book contains the names of over 350 persons with whom he had business transactions and 80 other individuals are mentioned in connection with the accounts. Among his patrons were his father, Simon[3], and brothers, John[4], Hezekiah[4], Obadiah[4], and Benjamin[4]. His customers were from Colchester, Coventry, Crank Society (a part of Lebanon), Goshen, Hebron, Lebanon, Mansfield, Scotland, Stafford and Windham. He purchased some of his merchandise at Norwich, Conn. The following is a facsimile of his autograph, as written upon the inside of the cover of the account-book, Oct. 1735.

Mr. Newcomb appears to have kept for sale everything wanted by his customers, dry goods, groceries, shoes, "Rhum," etc. On 9 Mar. 1738-9, he settled with James Tuttel (Tuttle), in the following manner:

> Then Reckned and Ballanced all Book Debts, Deues and Demands By giving Each other aquittances from every thing that Ever Concerned either of us from the Beginning of the world to this Day.
>
> James Tuttel
> Thomas Newcomb.

In his account with Benjamin Bisel (Bissell), under date of 28 Dec. 1738, he wrote:

> Then Receved in full of all Book Debts Dews and Demands I say Received by me
> Thomas Newcomb.

Mr. Newcomb was constable from 1721-1724. In 1727 he was Quartermaster of a Regiment in Windham Co., Conn. The next year he was confirmed Quartermaster (see History of Windham Co., p. 262). Oct. 1736 he was Lieutenant of troop in Windham Co., Conn. In 1737, he gave Hannah Harsel credit, 11s. 8d., for schooling his children. The town records show that he made no less than twenty purchases of real estate in Lebanon; the first, 29 Sept. 1718, fifty-nine acres for £46; the land was situated "in that part of the town called Chestnut Hill," and which was set off in 1804 to form the present town of Columbia, and situated one mile, very nearly southeast, from the church in Columbia. His largest purchase was 200 acres for £300. He owned a large tract of land about two miles N. W. from the present village of Lebanon. In 1734 he bought of his father, Simon[3], for £70, all lands, etc. in Edgartown, Mass. (not described), and sold same in 1740, for £100, to his youngest brother Simon[4], "all rights by heirship of our honored father Simon Newcomb, of all estate in Edgartown." Mr. Newcomb was elected surveyor of highways, 8 Dec. 1729, and lived in Lebanon as late as 19 Mar. 1738-9, but removed to Salisbury (then New Haven Co.), Conn., before 11 Oct. following, and became one of the original proprietors of the town. He was moderator of the town meeting, 9 Nov. 1741, and the first chosen selectman. In 1745 he united with the church in Salisbury by letter from the old or First Church in Lebanon. In the ratable estate of Salisbury, 1742-3-4, he stands by far the highest. In 1742 his estate was set down at £137, in 1743 at £194, and in 1744 at £168. He made several grants of land in Salisbury. Near the close of the year 1746 he removed to a place called "Crum Elbow Precinct" or "Little Nine Partners" (it being the 8th division of the "Great Nine Partners") in Dutchess Co., N. Y., about ten miles E. of Poughkeepsie. Little or Upper Nine Partners Patent was granted by the Crown on 10 Apr. 1706, to nine men, Sampson Broughton and others. Mr. Newcomb gave to each of his sons a farm, but whether by will or deed is unknown; no record of settlement of his estate has been found. He resided in what was afterwards called "Charlotte Precinct" in the town of Pleasant Valley. Deacon Moses Barlow and his brother Nathan went to Pleasant Valley from Cape Cod in 1756. In their diary they speak of the kind hospitality extended to them by the Newcombs of Pleasant Valley on their way to their new homes. The house in which Thomas Newcomb lived and died was distant about forty rods in a southwesterly direction from the large brick house afterward erected by his son, Zaccheus[5]. The property, including the two houses, passed by bequest, upon the death of Zaccheus, to Zaccheus' son, Thomas[6], who held the estate during his life, and who was succeeded in the proprietorship by his son, John Hopper[7] Newcomb, who in 1859 disposed of the estate which had been in the possession of the family for four generations.

Mr. Newcomb was interred in Washington Hollow churchyard, about two and a half miles northeast of the brick house. The inscription upon his gravestone is as follows:

His old family bible, printed in London, England, in 1712, is in possession of Cornelius S.[9] Newcomb, whose address in 1913 was, "Gen. Del. Boston, Mass."

13. HEZEKIAH[4] NEWCOMB (Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 1693-4 in the town of Edgartown, Island of Martha's Vineyard, Dukes Co., Mass., d. 15 Aug. 1772, at Lebanon; m. first, 14 Nov. 1716, Jerusha[4] (Thomas[3], William[2], William[1]—Mayflower Line), b. 26 Nov. 1692, at Norwich, Conn., bapt. Montville, Conn., 1693, d. 4 Nov. 1739, dau. of Thomas and Anne (Smith) Bradford. He m. second, 1741, Hannah ———, b. ————, d. 1794, by whom he had no issue. Anne (Smith), mother of Jerusha (Bradford) Newcomb, was the dau. of Nehemiah Smith and his wife Anne, who was the dau. of Thomas and Elizabeth Bourn, early settlers at Marshfield, Mass.

Immediately after his marriage Hezekiah Newcomb settled in Lebanon, Conn., where his entire life was spent. As a youth he learned the trade of carpenter and joiner, probably at New London, Conn., where he joined the church on profession of faith and was baptized 25 Dec. 1715. The New London church published in 1870 a catalogue of persons who had belonged to the church since its foundation in 1670 and omitted the name of Hezekiah Newcomb, as also several others. Hezekiah Newcomb and Jon[a] Clark were agents for the 1st Society of Lebanon, relating to church matters, 4 Jan. 1731-2. Mr. Newcomb was admitted to the church in Lebanon 22 Mar. 1719, and his wife 20 Nov. 1720. He took the "Freeman's Oath" in Lebanon and held various town offices there.

Mr. Newcomb made no less than twelve purchases of lands in Lebanon; the first, 16 Dec. 1717, 114 acres for £62 in northern part of town; in 1726, ten and one-half acres adjoining his brother, Obadiah[4], for £10, 10s., called the Village land. In 1743 be bought eight acres by Ten Mile River; in 1761, for £80, thirty acres at the same place; in 1745, for £105, eighty acres in the village, adjoining Gov. Trumbull. His town tax in 1760 was £5 0s. 1 d., a large tax at that time. In addition to working at his trade, Mr. Newcomb was largely engaged in agricultural pursuits. In some deeds he is called joiner, in others, husbandman and yeoman. From deeds at Springfield it appears that Mr. Newcomb bought, 27 June 1737, of William Clark of Lebanon, for £20, land in Falltown (later called Bernardston), Franklin Co., Mass., and became a proprietor there. He bought in the same place, for £27, fifty acres of Joseph Atherton, 15 June 1739, and in 1741, for £30, lots forty-nine and fifty-six, which he sold in 1770 to his "beloved grandson Hezekiah Newcomb of Lebanon," for "love good-will and affection." At a proprietors' meeting in Falltown, 18 Oct. 1738, Mr. Newcomb drew lot ninety-eight and gave a settler's bond, of which the following is an exact copy:

Know all men by these presents that I Hezekiah Newcomb of Lebanon in the County of windham and Colony of Conneticot in New England Joyner am holden and Stand firmly bound and obliged unto Samuel Field of Deerfield in ye County of Hampshier and Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England Treasurer for the proprietors of the Falls Fight Township above Deerfield afores^d^ So Called, or to his successor in Said Office in the full and Just Sum of one Hundred Pounds Currant Money of New England to be paid unto the Said Sam^ll^ Field in his Capacity afores^d^ or to his Successor in Said office or to his or their Certain Attorney for the use of Said Proprietors to the which payment well and truly to be made I bind my self my Heirs Executors and Administrators firmly by these presents Sealed with my Seal Dated the fifteenth Day of June in the twelfth year of his Majestys Reign Anno q^r^ Domini one thousand Seven Hundred and thirty Nine

A full right in Falltown was about 230 acres. First Division, 50 acre lot and meadow lot of 5 acres; Second Division, 50 acre lot; Third Division, 50 acre lot; Fourth Division, 50 acre lot. The first settlement began about 1738. The deeds of Bernardston, Mass., were recorded at Greenfield after 1787.

Mr. Newcomb sold, for £3, lot 98 referred to in the foregoing, and also the eighteenth lot in the first division, to his son Peter[5], on 25 Dec. 1742.

Mr. Newcomb never settled in Falltown, but his sons Silas and Peter removed there from Lebanon about 1740-1, and remained four or five years. In 1744 the outbreak of the French and Indian War proved most disastrous to the settlers. So frequent were the incursions of the roving bands of Indians, and so great was the danger and alarm of the people, that about that time the settlements of Falltown were partially abandoned, a few persons only remaining, and they lived in stockades or fortified houses called forts. Silas and Peter were compelled to leave and returned to Lebanon. Subsequently, Hezekiah and William[6], sons of Peter[5], settled on adjoining farms on the "Newcomb Road" in what is now Bernardston. Lieutenant Daniel[6] Newcomb, son of Silas[5], settled in that part of Falltown now Leyden; and "from these three families," wrote the late ex-Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts, Henry W. Cushman, "a host of Newcombs have descended, many of them of great intelligence, wealth and moral worth." From various sources comes the tradition that Mr. Newcomb was a deacon: he was held in high veneration by his neighbors, his children and grandchildren. Isaac Foster, of Spencerport, N. Y., states that he was told by his grandmother, Submit[5] (Downer) Newcomb, "that during the whole time of her having her ten children in his (Hezekiah Newcomb's) house, she never heard him speak an angry word. The whole day long he would most always have his Bible in his hands."

Mr. Newcomb was buried in Lebanon near his first wife, and but a few feet from the tomb (vault) of the Trumbull family. The following is a copy of the inscription upon the tombstones of Hezekiah Newcomb and his first wife.

14. CAPT. OBADIAH[4] NEWCOMB (Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. in Edgartown, Mass., 1695, d. 4 May 1761; m. first, Abigail, b. 1693, d. 9 May 1757; m. second, 22 June 1758, Mrs. Mary Post.

His early manhood was spent in Edgartown, and in 1713 he removed to Lebanon, Conn., soon thereafter settling in the adjoining town of Hebron. He was engaged in the military service, hence the title "Capt" upon his tomb, which is situated upon land which he formerly owned, for generations known as the "Newcomb farm." Assembly confirmed him Captain of the company or train band, in the parish of Andover, Conn., and requested that he be commissioned accordingly. The farm above referred to is in that part of Hebron, now Andover, about three-fourths of a mile from the railway station. The homestead was deeded to Obadiah Newcomb's son, Daniel[5], as a gift, on 27 July 1758, and consisted of 250 acres of fertile land. Capt. Newcomb invested in farm lands, and in 1718 purchased fifty acres of Joseph Bradford of New London, Conn. In 1726 he bought ten acres on "Village Hill" adjoining land of his brother, Hezekiah[4]. In 1738 he added seventy acres between "Ten Mile Brook and Hop River," and in 1747 he invested in 100 acres in Sharon, Conn. Like his forebears, Capt. Obadiah Newcomb was an estimable man, a pious Christian, and from Mar. 1727 a member of the Bolton Church.

On 21 Nov. 1727, a road was laid out to the southeast corner of Mr. Obadiah Newcomb's orchard. In May 1743 Obadiah Newcomb's name (with others) was signed to a petition of the residents of Hebron "praying there may be a district ecclesiastical society" there.

The will of Capt. Obadiah Newcomb, dated 25 Oct. 1758, was probated 6 July 1761, according to East Haddam Dist., Vol. 3, p. 112, Records (now Colchester Probate District), and Gives wife Mary 1/3 dwelling house during widowhood and 1/3 personal estate, not given to son. She and son Daniel Executors.

To son Daniel, he gives land in Hebron and Coventry, and 2/3 farming tools, wearing apparel, gun, sword, and cane, bonds, notes and book accounts "due me" (having already given him lands) he paying debts of estate and legacy to daughter.

To daughter Abigail wife of David Barber 100 acres (land) in Sharon, bot of Josiah Owen; 1/3 personal estate and £50 "proclamation money" to be paid 2 years after decease by son Daniel.

To daughter Jemima, wife of Seth Wales two tracts of land in Cornwall 50 acres bot of Palmer, 200 acres bot of Wm. Turner and 1/3 personal estate.—Provision made for Phinehas Ford who was indentured to Capt. Obadiah Newcomb.

Only son, Daniel Newcomb, appeared and accepted trust, 6 July 1761.

15. BENJAMIN[4] NEWCOMB (Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. about 1700 in Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard, Mass., d. ———, at Waterborough, later Canning, in Sunbury Co., New Brunswick, m. Hannah ———. That his wife's surname was Clark is inferred from a charge upon his brother Thomas Newcomb's account book, 12 Oct. 1737, when Mr. Newcomb was debited with seventeen and one-half pounds tallow "by his mother Clark."

Mr. Newcomb "owned covenant" at Lebanon in the oldest church, 15 Oct. 1732. He had resided in Lebanon since the autumn of 1713, when he removed with his father's family, and there resided until 1732, when he went to Willington, Conn. After four years he returned to Lebanon. In 1733 Benjamin Newcomb with his father, Simon[3] of Lebanon, bought land and rights amounting to 171 acres and thirteen and one-half acres commons in Willington. Subsequently Mr. Newcomb established his home in Kent, Conn., where his wife was received to church 6 June 1742, and he, 26 Feb. 1749. The same year he bought 40 acres in Sharon for £700 "old tenor." Oct. 1751 Benjamin Newcomb "of Cornwall Conn.," is on petition. About 1760, soon after the expulsion of the Acadians from Nova Scotia, he removed with his family, except three daughters, to the town of Cornwallis, Kings Co., and became one of the original proprietors in 1761, receiving a half-acre house-lot in the compact part of town for residence, and several large lots in the vicinity as his share. Mr. Newcomb and his wife aided in the organization of the first church in Cornwallis. Tradition says that Mrs. Newcomb was of Scotch descent. Some time after 1775 he removed with his son, Benjamin[5], to Waterborough, New Brunswick, later Canning, where they died. In a letter from Benjamin[5] to his sister Submit, dated 16 Oct. 1818, the statement is made: "Since I have seen you I have buried our honored father and mother, and two near and dear wives, two sons and one daughter."

16. SIMON[4] NEWCOMB (Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. about 1705 in Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard, Mass., d. about 1770 in Cornwallis, N. S. He m. first, in Edgartown, 17 Nov. 1740, Jerusha, b. 1706-7, d. in Lebanon "April ye 13 1748 in ye 42 year of her age" (gravestone), dau. of Thomas and Mehitable (Sarson) Lathrop, and granddau. of Richard Sarson, a merchant, whose wife, Jane (Payne), dau. of Thomas Payne, was the widow of Rev. Thomas[2] Mayhew, son of Thomas[1], in 1642 of Martha's Vineyard. Simon Newcomb m. second, Jane, sister of his first wife, and widow of Nathaniel Worth (son of John), b. 8 Sept. 1687.

Jane Worth had one or more children by Nathaniel Worth, prior to her marriage with Mr. Newcomb. She was a widow and living in Lebanon, Conn., 25 Apr. 1751, where she sold lands in Edgartown derived from her mother and husband, Nathaniel Worth. "Jane Worth alias Newcomb" of Lebanon sold certain interests in lands in Edgartown in 1754 "formerly belonging to Richard Sarson Esq and then to Mrs Mehitable Lathrop dec^d." In deed of 1770, she then a widow of Cornwallis, N. S., speaks of her son, Sarson Worth, deceased, and sells her interests in Martha's Vineyard.

When, in 1755, under orders of the General Assembly a total force of 3,000 men was raised in Connecticut, the payroll of Capt. John Terry's Company, which marched from Lebanon 15 Sept., included "Simon Newcomb, master," signing for Stepn. Harding Williams, Private, who served from Aug. 29 to Dec. 9, 1755; in 1756 against "Crown Point," and in 1757. This signature "Simon Newcomb, master" seems to show that Williams was the bound servant of Simon Newcomb. Simon Newcomb served two weeks (as long as any) in Lieutenant-Colonel David Whitney's company of militia for the relief of Fort William Henry, Aug. 1757. All of this company were Canaan men.

Simon Newcomb, 28 July 1740, bought of his brother, Thomas[4], for £100, "all Rights by Heirship of my Honored father Simon Newcomb of all estate in Edgartown," Mass., the same which Thomas[4] bought of their father in 1734. Mr. Newcomb resided upon his father's farm, which he inherited by will (after paying certain legacies) and which he came into full possession of upon the death of his mother in 1756. In 1760 Mr. Newcomb's tax was £4 3^s 4^d, a large tax for that period. On 15 May 1761, he sold the farm to Silas Sprague for £750.

Mr. Newcomb was chosen by his townsmen for several positions of trust—for example, surveyor of highways and fence viewer, and was a man of prominence in his community. He removed, in the summer of 1761, to Cornwallis, N. S., and was one of the proprietors of that town. He received by division several lots of land in Cornwallis.

With the exception of the year 1743, at Windham, Conn., the residence of Capt. Bayes Newcomb and his wife was in Edgartown prior to 1758, afterward in Tisbury, an adjoining town. Although administration upon his father's estate had been granted in Salem Co., N. J., to his mother in 1733, yet Capt. Newcomb took out letters of administration upon his father's estate at Edgartown, 21 Feb. 1739. In 1740 Capt. Bayes Nwcomb was grand juror. He enlisted, 7 Mar. 1757, in the Tisbury Foot Co., for service in the Old French War. Prior to 1773 Capt. Newcomb was a mariner, a commander of ships, and subsequently a husbandman. Mrs. Newcomb was admitted to the church at Edgartown in 1748 and her husband joined the church in Tisbury 2 Dec. 1770. Capt. Newcomb bought from most of the heirs of his paternal grandparents certain "rights" to lands on Martha's Vineyard, and owned a large property there; he lost nearly all at the time of the Revolutionary War. Two of his sons, perhaps more, were in the service; one, Lieut. Andrew, died "while returning from captivity" (see No. 70). Eight of their children were baptized 4 Dec. 1748.

27. BRIGADIER-GENERAL SILAS[4] NEWCOMB (Joseph[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. at Edgartown, Mass., 17 Apr. 1723, d. 1779, m. 1745, Bathsheba Dayton, b. 1725, d. 1781.

Both General Newcomb and his wife were baptized at Fairfield in 1759, and in the record he is called "Captain." He resided in the town of Fairfield, Cumberland Co., near his brother, William Newcomb. Silas Newcomb served as Lieutenant in the Quebec Campaign of the French War, 1758-1759. He was appointed by the governor as one of the officers to command a regiment at Perth Amboy, N. J., on 28 Mar. 1759. Silas Newcomb was Colonel of the First Battalion of Cumberland Co., New Jersey Militia, 14 June 1776. He commanded a battalion of General Heard's Brigade, New Jersey Militia, at the Battle of Long Island, 28 Aug. 1776. He was promoted to Colonel of the First Battalion, Second Establishment, New Jersey Continental Line, 28 Nov. 1776, and was commissioned Brigadier-General of the New Jersey Militia, 15 Mar. 1777.

On 10 Aug. 1777, Brigadier-General Silas Newcomb writes General Washington at Neshaminy Camp, Penn., that he is assembling his militia. On 11 Aug. 1777, General Washington, then near the Cross Roads, writes Brigadier-General Newcomb, New Jersey, requesting militia for Red Bank.

On 20 Aug. 1777, Brigadier-General Silas Newcomb writes General George Washington at Neshaminy Camp, requesting permission to march his detachment home; he at that time was at Woodbury, N. J.

On 10 Oct. 1777, Alexander Hamilton writes to Brigadier-General Silas Newcomb, requesting militia for Red Bank. On 15 Oct. 1777, General Washington writes Brigadier-General Newcomb and orders him to reënforce Red Bank and hold the place to the last extremity. On 22 Oct. 1777, General Washington writes Brigadier-General Silas Newcomb regarding operations against Fort Mifflin and Red Bank, reënforcements of militia, supplies, etc. On 29 Oct. 1777, David Forman, near Red Bank, N. J., writes General Washington at Whitpain of his attempt to assemble militia, "weather and Brigadier-General Silas Newcomb's obstinacy retarding."

General Silas Newcomb was in command of a force detailed to guard Delaware Bay and to prevent any landing of English forces there. Their services were commemorated and their names perpetuated by the state of New Jersey through the efforts of the Daughters of the American Revolution. A beautiful granite and marble tablet, with the names of Brigadier-General Silas Newcomb, Colonel Isaac Preston, and other officers that were in command of the colonial forces, marks the historic spot.

On 4 Dec. 1777, General Newcomb resigned his commission. In 1760 Silas Newcomb was elected sheriff of Cumberland County. In 1772 he settled the estate of David Datum. On 15 Oct. 1772, he was appointed guardian of Samuel, son of Daniel Elmer of Fairfield; on 23 Feb. 1774, he accepted the guardianship of Moses, son of Aaron Gandy, "late of Downs township, Cumberland County"; on 7 June 1774, Matthias Shaw chose Silas Newcomb as his guardian.

After his marriage Mr. Newcomb removed to Falltown, now Bernardston, Mass., where, on 2 Feb. 1742, he "for £63, bot of Aaron Denior, of Deerfield 1 share house lot No 32 containing 50 acres; also meadow lot No 69 containing 6 acres; also 1 full share in all the undivided land in said township." Also in 1742, Mr. Newcomb was moderator of proprietors' meeting in Falltown. In 1741 his minister's tax was 1. 6s. 3d. On account of the hostility of the Indians he was compelled to leave the country, and returned to Lebanon, where he bought several tracts of land, 1744-1750, near the present village of Columbia. He sold his homestead, 4 July 1759, for £200. His town tax in Lebanon the following year was £1. 9s. 2d. On 4 Mar. 1760, "Eddy Newcomb of Lebanon for £30 sells Rowland Powell Jr., of Lebanon all my rights of land in Falltown, which I bought of Aaron Denior." Soon after the sale of his land in Falltown, Eddy Newcomb removed to Cornwallis, N. S., as it is stated upon the town records of Cornwallis that their daughter, Sarah[6], was born there on 4 Sept. 1760. Mr. Newcomb was one of the original grantees of Cornwallis, 1761, and drew as his share several lots of land. In 1768 he is called "yeoman." He served as captain under Cornwallis in the War of the Revolution; was taken prisoner with him and his army, 19 Oct. 1781.

37. JOHN[5] NEWCOMB (John[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. at Lebanon, now Columbia, Conn., 22 July 1720, bapt. 23 Oct. 1720, in the oldest church at Lebanon, d. 13 Apr. 1778; m. first, at Lebanon, 5 June 1747, Mercy[4] (Timothy[3], Stephen[2], James[1] Barnaby = Lydia[3] Bartlett), dau. of Robert Bartlett = Mary[2] Warren (Richard[1] Warren—Mayflower line) (Lydia Bartlett, wife of James[1] Barnaby, was a descendant of Robert Bartlett who arrived at Plymouth on the ship Anna, July 1623), of Plymouth, b. ———, d. 27 Mar. 1776, dau. of Timothy and Martha Barnaby. John Newcomb m. second, 13 Feb. 1777, Deborah Miller, widow.

John Newcomb settled in Lebanon upon a farm adjoining his father's. From his father he received by gift "for love and affection," in 1745, fifty acres; this farm was enlarged by several purchases. His town tax in 1760 was £5. 1s. 8d., a large tax at that period. 10 Mar. 1760, he and his father and their wives sold their lands in Lebanon for £550, and removed to Cornwallis, N. S., where they arrived before 12 Oct. 1760. He was one of the original grantees of the township of Cornwallis, 1761. He received a one-half-acre town lot in the compact part of town by reason of the birth of his daughter, Martha, 12 Oct. 1760. He also received a five-acre lot, letter F, No. 5; six acres Dyke lot No. 18; sixty-six acres farm lot No. 1—6th Division, draughted by his uncle, Benjamin[4] Newcomb, and surveyed by his cousin, William[5] son of said Benjamin[4] Newcomb. He appears to have been a leading man among the first settlers. He is said to have had twenty-one children, a part dying young, their names not preserved. The first four children were born in Lebanon, Conn.

The farm, in East Cornwallis, upon which John Newcomb lived and died (and upon which his father, Dea. John[4], died) was left to his son John[6], his son's son John[7], and was later owned and occupied by his great-grandson, Elder John Samuel[8] Newcomb, who had a son named John Stewart Newcomb.

They lived near Lebanon. Mr. Newcomb purchased lands by the highway between Lebanon and Hebron. He owned two fulling mills, with fixtures—one mill situated in Hebron, near "Saw Mill Brook," the other in Lebanon. He was surveyor of highways, 1753. He took a journey to Nova Scotia for his health, and in 1761 was one of the grantees of Cornwallis. He does not seem to have moved permanently to Cornwallis, for his children lived at Lebanon, and his estate was settled at Lebanon.

v. ZILPHA, b. 15 June 1758. In May 1772, Seth Wright petitioned the court to sell real estate of Zilpha, orphan, dau. of Jonathan, and was granted such permission; Wright had been appointed guardian of person and estate several years before. Zilpha joined the church in Columbia, Conn., 1779; then unmarried.

39. JACOB[5] NEWCOMB (John[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. at Lebanon Crank or Second Society of Lebanon, now Columbia, Conn., 10 Oct. 1724, d. 1777, m. Elizabeth Hamilton.

Jacob Newcomb settled at Lebanon on a farm adjoining his father's on the southwest. In addition to several purchases of lands, he received fifty acres in Lebanon as a gift from his father, for "love, good will and affection." In 1760 he sold the most of his lands, possibly intending to settle in Cornwallis, N. S., where his parents, two brothers and their families removed that year; apparently, however, he remained in Lebanon. His town tax in 1760 was 1 5s. 2d. He was a farmer.

At the outbreak of the War of the Revolution, Jacob Newcomb joined the patriot army, and died a martyr in the service, according to the church records of Lebanon, 1777. It is supposed that he died and was committed to a watery grave. His son, Bethuel[6], after leaving the service, set out in search of his father, Jacob[5], and traced him to Lake Champlain, but was unable to find further positive information concerning him. He learned that his father, sick of camp disease, with two other soldiers attempted to cross the lake in an open boat, but he could ascertain nothing additional.

When he, son Bethuel, moved to Thetford, Vt., Elizabeth, widow, accompanied him, riding behind him on horseback. She died at Thetford, at the home of her son Israel.

40. CYRENIUS[5] NEWCOMB (Thomas[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. at Lebanon, now Columbia, Conn., 6 Apr. 1721, d. at Oswego, N. Y., 1760; m., about 1743, Sarah ——— (perhaps Smith or Kinner).

At the age of 18 years, Cyrenius Newcomb removed with his parents to Salisbury, Conn., where he was the first town clerk, 9 Nov. 1741, an office which he held up to the time of his removal in 1746 to Nine Partners, Crum Elbow Precinct, now Pleasant Valley, Dutchess Co., N. Y. His property in 1742-3-4 was set down each year at £33. He made several grants of land in Salisbury after his removal to New York. By trade he was a tanner, currier, and shoemaker.

He served as an officer in the French and Indian War and died while in service. In Muster Roll for Dutchess Co., N. Y., 1 May 1760, the following is stated concerning him:

> Age 39, born in Conn. laborer. 5 ft. 5 in. brown hair fresh complexion. enlisted Apr. 8. Capt Peter Harris Co.

His name is among those on list of deceased soldiers, 1756 to 1762, whose heirs received the pay due them at the time of their deaths.

On 15 Oct. 1763, Isaac, his father, and a brother, while plowing in a field, were attacked by a party of Indians from the Genesee tribe. His father and brother were killed; Isaac was captured and kept prisoner for several years. After arriving at manhood he escaped, through the aid of a friendly squaw. The camping-ground of the Indians during his captivity was at the present site of Rochester, N. Y. After his escape he worked as a mason; afterwards learned the weaver's and reed-maker's trade from his father-in-law, Cyrenius Newcomb. After their marriage they lived for a short time at Hurley Flats, N. Y., then removed to Marbletown, afterwards called Olive, Ulster Co., N. Y., where probably all their children were born. In 1746 Azariah Newcomb removed from Salisbury, where he had gone with his parents in 1739, to Crum Elbow Precinct, or Nine Partners, now Pleasant Valley, Dutchess Co., N. Y. In the same year he bought lands of his father in Salisbury. He owned a merchant vessel, and it is highly probable that he was engaged for a time in trade on the Hudson River. There is no record of the place or date of his death, but he probably died at Poughkeepsie, where he was living at the time of the birth of his son Azariah.

42. ZACCHEUS[5] NEWCOMB (Thomas[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. at Lebanon, Conn., 19 Feb. 1724-5, d. about 1790; m. Sarah, of Nine Partners, b. 28 Feb. 1737, d. 28 Jan. 1799, dau. of Christian Tobias, her tombstone in Washington Hollow Cemetery, two and one-half miles above their residence.

Zaccheus Newcomb was probably born on what was called "Chestnut Hill," as his father owned at that time a large farm there. When he was fourteen years of age (1739) his parents moved to Salisbury, Conn., where his name appears upon the town list for 1746. He removed during the latter part of 1746 to Crum Elbow Precinct, or Little Nine Partners, now Pleasant Valley, Dutchess Co., N. Y. The will of William Allen of Charlotte Precinct, Dutchess Co., dated 24 June 1772, makes Zaccheus an executor; the will was proved 11 June 1773. Christian Tobias of Charlotte Precinct, Dutchess Co., in his will, dated 10 Nov. 1774, bequeaths "to my grandchildren James and Mary Newcomb, each £25, to my daughter Sarah, now the wife of Zacheus Newcomb, £50, to be paid to my son Joseph." Zaccheus Newcomb, his son-in-law, and Christian, his son, were named executors of his will which was proved 14 May 1776.

While he was serving his country in the patriot army of the Revolution, Zaccheus Newcomb's wife built a large brick house, her resource being the profit of a large dairy. The mansion, from its size and general appearance, was long known and admired throughout the country; and it is a notable fact that this fine old residence was the only brick edifice for family purposes erected in that vicinity prior to, and for a long time after, the Revolution. It was long known as the "Old Brick House" and when near a hundred years old was still in a good state of preservation. It was successively owned and occupied by Zaccheus' son, Thomas[6], and grandson, John Hopper[7] New-comb. It was sold by the latter, 1859, to James Allen, and was afterwards owned and occupied by Anthony Briggs.

At the time that General Washington had his headquarters at Newburgh, Mrs. Newcomb sent him a cheese; while discussing its merits at dinner due credit was given for its excellence. As she was not—as a matter of policy—so good a patriot as her husband, General Dunscombe, of General Washington's staff, remarked that "if she has had a better cheese she has sent it to General Clinton!"

Mr. Newcomb was commissioned, 7 Oct. 1783, as one of the assistant-justices of the inferior court of common pleas for the county of Dutchess. Jan. 26, 1787, certificate of location was granted him and others of Vancour's Island, in Lake Champlain, 700 acres. On 23 Mar. 1787, he bought township 49 in Totten and Crossfield's Purchase, selling same 1 Dec. 1789. Mr. Newcomb was a farmer and miller.

Mr. Newcomb died at the house of his son-in-law, Dr. Daniel Tobias, in the village of Kalina Kill (east of the village of Kinderhook) in Columbia Co., N. Y., while on a visit to his daughter Ruth. The following is an exact copy of his will, the original being in possession of one of his descendants:

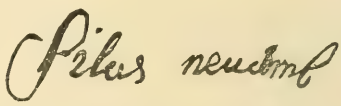
46. SILAS[5] NEWCOMB (Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. at Lebanon, Conn., 2 Sept. 1717, bapt. 2 Mar. 1718, in the oldest church in the old town of Lebanon, d. 24 May 1773; m. by Rev. Eleazer Wheelock, 5 Mar. (church record, 1 Mar.) 1739, to Submit, b. 19 Oct. 1717, at "Lebanon Crank," now Columbia, Conn. (immediately after removal of her parents from Bristol, Rhode Island), bapt. 10 Nov. 1717, d. 12 Feb. 1804, at Lebanon, dau. of James (a Huguenot and exile from France) and Dorothy (Badcock—probably dau. of David) Pineo.

Submit Pineo was living in the family of Hezekiah[4] Newcomb in 1736, or three years before her marriage to Hezekiah's son, Silas. Shortly after their first child was born, probably in the spring of 1741, they moved to Falltown, now Leyden, in Franklin Co., Mass. The records of Falltown show that Silas Newcomb was there 24 Sept. 1741, and again 14 Dec. 1744, when certain grants were given him. On 25 Dec. 1742, he bought of his father 10th lot in 1st division of Falltown. Owing to the hostility of the Indians, 1744-5, he was compelled to leave the country, and returned to Lebanon, his future home.

In the division of Silas Newcomb's estate his lands at Falltown went to his eldest son, Daniel[6], who was born there. Mr. Newcomb and his brother, Thomas[5], in 1748 bought of their uncle, Capt. Obadiah[4] Newcomb, for £420, seventy-one acres in village lands at Lebanon, adjoining land of their father, Hezekiah[4]. He bought ten acres for £50 in 1754; in 1755, 100 for £100 at the village adjoining his land. He also received nearly 100 acres by his father's will. His tax in 1760 was £3 10s. 7d. In 1764, Nov. 12, 17, he sold his son Daniel of Lebanon, for love and affection, lot 10 in 1st division, fifty acres, and lot 146 in 2d division of Falltown, then Bernardston.

Mr. Newcomb was elected surveyor, 1748; fence-viewer in 1750-1. He died instantaneously of palsy while sitting under a tree on his farm. The notice of his death upon the town records reads: "Mr Silas Newcomb died May 24 1773 suddenly." After his death his widow, Submit, resided with her children, the last few years of her life with her son John. The following is a facsimile of Mr. Newcomb's autograph, written while in attendance at a proprietors' meeting in Falltown, 20 June 1739:



The inventory of Mr. Newcomb's estate amounted to £818 10s. 3d. The home farm was appraised at £486, and land in Bernardston (now Leyden) at £45. Five of their sons learned the cooper's trade, but did not follow the business long; three were physicians. Mrs. Newcomb was remembered as a woman having a remarkable attachment for her children and grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb were interred in the old cemetery at Lebanon, a few feet from the tomb of the Trumbull family. The inscriptions upon their gravestones are as follows:

47. PETER[5] NEWCOMB (Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. at Lebanon, Conn., 28 Nov. 1718, bapt. 20 Jan. 1719, d. 26 Sept. 1779; m. 22 Nov. 1740, by Rev. Eleazer Wheelock, in the northern part of town, called the "Crank" or "Second Society," later Columbia, Hannah, b. at "Lebanon Crank" 19 Sept. 1722, d. 9 Jan. 1796, at Lebanon, dau. of Richard and Mary (Hinksman) English who came from Bristol, R. I., and settled in Lebanon in 1717.

By will of her father, Hannah Newcomb received "a good Bible" in addition to former gifts. Immediately after their marriage they removed to Falltown (now Bernardston), Franklin Co., Mass., where he was added to a committee, 23 Sept. 1741, for building a bridge over Fall River. On 20 Dec. 1742, he bought of John Perry of Hadley, for £41, sixty acres in Falltown, lot 99 in 1st division; also, meadow lot 58 in 2d division, and agreed to "settle the said Right" to satisfaction of the proprietors, and pay one half the rates or taxes. On 25 Dec. 1742, for £3, he bought of his father, Hezekiah[4], 18th lot in 1st division in Falltown; also, 98th lot in 2d division, with after rights accruing, the same lot upon which his father, in 1739, agreed by bond to erect a house. Mr. Newcomb remained in Falltown with his family four or five years, but was compelled to abandon his home there on account of the hostility of the Indians, at the time of the Old French and Indian War.

According to the rolls of Connecticut men in Hartford, French and Indian War, 1755-62, p. 75, "Peter Newcomb of Lebanon served in expedition against Canada, 1758, under Capt. Gilbert." He had returned to Lebanon, 1744-5, and settled two miles east from the present village of Columbia, on the direct road to Windham. The house which he built, and in which he lived and died, stood upon the north side of the road, a few rods east of the cross-road leading to Hartford. The house, a wooden one and painted red, disappeared, but the barn lasted for the use of later owners of the farm, until 1877.

Mr. Newcomb, though a carpenter and cabinet-maker, owned over 200 acres of land; he received between fifty and 100 acres by his father's will. He made purchases of land in Lebanon in 1747, 1749, 1750, 1763, 1765, 1767, and 1778. His tax in 1760 was £3 7s. He was elected surveyor, 1748; collector of taxes, 1753; lister, 1760; lister and surveyor of highways, 1761; surveyor of highways, 1766 and 1772; and hayward, 1777.

The following is a facsimile of Mr. Newcomb's autograph written in 1748:

Both Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb were members of the church over which Rev. Eleazer Wheelock, afterward first president of Dartmouth College, was pastor for thirty-five years. Mr. Newcomb died in Lebanon, later Columbia, and was interred in the old cemetery in the village. His grave is near the northwest side of the cemetery and perhaps about eight rods from the street. His widow was interred close beside him on the south. A stone stands at the head of her grave, but without an inscription. His gravestone contains the following inscription:

Sacred to the Memory of M^{r}
Peter Newcomb who Departed this Life Sep^{t} ye 26 1779 in the 61 year of His Age He was Beloved in Life & Lamented at Death he bore his Dying Pains with

52. WILLIAM^{5} NEWCOMB (Benjamin^{4}, Simon^{3}, Andrew^{2}, Andrew^{1}) b. at Willington, Conn., 18 June 1733, d. 2 May 1814, at Warren, Conn., m. 13 or 19 Mar. 1761, by Isaac Deschamp, Esq., at Cornwallis, N. S., Phebe Porter, b. at Lebanon, Conn., d. at Warren, Conn.

When five years of age he went to live with his father's sister, Deborah^{4}, wife of Capt. Timothy Hatch, in Tolland, Conn., and resided there for ten years. He removed with his parents to Cornwallis, N. S., about 1760, and was one of the original grantees of the town in 1761. In the division of lands, 1761, he received a half-acre town lot; lot, letter D, 10 acres; 6-acre Dyke lot; and 44 acres farm lot. It appears from the records that he did most of the surveying in the early settlement of Cornwallis.

About 1771 William Newcomb removed with his family to Connecticut.

The following minute is found in the registrar's office in Cornwallis:

> William Newcomb and Phebe his wife went to Lebanon in the County of Windham—sold some of their lands, after they went back, to Capt. Ratchford, some to Benjamin Newcomb. He gave to Stephen Chase* & Abigail (Porter)* his Wife half of his farm lot—reference being had to Proprietors' records—Signed a Deed in Lebanon, County of Windham, in 1771.

Tradition says that William Newcomb was a loyalist at the time of the Revolutionary War and was compelled to leave the country. He returned with his family to Cornwallis, but removed, about 1780, to Warren, Conn. The last years of his life were spent with his daughter Sarah. He nearly ruined his health, when a young man, in a successful attempt to remove a tree which had fallen upon his father, and was never afterward able to endure hard labor. His children were born in Cornwallis, where, it is stated upon good authority, he left a considerable tract of land undisposed of. Mrs. Newcomb joined the church at Warren, Conn., 1780, by letter from Cornwallis.

Simon Newcomb was a farmer. He removed with his parents to Cornwallis, in the summer of 1761. He removed from Cornwallis to Cumberland, near Old Fort Cumberland, before 1770, and to Amherst, N. S., soon afterward. In Nov. 1776, at a meeting of the people of Amherst to consult on the propriety of joining with the revolted provinces (now United States) in rebellion, he took an active part. Here he was exposed to the small-pox, of which he died four weeks afterward.

The following is an extract from the 1st and 4th volumes of the historical papers of the Historical Society of Halifax, N. S., published in Halifax, 1878, 1888, pages 114-115.

"Simon Newcomb was a leading rebel of the town of Amherst Nova Scotia. He, in connection with Simon Chester and Nathaniel Reynolds, constituted the rebel committee who organized the rebellion in this town. . . . . He was a gentleman of position. He held in connection with Eben Fitch and Elisha Freeman, also New England men, the office of Commissioner of Sewers, quite an important office in the early days and one in which they exercised control over the dykes and marshes which were then as now of great value and from which the settlers derived their sole supply of grass and grain."

After Mr. Newcomb's death his widow removed to Cornwallis, in the spring of 1777, and later married Timothy Bishop by whom she had three children.

They spent their later years with their son in Wellfleet, Mass., and South Orrington, Me. The following account shows something of the life and times of Nathaniel Pierce:

"With many others he was compelled to seek other employment than as seaman during the Revolutionary War, he being a whaleman. He served a while in the army near Baltimore, he used to tell his grandchildren. He first came upon the Penobscot river when the country was a perfect wilderness, and bought of the Tarrantine Sachem one hundred acres of land for twenty dollars and a cow. He constructed a rude log house under a high bank close to the river, cleared and planted the land with corn and potatoes, and fish were plentiful in the river; also, he soon built a frame house, low-posted and broad, with a single huge chimney in the center and numerous fireplaces. Here he and his wife lived frugally for many years; their wants were few . . . . .

When the British came up the river in 1814 their vessels were moored nearly opposite his house. His family all retreated back into the deep woods, but he came every day to feed his swine, whose yard ran down to the water; men from the ships fired at him and the balls came so near that he heard them whistle."

The gravestones of Mr. Newcomb and his wives are in Wellfleet. According to Barnstable Probate, Simon[5] Newcomb of Wellfleet, "yeoman" (will dated 13 May 1808), gave to his son Simon, "land near my house"; to his sons Simon and Theophilus, the old house field, bounded on the north by the Truro line, on the east, west, and south by John Y. Newcomb's land; also meadow; to his dau. Huldah, wife of David Atkins, house and land; to his sons Jeremiah, Seth and Theophilus, the residue; to his grandson, Jesse[7] Newcomb and granddaughter, Rebecca S. Stevens, one heifer, to be divided; to daughters Zerviah Crowell, Huldah Atkins, Grace Pierce and Priscilla Holbrook, the residue of certain property. His son Simon was appointed executor.

David Newcomb is included in the Colonial War muster roll of 29 Jan. 1759. He was appointed guardian, 26 Sept. 1760, to his brothers and sisters, heirs of Ebenezer Freeman, their maternal grandfather. After the birth of his sixth child, 1772, he removed from Wellfleet to Oxford, Mass., where he bought, 4 Feb. 1773, ninety-three acres of land; in 1778 a pew in the church; and the following February, seventy acres in the southeastern part of Greenwich.

At Oxford, 2 Aug. 1779, he was added to a committee to provide for the families of soldiers of the Revolutionary War. "In 14 Oct. 1780 the town voted in compliance with resolve of General Court to raise 5,760 lbs. of beef for the army. Later it was voted not to raise the beef. Whereupon several men and cit. agreed to pay for the beef, among them David Newcomb" . . . . In return of old continental money about 1780 David Newcomb returned £1306-16s. Feb. 1782, David signed with others, to be taxed for "support of Rev. Joseph Bowman." In 1780-1-2 he was surveyor of clapboards and shingles; was constable and surveyor of highways. In 1781 be bought forty acres of land adjoining his farm.

In 1782 he removed to Greenwich, now Enfield, Mass. Here he built, 1786-7, the first Congregational church in the town and in 1793 purchased pew No. 1. Movable benches were first placed in the body of the church, replaced by pews in 1793. In 1814 a steeple and belfry were added. This South Parish of Greenwich was incorporated at the June session of the General Court, 1787, and included the southern part of Greenwich and parts of Belchertown and Ware; incorporated as Enfield in 1816.

David Newcomb was in 1793 the fifth in point of wealth in the parish. He was a carpenter, joiner and farmer.

He resided at Tisbury, a town adjoining Edgartown, where, in valuation of 1770-1 he was put down 1 poll; in 1775, 1 poll and 1 house.

That he served in the Revolutionary War is shown in the following: "A roll of Capt. Mathew Smith's Co. stationed on the Isle of M. V. for the defence of the sea coast. Made up from the 15 of Jan. to the last of Feb. 1776. Andrew Newcomb private." "Said to have been Capt. of N. J. Regt. from Cumberland Co. Rev. War. Mar. 1, 1776, to Jan. 3, 1777." He served from 30 Sept. to 22 Nov. 1776, in John Russell's Co., Maj. Bassett, guarding the sea-coast of Martha's Vineyard; he also served on board a vessel of war as lieutenant. In Court of Sessions, Duke's County, May 1779, "Ordered that Andrew Newcomb receive an order on the Treasurer of the County for a cedar boat, which the British forces deprived him of, in Sept., last." Andrew Newcomb and John Newcomb are included in the list of prisoners taken on the British vessel "Old Jersey," and church records say that Andrew died "returning from captivity." "About 8,000 names have been copied from an incomplete list of English War Records, of men confined as prisoners on board the Old Jersey Prison Ship, moored in Wallabout Bay, New York, during the Revolutionary War. It has been estimated that more than 11,000 or 11,644 persons perished on board during a period of three and a half years."

Y., 14 Mar. 1849. She m. second, 1793, George Taylor, by whom she had three children; she was blind for eight years.

In valuation of Tisbury, 1775, George Newcomb was put down "1 poll and 1 house." He resided for a time at or near Wethersfield, Conn. In 1781 he was "late of Tisbury, now of New London," Conn., and owned house and land (1/4 acre, according to Duke's Deeds, 10/642) in Holmes Hole, town of Tisbury, bounded on the southeast by a highway from the harbor to the meeting-house.

George Newcomb served in the Revolutionary War, as shown by the following records:

"George Newcomb, Drummer, Capt. Nathan Smith's Co., enlisted Oct. 5, 1775, service to Dec. 1, 1775, 2 mo. 1 day. Company stationed at Martha's Vineyard in defense of sea coast."

"George, Drummer Capt. Nathan Smith's Co., Enlisted Jan. 18, 1776; Service to Sept. 1, 1776, 7 mo. 14 days. Co. stationed at Martha's Vineyard for defense of seacoast."

He was a ship-master; was engaged in trade between America and Europe; he sailed in a vessel of which he was owner, bound for a European port, and neither himself, nor any one on board were heard from afterward. Administration was granted upon his estate, 5 July 1787, to Ebenezer Smith, and he was referred to as being "of Tisbury."

76. ETHAN[5] NEWCOMB (Joseph[4], Joseph[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. near line of Fairfield, in Down Township, Cumberland Co., N. J., 1 Jan. 1763, d. 19 Nov. 1849, at Brookfield, O.; m. about 1784, Amelia Summers, b. ———, d. 7 May 1837, at Brookfield.

Ethan Newcomb was a farmer. He was a hero in the War of the Revolution, volunteering at the age of sixteen in the militia service, and serving at various periods, nearly two years. The militia were often called out in emergencies and for guard duty. He served one tour of ten months, and another of two months in the company of Capt. William Low, Lieut. Reuben Cheeseman, most of the time under his uncle, Gen. Silas[4] Newcomb, guarding the banks of the Delaware River sixty miles below Philadelphia and near its mouth, the object being to prevent the landing of refugees to plunder the inhabitants.

In record of 2 Sept. 1807, "Ethan Newcomb and Mille his wife of Twp. of Down, Co. of Cum. convey two tracts to Henry Shaw and said Ethan Newcombs became seized with 2nd tract by last will of his father Joseph Newcomb Esq. deceased. Signed by Ethan Newcomb (Seal) Mille Newcomb (her mark) (Seal)." They resided at Down until 1808, when they removed to Brookfield, Trumbull Co., Ohio. He was an invalid the last twelve years of his life and lived with and was taken care of by his son Daniel.

Mr. Newcomb received no compensation from the state for his services in the Revolution, but had his share of prize money in capturing a boat. He was a pensioner under Act of Congress, 1832. He signed his application for a pension with a cross.

While residing at Cape Ann, he enlisted, May 1775, for twelve months in Capt. Nathaniel Collins' Co., marched to Cambridge, and arrived on the day of the battle of Bunker Hill; joined Col. Moses Little's regiment, and a few days after left for Prospect Hill, where he was employed in throwing up breastworks during the day and standing guard at night. He also served in Joseph Robey's Company. When Collins was promoted to major, Warner became captain of Collins' Company referred to.

In Jan. 1776, he enlisted for eight months as corporal in Capt. William Pearson's Co., Col. Porter's regiment, and rendered service at Cape Ann. In about one month was appointed sergeant; discharged 15 Aug. 1776.

In Apr. 1777 he volunteered to serve in army on North River—term of service three years—joined Capt. James Carr's Co., Col. Little; marched from Boston to Albany, where he was detached, with some hundreds of others, under Gen. Arnold, to relieve Fort Stanwix, then besieged; marched to Stillwater, joined the artillery under Maj. Bannister, and was present at the capture of the army of Gen. Burgoyne; ordered to Albany, and was there appointed to drive the baggage-wagon of Gen. Gates home.

He was in a privateer fitted out at Machias, Me.; was taken by a British man-of-war; was prisoner on board the British ship Jersey in New York harbor, with Andrew, his brother (see No. 70), but escaped; and sailed in a privateer from Cape Ann, capturing several prizes.

In his younger days John Newcomb followed the sea; was several times cast away, but managed to escaped in a "miraculous manner." He settled at Amesbury, 1777; afterwards removed to Newburyport, Machias, Me., and in 1792 to Eastport, Me., where he resided until his death. In 1802 he was granted land in Township 8, Lubec, Me. He was pensioned under Act of Congress of 1832.

102. DEACON LEMUEL[6] NEWCOMB (Lemuel[5], Andrew[4], Simeon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 7 Apr. 1757, at Eastham, now Wellfleet, Mass., d. there 4 Nov. 1843; m. 25 Feb. 1785, Lucy, b. 12 Apr. 1762, d. 2 Apr. 1848, dau. of Thomas and Hannah (Harding) Holbrook.

Lemuel Newcomb was in the Revolutionary War in 1776. "Lemuel, Wellfleet. Private Capt. Winslow Lewis's Co., pay abstract for mileage to and from camp at Cambridge dated Jan. 13, 1776. Mileage for 218 miles allowed said N. also Capt. Nathaniel Winslow's Co. Col. Whitney's regt.: company receipt for advance pay for 1 mo. travel, allowance from home to Boston, etc. dated Point Shirley June 13, 1776. also petition dated Camp at Hull Sept. 17, 1776, signed by said N. and others belonging to battalion stationed at Hull, asking for increase and payment of wages." About 15 Mar. 1776, he was in service under Capt. John Gill of Wellfleet, serving until 1 May. He sailed from Wellfleet to Plymouth, thence marched to Boston, and was stationed on Noddles Island in the harbor, arriving a short time after the evacuation of Boston. He again entered the service—"Lemuel, Private Capt. Nathaniel Winslow's (Capt. Winslow of Scituate) Co., Col. Josiah Whitney's regt. Service from April 29, 1776, four days preceeding march, to August 1, 1776. 3 mo. 2 d. Service from Aug. 1, 1776 to Nov. 1, 1776, 3 mo."—assisted in building a fort on Noddles Island; then marched to Nantucket, where he labored in erecting forts and digging a deep well.

About 1 Jan. 1779, he shipped on a schooner, 140 tons, fitted out under direction of Board of War and commanded by Capt. Moses Lewis, to bring cargo of flour from Alexandria, Va. After having been blockaded by the enemy two or three months in Potomac River, they sailed for Boston, but were captured by the English ship Unicorn and set on shore on Block Island, 25 June 1779.

His place of residence was Wellfleet, where he was deacon of the Congregational Church. He was elected to the Legislature of Massachusetts, 1801-2-3; was selectman 1804, serving five years; was one of the Committee of Safety in the War of 1812, watch being kept in respect to the British ships of war, tenders and barges cruising in Barnstable Bay and threatening the towns. In early life he was a mariner.

"Boston Deeds. 300/122—D. Lemuel N. & w. Lucy of Wellfleet sell her share of land near Butlers Row, Boston, 1825. (She m. New. of Holbrooks.)" He became a pensioner under Act of Congress of 1832.

After the death of William Newcomb his mother, Mary (Coas) Newcomb, was appointed administratrix of his estate and guardian of his son.

William Newcomb, Gloucester, Mass., married; deceased. Mary Newcomb, widow, appointed Administratrix May 7, 1799, sureties John Rowe Esq., and Richard Friend. On even date, Mary Newcomb was appointed guardian of William Coas Newcomb, aged 11 years, son of William Newcomb.
Inventory of estate ammounted to $1064.29
(Probate Records Essex Co. Salem, Mass. 366:83.465)
#996. 4 of the above sum were notes, Ingersol and Goodwin, and in Inventory was 1 Coat of Arms by the name of Newman.
The Mary Newcomb, widow, who administered on the estate, and guardian of William Coas Newcomb, was his mother, and grandmother of the 11 year old boy.

Robert Elwell, junior, Gloucester, married, and wife Sarah, Consideration $400., to Mary Newcomb, Gloucester, widow and admx of her son William Newcomb, Gloucester, deceased, intestate, and guardian to grandson, William Coas Newcomb, a minor, a certain dwelling house on Eastern Point, in which I now reside, 3 acres, also a pasture, for the use of William Coas Newcomb, minor.
This instrument was discharged Aug. 10, 1807, and signed by Mary Newcomb. (Essex Co. Deeds; Salem, Mass. 166:114.)

William Coas Newcomb was 11 years old in 1799, thus born 1788. The above deed was discharged Aug. 10, 1807, on his entrance into 21st year. In the absence of Gloucester records, it may be that the house was the old time Coas homestead, and that Sarah Elwell, wife of Robert, may have been the mother of William Coas Newcomb. The deed has the appearance of the settlement of an estate.

B.; m. 4 Dec. 1766, at Cornwallis, Jerusha, b. 19 Mar. 1749, d. in New Brunswick, dau. of Isaac and Abigail (Skinner) Bigelow.

Andrew Newcomb was a farmer. At the age of thirteen years, 1760, he removed with his parents to Cornwallis, N. S. He was one of a board of Assessors appointed by town meeting, 1 Nov. 1790, to raise money for support of the poor of Cornwallis. He remained there until 1796, when he removed to New Brunswick; resided for a while at Chepody; about 1815 he moved up the St. John River to Kings Clear.

His son, Daniel W.[7], stated in 1865 that his father was named in honor of the first Andrew Newcomb in this country, who was the ancestor of this branch of the family. This tradition is of the very highest significance. Sarah[6], a sister of this Andrew[6], also communicated the same tradition to her children.

John Egelston, Sarah, b. 2 Jan. 1746, d. ———, at New York, dau. of David and Kezia (Davidson) Randall. She m. second, John Smith.

When he was eight years old, John Newcomb removed to Cornwallis, N. S., with his parents. He got into debt by his own or others' contracting and left the country, supposedly for the United States. By some it has been thought that he was the John[6] Newcomb of Eastport, Me., but this was not the case, since John[6] of Eastport (No. 98) was born at Gloucester, Mass., a descendant from the Newcombs of Cape Cod, Mass. It is more than probable that he was the John Newcomb who served in the War of the Revolution as private in the Second Regiment, New York Line, 5th Co.—Ten Eyke's Co.; enlisted 1 Jan. 1777, for the war; missing from his company in July, rejoining 13 Nov. 1777. He may also have been the John Newcomb of New York, "marriner," who married, 10 Nov. 1781, Ann Smith. There is no proof, however, that such was the case.

109. JOSEPH[6] NEWCOMB (John[5], John[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 8 July 1751, at Lebanon, now Columbia, Conn., d. 17 Apr. 1832, at Pero, N. S.; m. 6 Apr. 1774, at Cornwallis, Catharine, b. 1755, d. at Cornwallis, 17 Mar. 1831, dau. of Caleb and Mercy Rand.

Joseph Newcomb removed with his parents to Cornwallis, at the age of nine years. After his marriage he lived in different parts of Cornwallis, but finally settled at Pero, about three miles inside of Cape Blomedon. He was a farmer; and was interred upon his farm by the side of his wife. He once owned a lot in Cornwallis drawn by his grandfather's brother, Benjamin[4] Newcomb, but exchanged it for the one on which he died, a farm which was later owned by his grandson, David Harris[8] Newcomb.

One well acquainted with Mr. Newcomb wrote: "He was of kindly disposition, affectionate in his nature, religiously disposed, moral in his habits, rigidly honest in his dealings—traits of the Newcomb race." An incident occurred in the later years of his life which marks the estimation in which his integrity was held. His sons John and Daniel W. had built two schooners, and Mr. Newcomb and his son Mayhew were indebted for the rigging and supplies to a firm in Halifax. Both vessels were cast away, and as a consequence they were called upon for the money, sued, and writs of execution issued. The time allowed by law having expired, they presented themselves to the sheriff at the jail, taking with them their shoemakers' kits, at which business they had become quite expert. The sheriff refused to receive them, saying that the jail was made for rogues, not for such as they; that when he wanted them he would call for them. At the end of six or seven years they paid off the debts of £300 or £400, principal and interest.

Shortly after he was seven years old, Benjamin Newcomb removed to Cornwallis, where he resided until his death. He settled upon three hundred acres of land, then nearly a wilderness, and was afterward largely engaged in farming. His home was in East Cornwallis, about seven miles from Church street, and his grandson, David Barnaby[8] Newcomb, lived there in 1862.

"The first recorded Newcomb land transactions in Colchester County, N. S., were as follows: A deed from Joseph Newcomb (No. 109), of Cornwallis, Kings County, and Catherine, his wife, to Benjamin Newcomb of Stewiacke (then in Halifax County), farmer, for fifty pounds, for a piece of land in Middle Stewiacke, of which a full description is given. The date of this instrument is August 28, 1815.

"The second transaction is a deed from Benjamin Newcomb of Lower Stewiacke, and Abigail, his wife, for 90 pounds, of the same land, to Alexander Lackey Archibald, of Truro, Yeoman, dated Oct. 23, 1816."

Mr. Newcomb was a musician and poet. He wrote several songs—the subject of one the Wars of Bonaparte. He wrote much poetry—one poem upon a remarkable comet, about 1800. The MSS. of his poetry were taken by a traveler, who published them in his own name, thus robbing the author of honors due him.

Mr. Newcomb was an expert at hunting wild animals. He owned a fine moose hunter of which he was very fond as well as proud, which he trained and which on one hunting expedition followed the moose so closely that when the moose sprang out over a cliff the dog followed and fell a distance of several hundred feet. In later years, his son Barney, with others, went bear hunting; on hearing the baying of the returning hounds in the distance, Benjamin Newcomb hurried out with his eight-year-old grandson, Amasa Bigelow, the latter carrying a heavy gun, and shot and skinned the bear before the hunters had time to approach.

He "was noted for his benevolence, justice, and high sense of honor." Inventory of his estate was $12,000.00.

Jonathan Newcomb was born ten years after the removal of his parents from Lebanon, now Columbia, Conn., to Cornwallis. He was a farmer, residing in West Cornwallis. Upon his death his farm was divided among his sons, Hugh R.[7], John C.[7], and Daniel[7].

The story is told of Jonathan and his brother Benjamin going out toward the west in search of a suitable place for Jonathan to settle upon. They camped out in the woods near a clear brook, and there Jonathan "put out stakes," built a log hut—three-fourths of a mile from what is now called Buckley's Corner, near Waterville. He later married and built a strong house nearby, where he and his children and his children's children lived.

114. BETHUEL[6] NEWCOMB (Jacob[5], John[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 17 Dec. 1751, at Lebanon, also called Lebanon Crank, or Second Society, now Columbia, Conn., d. 2 Feb. 1826, at Thetford, Vt.; m. 16 Apr. 1778, at Lebanon, now Columbia, by Rev. Thomas Brockway, Mabel, b. 12 Mar. 1752, d. 20 Mar. 1841, at Thetford, dau. of Ezekiel Thomas.

Mr. Newcomb was a soldier in the patriot army of the Revolution. He entered the service 15 May 1775, in the Company of Capt. James Clark of Lebanon, 6th Co., Col. Israel Putnam, Third Conn. Regt., and was in the battle of Bunker Hill. He was discharged 15 Dec. 1775.

BETHUEL NEWCOMB'S ACCOUNT OF THE BATTLE OF BUNKER HILL.

I fired my gun until it became so hot I couldn't hold it; stepped past where a soldier had fallen—caught his gun. We kept hearing some one calling "Retreat!", but thought it was someone running away. Soon Gen. Israel Putnam came on horseback—on a dead run, bareheaded, calling out: "God curse you why don't you retreat. The British have almost surrounded you." Then we turned and ran up Bunker Hill—the grapeshot cutting down the grass between our legs as we ran. I was never wounded.

In 1776 he volunteered for three months in the Company of James Pineo, to go to New York. After leaving the service he went in search of his father, who disappeared during the war (see No. 39).

In 1781 Bethuel Newcomb and his wife sold twenty-five acres of land in Lebanon, inherited from Mrs. Newcomb's father, Ezekiel, of Lebanon; also, two other lots, ten, and seven and a quarter acres. About 1782 they settled in Thetford, Vt., but returned three years later. He joined the church in 1789, and in 1791 they again removed to Thetford, his wife and their five children riding in an ox cart.

He drew a pension under Act of Congress of 1818, and his widow under Act of 1838. He was a shoemaker, farmer, and musician. They resided in what is now North Thetford, about one-half mile west from Lyme Bridge.

Y., d. 2 Apr. 1810, dau. of John and Eleanor (Scott) Banker; m. third, 1811, Mrs. Allen.

Simon Newcomb enlisted in the Revolutionary War from Nine Partners, June 1776, in Capt. Melancton Smith's Co. of Rangers, Stephen Haight, Lieut., Holmes, Ensign, no Colonel; was engaged for five months at Nine Partners, Fishkill, Peekskill, and Verplanks Point in arresting and guarding Tories. While at the latter place the British ship Asia, seventy-four guns, and other smaller vessels, came up the North River and anchored opposite. His duties were transferred to watching and preventing the landing of the army until September, when ordered to White Plains, and he was employed until October in traversing the foregoing named places and on the Peekskill mountains; returned to Fishkill, thence to Poughkeepsie, to guard prisoners until the end of the month, when he was discharged at Nine Partners. On 10 Dec. 1776, he volunteered in the same company; was discharged in February following. On 10 Aug. 1777, he volunteered in Capt. John Rouse's Co., Ingals, Lieut., Col. Graham's Regt., Gen. Glover's Brigade; marched to Stillwater and encamped on Bemis Heights; was present at the capture of the army of Gen. Burgoyne, during the battle being in Gen. Gates' Division; after Burgoyne's surrender he was ordered to Albany, then to Esopus, etc., and was discharged 10 Nov. In June and July 1778, he served under Capt. Elijah Herrick, Col. Frazer's Regt.; in 1779 in Capt. Ostram's Co., same regiment.

As a result of his services during the war he was a pensioner. In 1783 he removed from Nine Partners to Pittstown; in 1786 to Plattsburgh, N. Y., and in 1835 to Cuyahoga Co., O., to be with his children. He was survived by his third wife. He is said to have had five children by his first wife; four by his second wife.

A patriot soldier, Kinner Newcomb served during the War of the Revolution. He enlisted from Nine Partners in June 1776, in the Co. of Capt. Melancton Smith's Rangers, Stephen Haight, Lieut.-Col.; rendered nearly five months' service there, and at Verplanks Point, Poughkeepsie, and on the Peekskill Mountains, in apprehending and guarding Tories. In Aug. 1777 he enlisted at Nine Partners in Capt. John Rouse's Co., joined the regiment of Col. Graham in Gen. Glover's brigade at Lansingburgh, marched to Stillwater, encamped on Bemis Heights until 16 Oct., then pursued the retreating army of Gen. Burgoyne, which surrendered on the 19th. Soon afterwards he returned to Albany, then Esopus, a part of the time having only roasted apples for food; was discharged at the end of three months. He was also in the Co. of Capt. Vanderburgh, Second N. Y. Regt.; served in Col. Philip Courtlandt's regiment, a portion of the time as orderly sergt.; was named Col. Marinus Willett; was a private in the Fifth Regt., Rosecranse Co., Jan. 1778 to Jan. 1782.

He afterward drew 600 acres of land for his services; was a pensioner under Act of 1828, and his widow Olive under Act of 1853. In 1785 he removed to Plattsburgh, Clinton Co., N. Y., where he lived for the rest of his life.

Kinner Newcomb was a member of the State Assembly, representing Clinton and Franklin counties in 1808-9. He was for many years a judge of the county courts. He commanded the first company of militia organized in Plattsburgh, and during the War of 1812 was at the head of a company of "Silver Greys," ready to turn out at a moment's warning.

In August 1778, at the age of fifteen or sixteen, Azariah Newcomb served six weeks as a substitute for Isaac Pardee in guarding the public stores at Sharon, Conn. He volunteered for three months in August 1780 at Salisbury, Conn., in the Company of Capt. John Perier, regiment commanded by Col. Canfield in Gen. Willis' or Wells' brigade; marched to Horse Neck, N. Y., White Plains and Bedford Hill, where he was discharged in November. In an action at Stamford, Conn., when the British forces landed from boats to burn the town, he received a sword cut on the head and a bayonet wound in the arm.

After the close of the war he moved to that part of Amenia, now North East, in Dutchess Co., N. Y., thence to New Haven, Addison Co., Vt.; returned to Salisbury, Conn., removed from there to Onondaga, Onondaga Co., N. Y. where he resided many years. He lived a few years in Olmstead, now district of Montreal, Canada, where in 1804 his house, store, merchandise, and family records were burned. A part of his life he was engaged in farming. He resided several years at Hector, Tompkins Co., N. Y.

In the War of the Revolution James Newcomb, as a minute man, was in several expeditions in 1776; his first and second service under Capt. Lothrop Allen (in whose company he enlisted for six months), Lieut.-Col. John Harper, included one expedition to New York and on Long Island, building forts, breastworks, and "fighting the enemy." In 1777 he enlisted under Capt. John Rouse, and was present at the surrender of the army of Gen. Burgoyne; he served as corp. in Peyton's Co., Second N. Y. Regt., mustered in Sept. 1778; re-enlisted 12 May 1779, and continued in the same Co. until 21 Apr. 1780. His further service in 1780, 1781, was as sergt. under Capt. Cornelius Wiltse or Wiltsey, Lieut.-Col. Thaddeus Crane, and Col. Peter Yates. After the close of the war he was appointed captain of a light infantry company; promoted 1798 to lieut.-col.; later, col.

Judith Newcomb lived from childhood with her uncle, Adonijah[5] Newcomb, continuing to live with the family until her marriage. After the death of Col. James Newcomb, she became a pensioner, and was living with her daughter Ruth in 1840.

Mr. Newcomb moved to Pittstown in the spring of 1780. He was a merchant, farmer, and mill owner. He and his wife executed a deed, 19 Mar. 1807, of land to Israel Sherman, the same being acknowledged 12 Mar. 1808.

130. DR. SIMON[6] NEWCOMB (Simon[5], Thomas[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 5 June 1779, at Nine Partners, now Pleasant Valley, Dutchess Co., N. Y., d. 20 Nov. 1870, at Lansingburgh; m. first, 5 June 1802, Sarah, b. at Pittstown about 1782, d. 6 Apr. 1820, at Pittstown, dau. of William and Lois (Burnham) Follett; m. second, at Pittstown May 1821, Hannah, b. 26 Dec. 1798 (or 1793), at Pittstown, d. 15 May 1859 (or 1854), while returning in an omnibus from Albany to Lansingburgh, dau. of Martin and Elizabeth (Drake) Stover.

Simon Newcomb began his life's career in the stormy days of the Revolution, and the firm decision, stern integrity, and unostentatious dignity of those times seem to have been inherited by him, and were the prominent traits of his character through life. To attempt anything like a sketch of Dr. Newcomb's history would be to write a volume, for he was prominently identified with professional, financial, political and religious life for more than seventy years.

During his infancy his father removed to Pittstown, Rensselaer Co., in the vicinity of which he spent most of his days. The longest day of his life he counted as 11 Apr. 1796, which is scarcely surprising when the fact is known that he had commenced to teach a district school and was not quite seventeen! The school was in Millertown District, now North Pittstown. The proceeds of his summer's labor he expended the following winter in board and clothing while attending school. In the spring he returned to the same place and taught two years.

In Feb. 1798, he listened to powerful discourses by the eccentric Lorenzo Dow, and Timothy Dewey, and was so affected by them that he always attributed his attachment to the Christian faith to their evangelical labors. He joined the M. E. Church the following month, and remained an honored member of that church for the rest of his life.

In the spring of 1799 he set out on foot for Alford, Mass. He was disappointed in his business anticipations, changed his plans, and began studying medicine with Dr. John Hurlbert, remaining one year. He studied subsequently with Drs. Nehemiah King, Ezekiel Baker, and David Doolittle, four years in all. He commenced practice in 1802, in May, and through professional skill, promptness, and an honest endeavor springing from conscientious convictions to do all the good possible, he arose to eminence in his profession and secured a competence for himself and family.

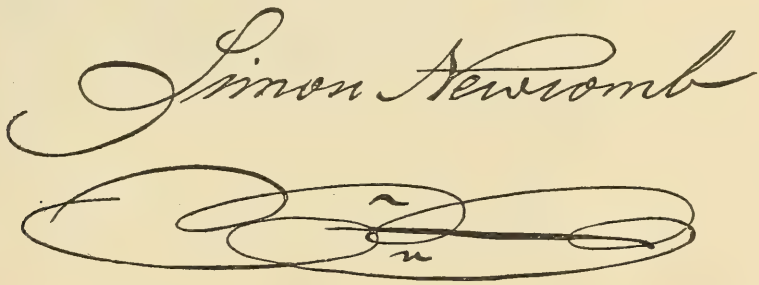
After his marriage he lived at Pittstown, a little village one mile northeast of Tomhannock. Through his influence a minister was secured, a church organized, and a house of worship built.

He was the first postmaster at Tomhannock and at Prospect Hill, now Johnsonville, and held the office twenty-seven years consecutively. He was a justice of the peace for twelve years; supervisor three years; U. S. assessor two years. He was for many years school commissioner, trustee, overseer of poor, town clerk, commissioner of deeds, master in chancery, class leader, church trustee, merchant, and farmer.

Although occupying numerous situations of trust in political life, he was never charged, even by his opponents, with a dereliction of his official duties.

In 1814, at the invasion of Plattsburgh, he volunteered under Col. William Knickerbacker in the brigade company commanded by Gen. Gilbert Eddy.

The following is a facsimile of Dr. Newcomb's autograph, written in 1820, at the age of forty-one; the autograph accompanying his portrait was written late in life.



The father of Dr. Newcomb's second wife was a wealthy and influential citizen of Pittstown. The year following his marriage he sold his farm at Tomhannock and removed to Prospect Hill, where he purchased a farm and resided for ten years; he afterward removed to the upper end of Schaghticoke, where he remained for eleven years; from there he returned to Tomhannock, where he lived until 1853, when he removed to Lansingburgh.

Dr. Newcomb had in his possession the family bible of his grandfather, Thomas[4] Newcomb. It was printed in London in 1712 by the assignees of Thomas "Newcome" and Henry Hill, deceased. He also had his grandfather's old account book, to which reference has previously been made (No. 12). His great-grandfather, Simon[3] Newcomb, had one hundred and thirty-nine great-grandchildren bearing the name of Newcomb, Dr. Newcomb being the last survivor of this large number.

Dr. Newcomb's social qualities, even in advanced years, endeared him to the young as well as to the aged; and all who came in contact with him were made wiser and better by his genial and intelligent conversation. Ever true to his country, his bounty flowed to the deserving but destitute defenders of its liberties, and many cases might be cited of his patriotic devotion and practical benevolence extended to the wounded and suffering soldiers of the War of 1812.

The following extract is taken from an obituary notice which appeared in the New York Christian Advocate:

> In many repects Dr. Newcomb was a remarkable man. First, as to his great age. He lived to within eight years of a century—twenty-two years beyond the time alloted to man in his earthly pilgrimage. He was older than the nation, knew Washington, Franklin, and the elder Adams, and was familiar with the passing events of our national history, from the signing of the Declaration of Independence down to the issuing of the Emancipation Proclamation. He retained in a wonderful degree his mental faculties to the last, discussing the live issues of the day in Church and State with the fluency and sagacity of his earlier manhood.
> His Christian career was remarkable in its consistency as well as in its duration. For seventy-two years he sought to magnify that grace which called him into the service of his Divine Master.

The portrait of Dr. Newcomb accompanying this sketch is copied from a daguerreotype taken in 1856, when he was seventy-seven years of age.

131. LIEUT. DANIEL[6] NEWCOMB (Silas[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 18 Nov. 1741, in what is now the town of Leyden, Franklin Co., Mass., d. 9 Sept. 1794, at Leyden; m. 1769, Irene, b. 11 Sept. 1745, d. 1816, at Winhall, Vt., dau. of Aaron and Eunice (Frary) Field.

Daniel Newcomb's birthplace was called Falltown, and included the present towns of Bernardston and Leyden. When he was about three years old his parents were driven from their home by the Indians and compelled to leave the country. They returned to their native place, Lebanon, Conn.

On 6 Mar. 1769, Mr. Newcomb was chosen Surveyor of Highways at Bernardston, now Leyden; 3 Mar. 1783, Warden; 4 Dec. 1780, on a committee to settle with Rev. Job Wright. From Land Records, Greenfield, Mass., Vol. 8, p. 410, "Daniel Newcomb of Bernardston for £22: 10, Aug. 20, 1770 bot. of Jonathan Sheldon lot No 90 in 1st division—50 acres. Vol. 8, p. 410, Daniel Newcomb of Bernardston gent. for £12, May 13, 1778, 40 acres part of lot 31, and 40 acres, part of lot 24—both in 3d division." He settled upon the "home lot" at Leyden, where he and his children were born, and resided there until his death.

In 1773, Lieut. Newcomb and his sister's husband, Consider Cushman, were appointed to appraise the real estate of Mr. Newcomb's grandfather, situated in Bernardston. The following is a copy of their statement:

> februwary the 13 1773

In the distribution of his father's estate, 25 June 1774, Mr. Newcomb, being the eldest son, received a "double portion" in the real and personal property. There was set out to him to the value of £97 17s. 10d., lawful money, "the Several Lots, Shares or Rights of Land lying and being in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay"—namely, the home lot in Bernardston, now Leyden, containing 50 acres, £22 10s.; one draft, 50 acres, £4; one-half draft, 25 acres, £6 5s.; one lot in the Gore, so-called, belonging to lot No. 10, £5 10s.; lot No. 10, £3; also, one right of land No. 10 on Hoosac Mt., £4. He also received ten acres of land, a part of his father's old homestead, in Lebanon, which he sold in 1774 to his brother Paul. Of the personal property he received, among other things, the following: "1 hat, 18s.; 1 wig, 10s.; 1 black waistcoat, 20s.; 1 pr. black breeches, 12s.; 1 great coat, 30s.; 1 sword, 5s.; 1 beer barrel, 8d.; 2 washing tubs, 2s.; 1 swill pail, 1s.; 1 narrow ax, 5s.; 1 pr. curtains and valances, 12s.; 1 cart and wheels, 40s.; 1 pocketbook, 1s.," etc.

"Daniel Lieutenant, Capt. Amasa Sheldon's (4th) Co. Col. David Field's (5th Hampshire Co.) regt. of Mass. militia; list of officers chosen in said regt., dated Deerfield, April 22, 1776; Ordered in council May 3, 1776, that said officers be commissioned; reported commissioned May 3, 1776." He also served in the same Co. "July 10, 1777 to July 20, 1777 . . . £1 : 11 : 4 rec'd pay." On 27 July 1778, he was in command of a Company at Boston.

He was Chairman of the Committee of Safety; in 1778 was Committee of Correspondence for Bernardston; was Collector, 1775 and 1785.

The following is a copy of the inscription upon his gravestone in Beaver Meadow Cemetery: "Lieut Daniel Newcomb died Sept 9th 1794 ae 53." His will, dated 3 Sept. 1794, is at Northampton Probate; it was proved 25 Nov. 1794; and on the same date his widow was appointed guardian of minor children. His widow resided for many years with her dau. Jerusha.

(gr.) 22 Mar. 1792, Stafford; m. 21 May 1767, at Somers, Conn., Susanna, dau. of John White. She m. second, William Scott.

Soon after his birth, Silas Newcomb's parents were driven from the country by the Indians, and returned to Lebanon, Conn. He studied medicine and settled in the practice of the profession at Somers.

In 1776 he quit-claimed certain rights to land at Lebanon; and in 1781 he sold his brother Paul "all right in father Silas Newcomb's estate." After residing a few years at Somers, Dr. Newcomb removed to Stafford, Conn. The following are among the items in the inventory of his estate: "192 acres land, £423; negro boy Prince, £25; man Sip, 5s.; girl Nance, £25; total inventory, £965 17s. 10d."

133. BRADFORD[6] NEWCOMB (Silas[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 9 Nov. 1747, at Lebanon, Conn., d. (family rec.) 19 Nov. 1822, or 19 June (gr.) at Greenwich, Mass.; m. first, 1769, Azubah, b. 15 Nov. 1747, d. 11 Apr. 1799, (gr.) at Greenwich, dau. of Jacob and Keziah (Meacham) Phelps of Lebanon; m. second, June 1800, Mrs. Ruth Marvin of New Salem, b. ———, d. after 1822, at New Salem.

In Land Records, Greenfield, Mass., Vol. 3, p. 453, "Bradford Newcomb of Mass. cooper, and Consider Cushman of Bernardston, cordwainer, from Daniel Foot Jr. of Colchester for £10 seven acres in Bernardston—lot 55 in 2d Division, Sept. 14, 1771." In 1774 he bought of his uncle, James[6] Newcomb, for £12 10s., one-half of his grandfather Hezekiah Newcomb's barn; sold lands at Lebanon Dec. 1773.

He settled at Northfield, Mass., where he resided between two and five years; returned to Lebanon; and in 1776 removed to Mansfield, Conn.; from there, 1792, to Greenwich, Mass., where he resided until his death, his residence near the meeting-house. On Mar. 28, 1775, he sold lands subject to the dower of his wife's mother; 16 Dec. 1777, he sold to his brother Paul, for £46, ten acres, part of their father's homestead. He bought land at Greenwich, Mass., 1784, and removed his church connection from Mansfield to Greenwich 1 Sept. 1793. In 1800 he sold lands in Greenwich to his sons, Silas and Bradford, and again to Silas in 1809; also, sold thirty acres to his son Asaph, "bounded by meeting-house and burial lot."

Mr. Newcomb was a patriot soldier in the War of the Revolution. His sword, a very neat one, is remembered by some of his descendants now living. He appears to have held various offices; was moderator of meetings, and on a committee of conference to settle great affairs. The inscription upon his gravestone was partially obliterated by action of fire in burning of a school-house nearby. Administration was granted on his estate to Mr. Tucker, 5 Dec. 1822. In early life he was a cooper; afterward a farmer. The following is a facsimile of his autograph written at the age of fifty-five:

134. PAUL[6] NEWCOMB (Silas[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 15 Mar. 1752, at the old town of Lebanon, Conn., d. Aug. 1794, at Whitehall, Washington Co., N. Y.; m. 26 May 1775, at Lebanon, Martha Woodward, b. ———, at Lebanon, d. 13 Sept. 1819, at Queensbury, Warren Co., N. Y. She m. second, Medad Harvey.

From his father's estate, Paul Newcomb received by distribution, 1774, a lot of land, "also one half of the late dwelling house of M[r]. Hezekiah Newcomb (grandf. of Paul) & the one half of the Barn lately belonging to the Estate of said Hezekiah, with one half of the Shop," etc., "as the Same were set off to s[d] deceased Silas in his life time in the Distribution of the Estate of said Hezekiah."

He settled in the northern part of Lebanon, which was set off in 1804 under the name of Columbia, where both he and his wife were members of the church and where all their children were born. The town records show that he made no less than eleven purchases and as many sales of real estate—a part of these conveyances being from his brothers and sisters, their "rights" to their father's estate. Altogether he owned about 500 acres. In 1779 he bought of Thomas Bill 31½ acres "and the Moore lot bought of Dr. Wheelock"; in 1782 he bought 27 acres of Samuel Guild "on the Hartford road"; of his brother John, for £500, he bought one-half of a grist mill and "land one mile from Meeting House," in what is now Columbia.

Mr. Newcomb was elected surveyor of highways, 1780; grand juryman, 1783; lister, 1789 and succeeding years. He served in the patriot army of the Revolution—a part of the time as quartermaster. He was appointed quartermaster 26 Oct. 1791, by Gov. Samuel Huntington of Connecticut. In 1793 he removed to Whitehall, Washington Co., N. Y., where he died.

Amy, b. about 1755, d. 25 Dec. 1836, at Darien, dau. of Benjamin Franklin of Lebanon, kinsman of Dr. Benjamin Franklin.

In early life Jesse Newcomb was a cooper; afterward a farmer. From the distribution of his father's estate it appears that he received two lots, a portion of the homestead. Among the articles of personal property received were: "1 camblet coat, 18s.; 11¼ lbs. old pewter (used in making spoons, plates, etc.), 9s. 7d.; 1 Gospel Sonnets, 1s. 6d.; Mr. Allen's Sermon, 4d.; 1 flax hetchel, 6s.; carpenter's tools, £1 2s.," etc.

He served in the Revolutionary War at Long Island and Harlem Heights; enlisted 4 July 1776, in Capt. James Clark's Co., and received pay for 3 months, 28 days, £7 16s., on payroll dated 1 Nov. 1776.

Mr. Newcomb made four purchases of land in Lebanon, 1779-1795, and owned a part of his grandfather Newcomb's homestead. He resided both at Lebanon and at Mansfield; however, both he and his wife were living with their son Daniel at Darien, N. Y., when they died.

In 1820 they settled at Madison, Lake Co., O., where they resided until 1851, when they removed to Amboy, Fulton Co., O.; their later address was Metamora, Fulton Co. In one of her letters she wrote: "The house in which I was born was situated on an east and west road, on north side of the road, 6 miles north east from Lebanon, 4½ miles east from Columbia and 5 miles west from Windham. It was built by my grandfather, Silas Newcomb, and afterward owned by my father who sold it to Grinman & Allen in 1804. It was a two story house in front and a low back and was down before 1820; it was not occupied by the Grinman family long." Of her tradition respecting the first Newcomb in this country, she wrote: "I remember distinctly of hearing my parents talk of Francis Newcomb who settled in Braintree, Mass., as being the first from England, and as a relative, but do not know how nearly related; I suppose we were descended from him." She died of heart disease at the residence of her son-in-law, Geo. C. Ely at West Toledo. They removed to Madison, O., in Feb. 1821, and there all of the children were born, as follows: 1 Irvine Brewster, b. 22 Dec. 1822, m. 23 Nov. 1843, Betsey Stiles. 2 Ruby L., b. 1 Nov. 1824, m. 17 Oct. 1855, George Webber (possibly Webster); res. 136. DR. CALVIN[6] NEWCOMB (Silas[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 22 May 1758, at Lebanon (old town), Conn., d. Oct. 1786; m. Eunice, b. 21 Oct. 1766, at Lebanon, d. 1 Feb. 1852, at New London, Conn., dau. of Nathan Lee. She m. second, soon after Oct. 1786, Daniel, b. 4 July 1759, d. 11 Apr. 1839—buried at New London—son of Ebenezer and Rebecca (Colton) Bliss, by whom she had four children.

From the division of his father's estate, 1774, Mr. Newcomb appears to have received three lots of land, a part of the old homestead at Lebanon; a portion of this land, formerly belonging to his grandfather, Hezekiah[4] Newcomb, he sold, in 1779, to his brother Jesse for £250. Of the personal property he received, among other things: "1 small bible, 1s. 6d.; 1 black weed, 8d.; Edwards on various subjects, 1s. 6d.; 1 cheese press, 2s.; 1000 staves and heading, £1; cooper's tools to value of £1 4s.; hive of bees, £1," etc.

Calvin Newcomb studied medicine, and after being admitted to practice, removed to Halifax, Vt., where he was residing in 1782, the same year removing to Sunderland, Vt. He was accidentally drowned in the Hoosac River, while riding across to see a patient. After his death his widow returned to Lebanon. Their children were born in Sunderland.

137. CAPT. JOHN[6] NEWCOMB (Silas[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 26 May 1760, at Lebanon (old town), Windham (now New London) Co., Conn., d. 18 Apr. 1822, at Scipio, Cayuga Co., N. Y.; m. first, 1780, Theoda, b. (fam. rec.) 8 Feb. 1760, or (ch. rec.) bapt. 29 Nov. 1759, at Lebanon, d. 15 Oct. 1817, at Candor, Tioga Co., N. Y., dau. of Samuel and Hannah (Clark) Hunt, granddau. of Samuel (or Gideon) and ——— (Wattles) Hunt, all of Lebanon; m. second, 12 Sept. 1818, at Scipio, Mrs. Reliance (Ticknor) Strong, b. about 1769, d. ———, widow first of Mr. Reed, second of Daniel Strong.

In the distribution of his father's estate, 1774, John Newcomb received certain land called "Metcalf Hill," which once belonged to his grandfather, Hezekiah[4] Newcomb; also, two other pieces of land and one-seventh interest in the barn, at inventory price, £48 18s. 11d. Of the movable or personal estate of his father, to the value of £8 os. 4d., "Lawful Money," he received the following: "1 poplin waistcoat 4^s; 8 y^d Tow Cloth 9^s 6^d; 1 old Bridle 2^s; 1 pr Saddle Bags 5^s; 1 pr Sheeps Sheers 1^s; 1 hammer 8^d; 2 Trammels 10^s; 1 Gridiron 1^s 3^d; 12½ lb Pewter 16^s 8^d; 1 Small Square Table 2^s; 1 Eustatia Glass 7^s; 1 Teapot 2^s 6^d; 5 Whetstones 10^d; 3½ lb Sheeps wooll 4^s 5^d; 1 Coopers Alls 3^s; 1 Breast Bit 1^s; 1 pr Compasses 1^s; 1 Inch Augre 1^s 3^d; ½ Inch Do 9^d; 1 Bung Augre 1^s; 1 Inch Chisel 6^d; 2 large Joyntures 4^s; 1 Grindstone 5^s; 3 old Sythes 1^s 6^d; 1 Do 3^s; 1 Do 6^s; 1 Pitch fork 1^s 6^d; 1 Coopers Ax 3^s; Beetle & rings 2^s 6^d; 1 Iron Crowbar 10^s; 1 pr plough Irons 6^s; 1 old Hh^d 1^s; 2 Tubs 6^d; 1 Glass Bottle 6^d; 1 Draught Chain 10^s; 1 Thousand white oak Staves & heading 20^s; 1 Shod Shovel 2^s 6^d; 4 Geese 8^s."

In early life Mr. Newcomb was a cooper, afterward a farmer. Immediately after his marriage he settled in the northern part of Lebanon, which in 1804 was set off to form what is now the town of Columbia, residing for many years upon what was known as "Metcalf Hill." From the town records it appears that he made no less than seventeen purchases of real estate while at Lebanon. He was elected to town offices as follows: in 1782, collector of taxes; 1785, surveyor of highways; 1795, grand juror; 1797, constable and collector of state taxes; 1798, constable; and in 1801, constable and collector of state taxes.

He served in the Revolutionary War from Lebanon; was conductor of express, 1779-1781, of teams for transporting supplies from Connecticut to the Continental Army.

In Oct. 1805, eight months after the birth of the youngest child, Theoda, they removed to Oxford, N. Y.; 1809 to Owasco Flats or Moravia in Cayuga Co.; 1812 to Oswego; 1814 to Moravia; 1815 to Oxford and the same year to Owego in Tioga Co.; 1816 to Candor, Tioga Co. At the latter place his wife died and her remains were taken to Owego for interment. In 1818 he removed to Scipio. In 1862 his second wife, then a widow, was living with her son, Daniel R. Strong, at Wyoming, N. Y.

While residing in New York Mr. Newcomb held various offices—was justice of the peace for many years; also, captain of a cavalry company; was a prominent member of the masonic fraternity. The pair of gold buttons worn by his grandfather, Hezekiah[4] Newcomb, on the occasion of his marriage to Jerusha Bradford in 1716 (one hundred years earlier) came into his possession and were by him transformed into a masonic emblem, and worn, a cord passing through the emblem and about his neck; upon one side he had engraved his name, John Newcomb, and the letters M M M upon the reverse, around the outer edge the letters H T W S S T K S, and within the circle the words Holy Bible. The emblem was in the possession of Daniel R. Strong of LeRoy, N. Y., whose mother, Reliance, was John Newcomb's second wife. It was purchased in November 1874, by John Newcomb Knapp, grandson of Capt. John Newcomb (no. ix-2 following) with the intention of preserving the emblem in the family. "Mr. N. was an intelligent and an eminently good man." The following is a facsimile of his autograph, written in 1818:

138. Dr. Luther[6] Newcomb (Silas[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 12 June 1762, at Lebanon, Conn., d. 8 June 1834, (gr.) at Bristol, Vt.; m. 1782-3, Pamelia (Larrabee), b. about 1753, d. 15 Jan. 1835, (gr.) at Bristol, widow of Samuel Kennedy of Windham, Conn.

Luther Newcomb volunteered as a private, June or July 1778, for six months, while residing with his brother Daniel at Bernardston, later Leyden, Mass. There being no captain, the company was commanded by Lieut. Amasa Camp, afterward by Capt. E. Chapin. He was required to guard munitions and stores at Springfield, Mass., etc.; as guard, he accompanied the conveyance of stores to Boston; then to Brookfield, Mass., and remained, as guard to the magazine, until ordered to Rutland, Mass., to perform the same duty to prisoners from the army of Gen. Burgoyne; returned to Brookfield and was discharged at the end of six months. In the summer of 1779 he went back to Lebanon and became a substitute for his brother in Capt. Elias Bliss' Co., Col. Ledyard's Regt.; marched to Groton Fort, opposite New London, Conn., discharged at end of two months. In the summer of 1780 he rendered service on board the privateer sloop Randolph, Capt. Nicholas Bostwick of New London; crept out in defiance of several British frigates off Stonington blockading both harbors; passed outside of Long Island to Sandy Hook; captured the British privateer Hibernia, and re-captured a French vessel taken by the British; safely returned, after an absence of one month, with these and two small schooners, to New London.

He was a pensioner under Act of 1832. During the war he studied medicine at Hartford, Conn., and he practiced medicine and surgery for fifty years. He represented the town of Bristol, Vt., in the Legislature, 1816.

In Sept. 1783, Mr. Newcomb sold house and land at Windham, Conn., and removed to Sunderland, Bennington Co., Vt.; after five months, 1784, he went to White Hall, N. Y.; in 1804, removed to Shoreham, Addison Co., Vt.; afterward to New Haven and Bristol, in the same county. His property was at one time swept away by a flood.

139. HEZEKIAH[6] NEWCOMB (Peter[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 6 May 1747, at Lebanon, now Columbia, Conn., d. 25 Jan. 1821, at Bernardston, Mass.; m. 15 Sept. 1768, Lydia, b. 9 Jan. 1749, at Norwich, Conn., d. 19 Mar. 1834, at Bernardston, dau. of Thomas[3] and Mary (Smith) Hunt.

Hezekiah Newcomb's father's homestead was about two miles east of the present village of Columbia, but was known at the time of his birth as the "Crank" or "Second Society of Lebanon." For a number of years before his marriage he resided with his grandfather, Hezekiah[4] Newcomb, near the present village of Lebanon.

He was executor, his mother executrix, of his father's will in 1779. In addition to what his father had previously given him he received the "Kingsley Lot," containing eleven acres, the "River Pasture," seven acres, and "my best suit of clothes." The same year he sold 19 acres, 26 rods in Lebanon, for £116, received from his father.

On 2 Aug. 1770, he received by deed from his grandfather, in Lebanon, in consideration of "Love Good Will and Affection .. all the right title and interest I have and hold in partnership with Simon Gager in one full right the home lot or 1st Division lot No. 49, meadow lot No. 56, and after drafts," all in Bernardston, Mass. He removed to Bernardston, now in Franklin Co., before 6 Dec. 1773, as appears by record of "a legal meeting of the Freeholders and other Inhabitants of Bernardston, held at the House of Mr. Elijah Sheldon, in said Town," when it was "Voted that Messrs. Hezekiah Newcomb, Caleb Chapin, Elijah Kingsley, Daniel Slate and Ezekiel Foster be a Committee to plan ye pews in ye Meeting house according to Greenfield Meeting house—also to seet said house & order where people may erect pews, and the people that build pews shall hold them one year next ensuing, & no longer unless the Town see cause, and the Committee are directed to observe this rule in seeting ye house, viz: Age, Estate and Qualification." In June 1776, as appears by record of town meeting, it was "voted that Mr. Hezekiah Newcomb be employed to hire three men for nine months to serve in the Continental Army; the men are to be hired by money paid by fines."

The farm at Bernardston upon which Mr. Newcomb settled and where he lived for many years, is situated upon the north side of the road leading in a northwesterly direction from the village, at a distance of about four miles, and adjoins the farm of his brother William which was later owned by William Hart[8] Newcomb (No. 976). Several years before his death, Mr. Newcomb removed to his farm in the southern part of Bernardston, later owned and occupied by his grandson, Almon[8] Newcomb (No. 952).

"Land records at Greenfield, Mass., vol. 1 p. 182, Hezekiah Newcomb of Bernardston, for £20, Apr. 8, 1786: bot of Israel Bagg. of Leyden 10 acres."

Mr. Newcomb held the following town offices: 1773, deer reeve; 1774, surveyor of highways; 1776, warden; 1779, collector and selectman; 1780, "to purchase beef and deliver it to the state purchaser" 4 Dec., on committee to settled with Rev. Job Wright; 1781, "to purchase beef," etc., moderator of town meeting; 1782, surveyor of highways; 1783-4, selectman; 15 Aug. 1783, on committee on laying out of road; 1 Dec. on committee to settle with town treasurer; 1784—9 Dec. on committee to build bridge by Mr. Campbell's old saw mill, 18 Dec. on committee to divide public money; 1785—on list of jurors; 7 Mar., surveyor of highways. He was also justice of the peace for many years; selectman and assessor, four years; town treasurer, two years; representative to the General Court—Legislature—three years. The following is his autograph, written in 1802, at the age of fifty-five:

Mrs. Newcomb's estate was brought into probate in 1834.

141. WILLIAM[6] NEWCOMB (Peter[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 19 Mar. 1752, at Lebanon, now Columbia, Tolland Co., Conn., d. 29 Dec. 1822, at Bernardston, Mass.; m. 1779, Elizabeth, b. 1757, at Falltown, later called Bernardston, d. there 14 Nov. 1821, dau. of Samuel and Mary (English) Cunnabell, later written Connable, of Falltown.

The old homestead in which William Newcomb was born was on the north side of the direct road leading from Columbia to Windham, two miles east of the church at Columbia, also a few rods east of the crossroad running north and south. A barn later stood nearly where the house stood. He remained at home, carrying on his father's farm, until he was twenty-four years old. Mrs. Newcomb was born in the old Burke Fort, where her parents took refuge to save themselves from the tomahawk and scalping knife of the Indians.

William Newcomb served as a private in Capt. William Richards' Co., First Regt., Conn. Line, commanded by Cols. Jedediah Huntington and Josiah Starr. On Apr. 28, 1777, he enlisted for a period of eight months, term expiring 12 Jan. 1778. "The regiment was raised mainly in New London Co., took the field in the spring of 1777 at Peekskill, N. Y. and remained there in camp until ordered under Genl. McDougal to join Washington's Army in Pennsylvania, Sept. 1777. Was engaged on the left flank at the battle of Germantown Oct. 4: the reg't suffered some loss in killed, wounded and prisoners at Germantown . . . and wintered at Valley Forge (16 miles from Phila.) Dec. 19, 1777-78."

By will of his father, 9 Sept. 1779, he received the "Lot I Live on with the appurtenances, Containing 35 acres," also "all the Land I have in Bernardston," Mass.; "all my farming and joiners tools," and "one fourth of any other property not disposed of." He sold the home lot—his birthplace—to his brother Joseph and sister Jemima, and removed to Bernardston, where he settled upon the farm which he received from his father, previously owned by his grandfather, Hezekiah[4] Newcomb, residing there until his death. The house he built and lived in was upon the south side of "Newcomb Road," in the northwest part of town, about four miles from the village; the road leads from the main road, running north and south through North Bernardston to "Frizzle Hill."

In 1787 his mark was "a crop in ye left ear and a slit the under side of the same, & a half penny the upper side of the right ear."

From land records at Greenfield, Mass.—Vol. 7, p. 342, "Wm Newcomb of Bernardston for £3: 16: 6 bot of John Connabell. Jr. and wife Lydia of Leyden 4 acres and 94 rods in Bernardston—Apr. 3, 1794."

The following is a facsimile of Mr. Newcomb's autograph, written at the age of fifty-four, taken from his old account book (given to his son, Samuel[7], who gave it to his nephew, John Bearse[8] Newcomb (No. 977) who, about 1877, gave it to his cousin, George W.[8] Newcomb (No. 970):

Mr. Newcomb was a juror, 1789. Altogether, he owned 250 acres, a part in Guilford, adjoining Bernardston. Inventory of his estate, 23 Jan. 1823, showed homestead, 59 acres, with buildings, $1,067.00; 54 acres of land north of Leyden, $475.00; total $1,542.00; grand total of $3,633.24 for real and personal property. This inventory was recorded 18 Feb. 1823, Samuel Newcomb, administrator; R. E. Newcomb, Judge of Probate; Hezekiah Newcomb, Joseph Conable, H. Purple, appraisers.

On 11 Nov. 1825, the home farm was sold for $900.00 to Hart[7] Newcomb, son of William[6], who resided upon it until his decease, 1863; it was then owned and occupied by William Hart[8], son of Hart[7], great-grandson of the original proprietor.

Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb were interred in the old cemetery. The inscriptions upon their gravestones are as follows:

Mr.
William Newcomb

144. JAMES[6] NEWCOMB (James[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 22 May 1756, at Lebanon, Conn., d. Feb. 1813, at Petersburgh, N. Y.; m. 1782, at Lebanon, Puella (Fitch) Pierce, b. about 1752, d. about 1827 in Cayuga Co., N. Y., widow of Benjamin Pierce, dau. of Beriah and Deborah (Gorham) Fitch of Nantucket, Mass.

James Newcomb served actively in the War of the Revolution for nearly seven years. "He served in 6th Co. Capt. James Clark, 3d reg't; Genl Putnam, May 11, to Dec. 11, 1775, and was at the Battle of Bunker Hill." He served as private, also as corporal, in Capt. William Richard's Co., 1st Connecticut Regt., Col. Josiah Starr, from 15 May 1777, to 15 May 1780. Near the close of the war he was captured by the Indians under Brandt, in the Genesee country, western New York; was marched with his hands tied behind him, in company with 60 other white men, under Lieut. Phelps, to the St. Lawrence River, and from there conveyed by boat to Montreal and sold to the British for blankets, guns, ammunition, tomahawks, scalping-knives, whiskey, etc. He was kept in prison at Montreal for some time, during which a British officer came to the prison and called for the two strongest men among the 600 prisoners. Mr. Newcomb and an Irishman named Halstead were selected to work on the fortifications, carrying stone on a hand-barrow. After working for a few days they broke guard and escaped south into the wilderness, eluding pursuit by British and Indians. They traveled for 29 days as nearly south as they could, subsisting on 1 loaf of bread, 1 rabbit, 2 frogs, and what bark and roots they could find. They often became so famished and exhausted that they would lie down, believing that they must die. On the 29th day of their wandering they were found by three hunters, and were so famished that they could hardly crawl on their hands and knees. The first salutation of the hunters was: "Are you for George Washington or King George?" They answered: "George Washington!," upon which the hunters approached them and, on viewing their bruised, emaciated and naked condition, wept like children. Their shoes were gone, and they had torn their clothes piecemeal to wrap up and save their bleeding feet. The hunters carried them about three miles, reaching a colonial settlement at the Upper Cowas or Oxbow, near the head of the Connecticut River. They reached home about the time that peace was concluded between the Colonies and Great Britain.

Mr. Newcomb was a farmer. In 1785 he resided at Stephentown, Rensselaer Co., N. Y.; later resided at Petersburgh. The first child was born at Willington, Conn.; the next three at Stephentown; the last five at Petersburgh.

and Elizabeth (Bennitt) Webster; m. second, 9 May 1836, Mrs. Sylvia (Alfred) Bronson, b. 9 May 1778, d. 15 May 1858, at La Fayette, N. Y.

Thomas Newcomb was ordered drafted, 23 Aug. 1777—at the age of 16—as substitute for a Mr. Thomas, and served from 25 Aug. to 8 Oct. He was in Capt. Skinner's Co., Col. Lattimore's regt., on the march to Stillwater, Saratoga Co., N. Y., one or two days after the battle at that place, 19 Sept.; was in the reserve during the battle of 7 Oct. with Burgoyne. After Burgoyne's surrender he marched to Red Hook, where he was discharged. Just prior to 1 Jan. 1778, he volunteered under Capt. Joseph Hill of Lebanon for three months; marched to Providence, R. I., and in the latter part of Feb. obtained permission to serve as marine on board the U. S. ship Warren, Capt. Hogekins; ran the blockade in the night; captured at Newport, near the Bermudas, the Neptune, a merchant vessel, and returned to Boston about 1 May. In the latter part of May shipped as marine on board the frigate Dean, Capt. Hindman, at New London, with his brother, David[6]; absent three months; returned to Boston after capturing two merchant vessels, one a very valuable prize. He served for two months in 1779; Jan. 1779, was in 4th Regt., 5th Co.; on ship Vengeance to Penobscot. He did garrison duty at Ft. Griswold, Groton, Conn., under Capt. Latham and Col. Ledyard, for three months, 1781; was discharged a few days before the fort was captured by the enemy. On 5 Aug. 1781, his brother, David[6], having been drafted for nine months, he acted as substitute; was enrolled at White Plains, Capt. Wright's Co., Col. Swift's Regt.; rendered service near Peekskill, and in a whale-boat on Long Island Sound; captured a sloop, and, immediately after, another armed with ten guns, making her a prize, with three other sloops, loaded with wood and forage for the British army; carried them into Stamford, Conn.

Mr. Newcomb was a farmer. He removed from Lebanon to Mansfield, Conn., Apr. 1785; joined chh. there 1 Oct. 1786, and remained three years; thence to Canaan, Columbia Co., N. Y.; after one year removed to and remained in Bethlehem, Albany Co., for fourteen months; then to Austerlitz; in Apr. 1825, to Onondaga Hollow; in 1836 to Cicero; in 1838 to Van Buren, and returned to Cicero, where he died. His widow drew land warrant for his services, and she made oath, 7 Mar. 1855, that he died at Cicero 11 Oct. 1853.

The following is a facsmile of Mr. Newcomb's autograph:

Y., d. after 1862 at New York City. Rachel m. second, Seymour Whiting.

One Obadiah Newcomb made petition to Congress for pension for Revolutionary War service ("it may not be this one"); however, the committee was discharged and the petition was laid on the table. The grandson of Obadiah, Evander Berry[8] Newcomb (No. 1047), gives the following account (possibly referring to Daniel[5]):

"I was only seven years old, but I remember going to his funeral with my father and mother.

"The old man was in the battle of Brandywine and served under General Green. He was chased through the swamps by Cornwallis and he told me many stories . . . . interesting to boys of my age. He told me about the suffering at Valley Forge and how Washington used to come and cheer up the poor suffering soldiers or ragmuffins, as the redcoats used to call them; and how Washington used to speak a word of comfort to the men when they camped through the cold winter of 1778. He got his pay in Shinplasters but they would not buy him a cracker, and he pasted them all over his kitchen wall. My father had his old flint lock musket and powder horn and the family has these old relics as treasures."

Mr. Newcomb was a carpenter. That he moved about considerably is shown by the birthplaces of his children—the first born at Hebron; second and third at Coxsackie, Green Co., N. Y.; fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh at Hudson, N. Y.; the others in New York City.

164. Simon Lathrop[6] Newcomb (Simon[5], Simon[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 9 June 1769, at Fort Cumberland, N. S., d. Sept. 1846, at Wallace, N. S.; m. 1798, at Pictou, Jane, b. 24 Apr. 1771, at Pictou, d. 3 Feb. 1863, at Wallace, youngest dau. of Matthew and Sutia Harris of Pictou.

Jane Harris was the first white female child born in the District, now the County, of Pictou.

Simon Newcomb, at the age of ten years, was bound out to serve four years, and at the end of that time he attended school and worked upon a farm. At the age of sixteen he made it a rule never to leave a school until he knew more than the teacher and all the scholars, a rule which he never broke. In addition to the common branches, he had a good knowledge of history, algebra, geometry, trigonometry, surveying and navigation.

At the age of twenty he went to Amherst and engaged in the occupation of stone-cutting and sculpture, a business at which he worked to a greater or less extent nearly all his life. He also engaged in farming and teaching several years. In 1795 he went to Pictou on the Gulf of St. Lawrence, where he resided for fifteen years; he opened up several new quarries and sent large quantities of stone to Halifax. He removed to Wallace, N. S., in 1810. At Pictou he was a captain of militia and a leading man in politics. At Wallace he for many years did most of the public writing on petitions and documents for the legislature and was often chosen arbitrator for settling differences between individuals.

Obadiah Newcomb was born only a little more than a year before his father's death. He was brought up by his uncle, Capt. Ratchford, whose wife was his mother's sister.

In July 1801, he removed from Horton to Hopewell, near the Bay of Fundy, N. B. In 1816 he sold his farm at Hopewell and returned to Horton, removing from there, July 1817, to Pittsburgh, Pa., where he gathered a large church. He preached until Apr. 1820, at Pittsburgh, then removed to Wadsworth, O. "He was a devoted preacher—his conduct corresponded with what he taught. Worked hard—preached, and went far and near to doctor the sick, help the needy and instruct the ignorant." He was engaged in preaching for about fifty years, a Baptist minister.

169. CAPT. REUBEN[6] NEWCOMB (Simeon[5], Simon[4], Thomas[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. about 1747 at Eastham, now Wellfleet, Barnstable Co., Mass., d. about 1814 at Hampden, Me.; m. 26 Jan. 1769, at Eastham, Mehitable, b. 18 Oct. 1753, d. 1816, third dau. of James and Thankful (Young) Atwood.

In valuation of Wellfleet, 1770, Reuben Newcomb was put down "1 poll, 1 house £1, 1 cow and 6 swine." About 1775 he removed to Hampden, Me.; was a ship-master in early life; built the second grist mill at Hampden; became, later in life, a ship builder and owner.

On 17 May 1775, "he of Wellfleet mariner sold Wm Newcomb and Simon Newcomb Jr for £10, 1s: 4—1/3 of 1/8 of Pierces Meadow in Wellfleet 'which I bot of my grandfather Simon Newcomb.' "

In 1786 he was called "Colonel Newcomb of Hampden, Me." He settled on land at Hampden in 1786. The house he erected and lived in until his death was burned to the ground in Apr. 1871. As one of a committee—the others being Simeon, Jonathan, Peter, etc.—he signed a petition to General Court, 22 May 1790, "to extend time of payment on land and appointment of suitable person to receive money and exceute deeds for lands." His land was lot No. 19; Simeon, No. 61; Reuben, 131; Peter, 132; Jonathan, 133.

In 1798, Capt. Newcomb and his wife, "of Frankfort," sold land in Hancock Co.

Quite probably Reuben Newcomb took an active part in the Revolutionary War, and he is probably referred to in the following concerning troops stationed at a junction of Penobscot and Magabigwaduce Rivers, Me.: "Thursday, Aug. 5th. This afternoon a part of the enemy sally'd out on our right, but upon receiving a fire from our pickets they retir'd in confusion to their fort. Capt. Newcomb with his rangers had a skirmish with a party of the Enemy; kill'd 4. we lost one Indian." (General Lovell's Journal.)

188. CAPT. ELISHA[6] NEWCOMB (Elisha[5], Joseph[4], Thomas[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. at Chatham, Mass., 16 Aug. 1770, d. 1820, at his residence called "Washington," Prince George Co., Va.; m. 10 Jan. 1795, Dinwiddie Co., Va., Mary Ann, b. 1781, d. 23 Jan. 1845, Prince George Co., dau. of Augustine and Hannah Billups.

The home of Elisha Newcomb in Prince George Co., Va., is located about eleven miles from Petersburg and three miles from P. G. Co. Court House. It is four miles from the old Episcopal Church built 1857, all material, bricks, tile for flooring, lumber, etc., being brought from England. This church was occupied during the Civil War by Federal troops as a stable. It is now (1920) occupied for religious services. The old Newcomb homestead passed out of the family about 1910, and is still (1920) in a good state of preservation.

Capt. Newcomb was a master mariner in early life and later a farmer; removed from Massachusetts to New Kent Co., Va., about 1793 and was for a time in command of a ship. Soon after his marriage he retired from the sea and located in New Kent Co., later moved to Chesterfield Co. and again to Petersburg: from thence to Prince George Co. where he settled upon a farm, naming his home "Washington." After his death his widow m. second, 23 Aug. 1823, Grief Williams; he committed suicide a few months after and the widow remained in Prince George Co. until her death and was buried in the old family graveyard beside her first husband.

28 Feb. 1818, John Howell of Fairfield Twp. attorney for Joseph (6) Newcomb of 1 part & Lavisa Gandy of same of 2nd part. Sold to Lavicy Gandy lot in Fairfield Twp. of 1 acre which Joseph Newcomb bought of Silas Smith 25 Jan. 1813.

Joseph[6] Newcomb removed to Champaign Co., O., fall of 1817, accompanied by his wife and four living children, where he engaged in farming and where three other children were born. His family Bible, printed 1816, in which he recorded his own and his wife's birth dates and marriage dates, with birth and death dates of his children, is now in possession of his grandson Talmon[8] Newcomb of Camas, Wash., and is in excellent state of preservation. The inscriptions therein indicate that Joseph was a man of education and strong character. The latest record in handwriting of Joseph[6] is the birth of his son Howell, 6 Oct. 1825. After this date the family record was continued by his son Sheppard, who failed to record his father's death.

250. Obadiah[7] Newcomb (Abraham[6], Eddy[5], John[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 6 Feb. 1777, at Cornwallis, N. S., d. 17 May 1855 (gr.); m. first, 16 July 1802, Lydia, b. 19 Nov. 1779, at Cornwallis, d. 20 Oct. 1814 (gr.), dau. of Ezra and Hannah Huntington; m. second, 23 Nov. 1815, Rebecca, b. 6 Nov. 1786, d. 1 Jan. 1855 (gr.), dau. of Roland and Alice[6] (Newcomb) Morton (No. 37-vi-1).

Obadiah Newcomb was a farmer, residing at East Cornwallis. He was a strict Presbyterian and with him the Sabbath was held sacred. He once mistook Sunday for Saturday, and had his son Obadiah haul wood, the rest of the household busy as on a week-day, his wife churning butter and pounding salt. When a neighbor told him of his mistake, he at once had Obadiah haul the wood back to the forest and place it where he found it.

It has been stated, on good authority, that Mr. Newcomb once had papers in his possession which contained a genealogy of the Newcomb family, brought to Cornwallis in 1760 by the first Newcomb settlers. The genealogy extended back many generations, was written in Scripture phraseology—"which was the son of," etc.; and according to it the family came from "the West of England." These papers had been preserved at the old homestead of his father, but when search was made for them, it was found they had been destroyed by children as waste paper. Mr. Newcomb's grandfather, Deacon John[4] Newcomb, who removed to Cornwallis in 1760 at the age of about seventy-two, resided near his grandfather, Lieut. Andrew[2] Newcomb, at Martha's Vineyard, Mass., for about twenty years and must have been very familiar with the early history of the family in this country.

308. DANIEL TOBIAS[7] NEWCOMB (Daniel[6], Zaccheus[5], Thomas[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 25 July 1794, at Pittstown, Rensselaer Co., N. Y., d. 22 Dec. 1870, at Davenport, Ia.; m. 13 July 1825, Patience Viele, b. 5 Feb. 1804, at Pittstown, d. 20 Aug. 1891, at Rochester, N. Y., interred at Davenport, Ia., eldest dau. of Abraham L. and Hannah (Douglass) Viele of Pittstown.

In the War of 1812 Mr. Newcomb served under Capt. John Fake, Col. William Knickerbacker, in brigade commanded by Gen. Eddy, at invasion of Plattsburgh, Sept. 1814.

Daniel Newcomb was born at the old homestead of his parents, and his youth and early manhood were spent on his father's farm in his favorite pursuit—agriculture. In 1822, at the age of twenty-eight, he located in Essex Co., N. Y., with a view to the cultivation of a large tract of land which he owned there—situated in what is now the town of Newcomb, so called after him, incorporated in 1828, and of which he was the first supervisor. After his marriage they resided in Essex County, then a wild region of the Adirondacks, for four or five years, when they returned to Pittstown. His great ambition was to become a large agriculturist; he decided, therefore, to explore the "Great West." Early in Jan. 1837, he left his home and traveled alone on horseback (the snow in many places two feet deep) through New York, Upper Canada, Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois, to the Mississippi River, crossing the river into what is now Iowa—then Wisconsin Territory—and after his explorations decided to settle on the west side of the "Father of Waters." In September Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb, with Mrs. Newcomb's parents, emigrated to Iowa, arriving 10 Nov. 1837. They located in a beautiful part of the country, on the Mississippi River, about fifteen miles below Rock Island, where they took possession of a log cabin. There were at the time but two counties in what is now Iowa—Dubuque and Des Moines. For several years they endured the labor, fatigue and privations incident to settling and opening a farm in a new country. The proceeds and profits of Mr. Newcomb's estate, under his wise management and untiring industry, accumulated into a large fortune.

At an early day, seeing that the location of the site of the present town of Davenport was surpassingly beautiful, even in its natural state, he decided to make it his future home. Accordingly, in 1853 he removed to Davenport and erected a fine residence—known as the "Newcomb Mansion"—on spacious grounds. In this lovely home, which commands a charming view of the Mississippi River and Rock Island, he spent the remainder of his days, dispensing the same generous hospitality that he had in his cabin in the country.

Mr. Newcomb was a man of little or no personal pretensions, unusually retiring, remarkable for sound judgment and close observation, his uprightness unquestionable, correct in all his dealings, so generous to the needy and kind to the poor that he was often called "the poor man's friend." The law of his life was the golden rule—"Do to others as you would have others do to you." No man could with truth charge him with injustice or oppression in a business transaction, and all trusts committed to him were scrupulously performed. The sternness of his character was equaled only by his goodness, temperance and integrity. Though never a member of any Christian denomination (his sympathies were with the old-school Presbyterians), yet he always entertained a profound respect for religion and its ordinances, and manifested his sense of duty by an habitual attendance at the house of worship. He lived and died in the assurance of a blessed immortality. He often said his hope of heaven was unclouded, that death to him had no terrors, the silent grave no gloom. No words more fully represented his feelings than the following: "I know that my Redeemer liveth," a sentiment expressed a short time previous to his death. His character may be thus briefly summed up: to a sound judgment and uprightness of heart and life he united great energy and untiring industry in all affairs of business.

Mrs. Newcomb's long devotion to her husband and to his memory were not more marked than her benevolence in every good work about her by which the happiness or well-being of others might be promoted; she united in her character those qualities which have ever rendered woman a blessing to the world. She erected to her husband's memory the Newcomb Memorial Chapel at Davenport. In 1875-6 she gave a lot from her homestead—valued at $5,000.00—to the Davenport Academy of Sciences; also presented to the Society five large oil paintings, set in rich frames, of herself and husband, together with a copy of the "Newcomb Genealogy" bound in Morocco, etc. She also gave the ground upon which stands the Presbyterian Church and other religious and educational institutions; was chief patron of the public library, and gave $25,000.00 to found the Old Ladies' Home at Davenport.

They had no issue. Mrs. Newcomb's mother was interred at Oak Dale Cemetery in Davenport beside her husband and in the same lot with Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb.

The accompanying portrait of Mr. Newcomb was engraved from a photograph taken a short time before his decease.

Thomas Wallace Newcomb

N. Y., d. 4 June 1870, at Albany, N. Y.; m. 17 Dec. 1823, Nomina[7] Newcomb (No. 130-ii), d. 16 Jan. 1805, at Pittstown, d. 16 Apr. 1882, at Lansingburgh, N. Y.

Mr. Newcomb resided upon his father's farm at Pittstown, inheriting it after his father's death. Active, untiring and well-informed, he engaged at an early date in mercantile pursuits; in 1840 sold his farm and settled at Troy, where he established an extensive and lucrative trade in the drug business. In 1842 he removed to Lansingburgh; in 1848 to Albany, N. Y., when he retired from business with a competence. In business he was prompt, accurate and of scrupulous and unswerving integrity; up to the time of his death he enjoyed the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

A kind and affectionate husband and father, refined and delicate in his feelings, thoroughly domestic in his tastes, unassuming, kind-hearted, delighting in the retiracy of a happy home, a patriarch among his unusually large family, he bore the weight of years with such vivacity and such a spirit of youth that he seemed scarcely advanced beyond the prime of life. Of firm religious convictions and equally settled in his political opinions, he respected the views and sentiments of others, and while listening with patience, could refute with judgment. His portrait accompanies this sketch.

His widow resided with her children. The first seven were born at Pittstown.

Mr. Newcomb was a farmer. He inherited the farm and family mansion of his grandfather, Zaccheus[5] Newcomb, including the land upon which his great-grandfather, Thomas[4] Newcomb, settled in 1746 and where he died in 1761. John Newcomb lived in the mansion until 1859, when he sold the estate to James Allen, who in turn conveyed it to Anthony Briggs. What remained of the old brick house and farm, about 230 acres, again came into possession of the family through the purchase of the same, about 1912, by Mrs. J. Adams Brown (Flora Dunlery[9] Newcomb—No. 815-vi.), dau. of Thomas[8]. The house has been restored as nearly as possible to its original state.

In 1859 Mr. Newcomb removed to Hyde Park, where he continued to reside until his death.

329. DR. WESLEY[7] NEWCOMB (Simon[6], Simon[5], Thomas[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 20 Oct. 1808, at Pittstown, Rensselaer Co., N. Y., d. 26 Jan. 1892, at Ithaca, N. Y.; m. 20 Feb. 1838, Mrs. Helen H. Post, b. 5 Nov. 1812, at Manchester, Vt., d. 8 July 1893, at Ithaca, dau. of Eliphalet and Hannah (Swift) Wells.

Mr. Newcomb received an academic education at White Plains Academy, Westchester Co., from John A. Gillett, his private tutor in mathematics, and Prof. Amos Eaton in science; graduated in medicine from Vermont Medical Academy at Castleton, being one of three valedictorians. During his term of three years' study he took courses of lectures in New York and Philadelphia, and spent some time in France. He then became house surgeon of the hospital department of the Albany almshouse; remained one year, when he opened an office in the city of Albany, and became connected in practice with Dr. Henry Van Antwerp. Subsequently he formed a partnership with his brother-in-law, Thomas W.[7] Newcomb, in the wholesale drug business at Troy.

Dr. Newcomb was always a close student, with a penchant for scientific research; and, believing that to understand geology in the later formations required a knowledge of the fossil contents of the rocks, he early directed his attention to the study of conchology as the alphabet of palaeontology, a branch of science which has changed the whole character of geology, and reduced it to a more perfect science. He was at the time the most distinguished conchologist in America. Upon his second visit to Europe he was cordially received, and even fêted, by some of the most celebrated savants of London and Paris. During a residence of five years at Honolulu he enjoyed facilities for collecting the land shells of the entire group. As one result of these labors may be mentioned his description of over one hundred new species of the genus Achatinella, the larger part published in the Zoological Proceedings of London, the balance by the Boston Natural History Society, Lyceum of Natural History of New York, Tryon's Conchological Journal, and in Proceedings of California Academy of Natural Sciences. In his various explorations in Europe, the West Indies, South America, Central America and Mexico he has added much to knowledge in many departments of Natural History. His vast acquisitions obtained by dredging, employing divers, and by personal search on the shores of different countries were placed in the museum of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

For four years Dr. Newcomb was connected with Cornell, where he filled more than 20,000 tablets with the shells of molluscous animals carefully named and classified. He also added many thousand specimens from the radiata, articulata and vertebrata. The collection occupied over two thousand square feet of surface and was purchased for about $20,000.00. The mineral and geological collection was also greatly enriched by additions from South America and especially from the state of Nevada.

In 1857 Dr. Newcomb established himself in the practice of his profession at Oakland, Calif. During the twelve years spent there he described many of the helices of California, also fresh water and marine species, and delivered a course of lectures on natural history in what was at that time called California College—later the University of California.

In 1870 he accompanied the Santo Domingo commissioners as sanitary expert. During the expedition he discovered the previously unknown locality of La Marck's helicina viridis, and his collection of new species were described in the Journal de Conchologie, Paris.

In 1871 Dr. Newcomb was appointed by the President of the United States as one of three commissioners to investigate the Sutro Tunnel, a mining project of great importance, leading from Carson Valley to Virginia City, and their report met with the approval of the Government.

He passed the winter of 1872-3 in south Florida, making explorations and adding to his collection in zoology and botany, now to be seen in many collections, both public and private, in Europe and America.

In his numerous expeditions he was accompanied, except in two or three instances, by his wife, whose skill in delineating delicate and perishable specimens with her pencil was of great service as well as her aid in preserving specimens.

They were living at Ithaca 1877, 1882, 1884. The accompanying portrait of Dr. Newcomb was engraved from a photograph taken when he was forty-eight years of age.

Mr. Newcomb's first wife, mother of his children, was a lineal descendant of Robert Day who came from Braintree, county of Essex, Eng., to America in 1634, and her father was for many years a member of the Vermont Assembly. Soon after their marriage they settled at Whitehall, N. Y., but returned to Winhall; in Mar. 1816, removed to a farm, two miles southwest of Morrisville, at Eaton. He was a tanner, currier, shoemaker, after removal to New York, a farmer. At Winhall he was deacon of Presbyterian church; afterward a ruling elder in church at Morrisville. Ministers usually "put up" with him, in accordance with a rule he often quoted—"be not forgetful to entertain strangers."

On Dr. Newcomb's gravestone at Naples appear the following lines:

"Thousands of journeys on the way
Ive traveled weary night and day;
To heal the sick, but now I'm gone
A journey never to return."

341. CAPT. ASAHEL[7] NEWCOMB (Paul[6], Silas[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 28 Aug. 1779, at Lebanon, Conn., d. 5 May 1862, at Pike, N. Y.; m. first, 1798, at Whitehall, Washington Co., N. Y., Elizabeth, b. 5 Dec. 1779, d. 23 Apr. 1835 (gr.), dau. of Thomas and Sarah (Vine) Bogges of Whitehall; m. second, Mrs. Polly (Sawyer), b. about 1785, d. 2 May 1860, widow of Josiah Metcalf.

In 1788, 1789 and 1790 Mr. Newcomb resided with his father's cousin, Joseph[6] Newcomb, two miles east of the church; when he was fourteen years old his parents removed to Whitehall, N. Y. In 1806 he removed from Whitehall to Pike, thus being one of the pioneers of the Holland Purchase. Pike was then in Genesee Co., afterward Allegany, now Wyoming Co., N. Y. His farm was about one mile east of the village and on the right-hand side of the road leading to Portage, and there he resided the rest of his life. He filled many public trusts—held office of justice of the peace; was commissioned coroner of Allegany Co., 21 Feb. 1811, and 28 Mar. 1812; commissioned, 30 Apr. 1808, by Gov. Daniel D. Tompkins, as lieutenant in regiment commanded by Lieut.-Col. Luke Goodspeed; afterward commissioned as captain. From Gov. Clinton received appointment as judge of Allegany Co., which honor he declined. "He was a public-spirited citizen, a kind neighbor, and an honest man." The following is a facsimile of his autograph written in 1832:

Capt. Newcomb had the reputation of being a practical joker. Upon one occasion, when away from home and in attendance at court, he took dinner with others at a public-house. The meat having been served, one of the men arose and, taking the pepper-box, plentifully sprinkled it, saying: "Gentlemen, I suppose you are all fond of pepper." Capt. Newcomb, who disliked even the odor of pepper, immediately arose, and, taking his well-filled tobacco-box from his pocket, scattered its contents over both pepper and meat, remarking naïvely: "I suppose, gentlemen, you all like tobacco."

Orrin Newcomb's mother's name was Mercy (Brown). She later married ——— Stone by whom she had children. Mr. Newcomb, after his marriage, resided for a short time at Geneva, N. Y.; removed thence to Rochester; was in the shoe and leather business. He made a speculative trip to Canada, across Lake Ontario, lost the entire cargo, thus becoming nearly bankrupt, and at the same time nearly lost his life. Soon after, in 1818, he removed to Geauga Co., O., and purchased one hundred acres of land in the south part of Middlefield Twp., about half-way between Painesville and Warren, where they lived until his death—caused by his freezing to death while returning with an ox team from a grist mill at Parkman. Afterward the farm was sold and the family removed to Parkman. The first three children were born in New York state or Canada, the others at Middlefield.

Mr. Newcomb was a cooper. He served as captain in War of 1812, in regiment of Col. Caleb Hopkins. His widow lived with her son Jerome B., at Irondequoit, N. Y. When nearly ninety years old she wrote to John B. Newcomb of Elgin, Ill.: "Shortly after our marriage we went to Lebanon at my husband's father's; there was his grandmother, Submit (Pineo) Newcomb, the finest old lady I every saw yet." Res. In the Fall of that year she accepted position as teacher of domestic economy in Mission School of the Winnebago Indian Agency at Fort Atkinson, Ia., and continued there two years. She m. third, 22 Sept. 1847, Joseph T. Fales of Iowa City, Ia., then Auditor of State. Soon after removed to Burlington, Ia., and in May, 1853, to Washington, D. C., where Mr. Fales was examiner at the Patent Office—a part of the time examiner-in-chief. Before the War of the Rebellion commenced she had lint and bandages prepared for the wounded, and jellies and other delicacies for the sick; and when, on the 19th of April 1861, the men of the 6th Mass. Regt. were wounded in Baltimore and taken to Washington, she was the first to offer her services and means for their relief; and ever after—every day during the war, and for one year afterward—she was in hospital, on battlefield, or in fort, distributing hospital stores, food, clothing, and reading matter. She was at Pittsburgh Landing, Corinth, and other battlefields of the west; Fredericksburg, on the Peninsula, Fortress Monroe, Harrison's Landing, James River, Culpepper, Slaughter Mountain, forts and defenses in and around Washington, Alexandria, etc. Although absent from home for weeks and months at a time, exposed to all weathers, living in tents and ambulances, she was never sick a day while the work lasted; but when it drew to a close, and after the excitements of the war had ceased to act as stimulants, she began to feel the effects of her great exertions, and disease was rapid in its results. As a mark of respect, the government offices and places of business in Washington were closed on the day of her funeral. Thousands of soldiers remember with heartfelt gratitude the earnest manner in which she sought to alleviate their sufferings. Children by McNaughton: 1 Sarah McNaughton, b. ———, d. 1832, at Mendon. 2 Alexander, b. ———, d. unm. while in attendance at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill.

892. vi. JEROME BONAPARTE, b. 12 Nov. 1815, d. ———; m. 20 Apr. 1852, Lucy A. Rice of Silver Creek, Erie Co., N. Y.

Mr. Newcomb, when about seven years of age, soon after the death of his father, went to live with David Miller at Irondequoit, near Rochester. The house was built about 1809 by Caleb Gillette and was occupied by Mr. Gillette and family until 1827, when it was sold to David Miller and occupied by his family until after his death, when the property was divided among his wife and four daughters. It is said that Jerome B. Newcomb vowed when the property was divided that some day he would own it all, and he accomplished his purpose, acquiring the last parcel in 1853.

He was a prosperous farmer and stock raiser and did much dealing in cattle. He was a member of Second Baptist Chh. and its chorister. The death of his twin ch. greatly saddened his life. He lived to an advanced age. Have failed to secure death dates of either Mr. Newcomb or his wife; left no descendants.

The home in which Mr. Newcomb lived for many years was razed on its site on Fernwood avenue, Rochester, N. Y., in 1913. Children:

Mr. Newcomb was engaged in trade with his brother Horatio D., at Louisville; removed to New York City. He is said to have left $200,000.00 to his dau. and $500,000.00 to his widow. On the 1 Mar. 1866, he wrote:

"To Hon. J. W. Brockenbrough, Rector of the Board of Trustees of Washington College, Lexington, Va.: I desire my subscription ($10,000.00) to the Washington College should be regarded as an expression of sympathy for the severe trials, afflictions and hopes my southern friends have sustained in what they consider a just and patriotic cause—it will be a sufficient reward to me to have the privilege of donating to my friends a scholarship for each thousand dollars subscribed, to stand on the records of the institution as a perpetual memorial to my only daughter, Harriott Sophie Newcomb, to whom I have given the disposal of the scholarships. Warren Newcomb."

Before Sept. 1882, a handsome new library building had been erected on the grounds of Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Rockbridge Co., Va., costing $20,000.00, gift of Mrs. Newcomb. To perpetuate the memory of her only child, Mrs. Newcomb, 11 Oct. 1886, gave $100,000.00 to the administrators of Tulane University, New Orleans, to establish the H. 384. Obadiah[7] Newcomb (William[6], Peter[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 10 Mar. 1798, at Bernardston, Mass., d. 27 Sept. 1840, at Naansay, Kendall Co., then La Salle Co., Ill.; m. 6 Mar. 1823, by Rev. Eels at Westmoreland, Oneida Co., N. Y., Molly[6], b. 14 Dec. 1795, at New Fairfield, Conn., d. 15 Aug. 1840, at Naansay, Ill., dau. of Dea. John[5] and Molly[6] (Beardsley) Bearss or Bearse, from 1805 of Westmoreland.

Obadiah Newcomb was a farmer. He remained at home until his majority, attending school and laboring upon the farm. The house in which he was born was about four miles northwest of the village and later owned and occupied by his nephew, William Hart[8] Newcomb. The years 1820-21 were spent at West Springfield, Mass., in the employ of David Ashley and Oliver Bagg. In 1822 he was living at New Woodstock, Madison Co., N. Y. Soon after visited his brother at Westmoreland, where he married. The following is a facsimile of his autograph, written in 1823:

Immediately after marriage they settled at Fabius, Onondaga Co., N. Y. He bought a farm of 92 acres, 7 Feb. 1823, from Hiram K. Cornell. Here he resided and built a saw-mill, distant from the village of Franklin a mile and a half west-southwest and adjoining his brother Samuel's on the west. The stream which supplied his mill was known as "Newcomb Creek." He also made the following purchases of land at Fabius: 12 Jan. 1828, 1½ acres from his brother Samuel; 27 June 1828, 67½ acres of woodland from Paul Cornell; 5 June 1829, 8½ acres and 23 rods from William Clark, Jr. In 1825—Aug. 14—they joined the Presbyterian Church at Apulia Village, Rev. L. Weld in charge. Mr. Newcomb was elected ruling elder 26 Sept. 1826; ordained 22 Oct. 1826. On 5 Apr. 1831, the church was changed to Congregational.

Selling his farm, for $2,700.00, to Orsemus Hills (later owned by Henry Clark), in 1837—starting 20 May—he removed to Illinois, reaching Joliet 12 July following, after visiting a short time in Ohio. He located his claim upon what was known as "The Ridge" in what was then La Salle Co., Franklin, later Naansay in Kendall Co., about four miles southwest of Plainfield.

Mr. Newcomb left no will; his estate was administered upon by his brother Samuel and settled to the satisfaction of the heirs. Concerning Mr. Newcomb an acquaintance wrote: "He was an ingenious, industrious, honest and most worthy man, and benevolent beyond his means; both himself and wife were among the excellent of the earth." They were interred in lot 7, range 1, in the cemetery at Plainfield.

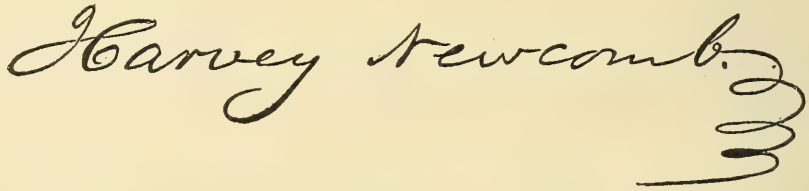
Brooklyn, N. Y.; m. 19 May 1830, at New Albany, Ind., Alithea A., b. 16 Feb. 1804, d. ———, dau. of Rev. Shipley and Dolly Wells.

Mr. Newcomb removed to Alfred, N. Y., in 1818; taught school for eight years; learned the printing business; owned, edited and published the Western Star, at Westfield, N. Y., 1826-28; edited the Buffalo Patriot, an anti-masonic paper, 1828-30; Pittsburgh Christian Herald, 1830-31; and the next ten years wrote Sabbath-school books—a part of his voluminous authorship.

Some of Mr. Newcomb's works have had a large circulation. According to a calculation made several years before his decease, there had been circulated of all his works nearly sixty-five million pages. He wrote 178 volumes, mostly for children, among them fourteen volumes of church history. In 1849 he was assistant editor, Boston Traveller; 1850-51, of the New York Observer; a regular contributor to the Boston Recorder, 1837-42, and to the Youth's Companion for a much longer period; also, contributed to Puritan Recorder and New York Evangelist. In 1853 appeared his "Young Ladies' Guide"; in 1842, "Four Pillars, or the Truth of Christianity Demonstrated," later, "Manners and Customs of the North American Indians," in two volumes, and "Pastor's Life." His largest work was "Newcomb's Cyclopædia of Missions," 1855.

In 1836 he removed to Massachusetts and resided near Boston; in 1840 was licensed to preach; in 1844 in charge of West Roxbury, Mass., Congregational Church; afterward in charge at Needham and Grantville, Mass. He preached some time at Park Street Mission Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., where he established many mission schools. He was called the father of mission Sunday-schools. In 1859 he took charge of the church at Hancock, Pa., seeking in the quiet of the country to regain his failing health. With difficulty he preached for two or three years, then returned to Brooklyn, where he died after a year and a half of suffering. He left an interesting autobiography.



After his death Mrs. Newcomb resided with her daughter Ellen at Berlin, Conn.; 1 Jan. 1883, she was a pensioner, Brooklyn, N. Y.

1059. v. EDWARD HALE, b. 8 Oct. 1840, at Natick, Mass., d. unm. 21 July 1864, near Atlanta, Ga. Previous to Civil War, Mr. Newcomb was engaged in mercantile business in New York City. He entered the army with an almost romantic devotion. Being a cripple, he was refused admission to a New York regiment; persisting in patriotic impulse, he went to Ohio, and enlisted as private in Co. B, 61st Ohio Inf. Vols., 18 Sept.

1861, for three years. April 23d following, he was appointed q.m. sergt., and transferred to field and staff, 9 Oct. 1862; mustered in as capt., Co. D, 61st Ohio, at Aqua Creek, Va.; in Apr. 1863, detached on Maj.-Gen. Carl Schurz' staff and appointed ordnance officer to the Division, 11th Corps; afterward an aide-de-camp on staff of Maj.-Gen. A. C. Williams, 1st Division, 20th Corps. He served conspicuously at battles of Freeman's Ford, Second Bull Run, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Lookout Mountain, Turner Ridge, Resaca, New Hope Church, Peach Tree Creek, etc. At battle of Bull Run he was made brevet-lieut. for gallant conduct on the field; killed while reconnoitering picket lines near Atlanta; remains removed to Evergreen Cemetery, near Brooklyn, and placed by the side of his father's. Gen. Williams wrote Capt. Newcomb's mother: "Your son was a faithful, zealous, competent, and most gallant officer; he was brave to a fault, and greatly esteemed by all his fellow officers." Gen. Schurz also wrote of him in the highest terms. He poured out on the altar of the Union all the energies of a life overflowing with fire and vigor.

"Mr. Newcomb lived with his parents at Ship Harbor, N. S., until he was twenty-one years of age. In the fall of 1835, he took passage with Capt. Nathaniel Atwood and went to Provincetown; lived on Long Point for three years. In the autumn of 1838 he was naturalized" and was, as he said, "a true born whitewashed Yankee ever since." He was a master mariner; for twenty-eight years, consecutively, went on voyages to Grand Banks and Bay Chaleur; during winter months made trading voyages to West Indies. "Later he became part owner in the schooner 'Rough and Ready' and also in the 'Allie B. Snow.' As master of these engaged in fishing for six years—in fact engaged in fishing business nearly all of his life. He was an honest, upright and temperate man with a genial and happy disposition, retaining all of his faculties up to the time of his death, which occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Eliza A. Emery. . . . . His wife died . . . . . at the home of her son, Robert Newcomb." Resided, Provincetown.

Culver of Bayham, C. W.; m. fourth, Mary C. Brady, b. ———, d. Nov. 1870, at Vienna.

About 1809 Simon Newcomb was taken by his parents to Wallace, N. S., but he returned to Pictou, 1810, where he lived until 1830; during this period he followed the sea several years as master of a ship trading in the West Indies. In 1826 he visited Britain, and in 1827, on his return from St. Kitts to Pictou, he was wrecked in a hurricane in the Gulf Stream, from which, after remaining eight days without food or fresh water, he was rescued by an American ship and brought into Salem, Mass. In 1830 he returned to Wallace and became a merchant. In 1839 removed to Victoria, Texas. In 1841 removed to Upper Canada—landing at Fort Burwell Apr. 1842; settled in Vienna, Elgin Co., where he taught school for ten years. He held the office of clerk of courts at Vienna for many years. His death was caused by fall of a fence against which he was leaning—injury not at first seeming serious but causing death a few days later. His autograph:

Mr. Newcomb resided in Texas in the family of his maternal grandfather until 1855, when he returned to his father in Canada in order to complete his education; choosing law as profession, he studied law five years—the last year, 1860, at Toronto; 1861, rank of attorney and solicitor; 1863, admitted as barrister; removed to Toledo, O. He held commission as ensign in Canadian military service. In 1870 returned to Texas and in 1871 appointed Judge of 25th Judicial District for a term of eight years; after serving three years, in 1875 removed to Las Cruces, N. M., where he resided until his death. Within the first ten years of residence there he was several times elected member of Legislative Council; also, served several times as district attorney for Third Judicial District; elected third president of N. M. Bar Association, 1888; receiver, 1881, Southern Pac. R. R. In 1884 owned large ranch and vineyard. At the time of his death he was associated with H. B.

Holt, Esq., in an extensive law practice; active Mason; Knight Templar; Scottish Rite Mason, 32°; Grand Senior Warden, Deputy Grand Master, and Grand Master, in Grand Lodge of New Mexico. His autograph is given here.

James and Eliza Pearson; m. second, 1847, at Corpus Christi, Eliza Jane Russell, b. ———, d. ———.

Mr. Newcomb became a merchant's clerk when twelve years old, continuing in that occupation until at the age of twenty-two, when he went to sea; soon became master of a West India schooner; followed the sea for several years. Once, when returning from the West Indies, his vessel capsized and he was fifteen days on the wreck at sea without food.

In 1832, after acquiring a good education, he commenced the study of law at Amherst, N. S.; received his diploma as barrister from Judge Halliburton. In Oct. 1839, in same vessel with his brother Simon, he removed to Texas and settled at Victoria, then a frontier settlement. Before leaving Nova Scotia, Capt. Newcomb had taken a prominent part in politics and was well known throughout the province. He arrived in what was then the Republic of Texas during hard times—at the close of the struggle with Mexico. He endured many dangers and hardships; acquired a large practice as a lawyer, standing among the first in the country; served awhile as district attorney. "He died in the prime of life, with a brilliant prospect for wealth and position before him; he was in every sense one of nature's noblemen—a man of genius, eloquence and courage."

467. WILLIAM[7] NEWCOMB (Silas[6], Silas[5], Thomas[4], Thomas[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 1790, Provincetown, Mass., d. 25 Aug. 1850, Burnham, Me.; m. 10 Apr. 1815, Warren, Me., Elizabeth of Waldoborough, Me., b. 25 Aug. 1789, Thomaston, Me., d. 18 Sept. 1866, Milford, Me., dau. of John and Katharine (Demuth) Sidensparker. She m. second, 12 July 1855, Burnham, Me., Zachariah Lawrence, b. ———, d. 29 Feb. 1868, Iowa.

Mr. Newcomb was a farmer; he was brought up on Cape Cod; resided at Warren, Thomaston, and Burnham, Me. He was also a fisherman and sailor.

In War of 1812 he served under Capt. Miller and Col. Ulmer; assisted in capturing vessels off the coast of Maine; was taken prisoner; under Capt. Lawrence was one of the six men who captured English sloop Venture, freighted with spelter, for which, after his death, his heirs received $1,300.00 from the government. Capt. Lawrence, with crew of five men, in a small boat after dark, rowed out to the Venture, found the crew all absent at a dance on shore and the sloop aground; waiting until the sloop floated, took her to Castine, turning her over to government. Capt. Lawrence, after retirement from sea and removal to Iowa, was minister of Christian Church.

After Mr. Newcomb's death, Mrs. Newcomb married second, and removed, Oct. 1856, to Adams Co., Ia., together with her sons Henry C., Gardner D., Horace, and daughters Almira B. and Fostina.

Henry Giesie, b. 24 Dec. 1827, Somerset, Pa., d. 17 Mar. 1906, Corning, Ia., son of Joseph and Harriet (Giesie) Ankeny. Capt. Ankeny left his home state and went to California in 1849, and in 1855 made his permanent home in Adams Co., Ia. He resigned the office of Clerk of the Courts to enter the service of his country at the opening of the Civil War. He went out as First Lieut., Co. H, 4th Ia. Infantry, 16 Aug. 1861. He served in the Army of the Southwest under Gen. Curtis and at the battle of Pea Ridge his captain was wounded, causing his resignation and the merited promotion of Lieut. Ankeny to the rank of captain. After the campaign to Helena his regiment was transferred to the command of Gen. Sherman—right wing, 13th Army Corps—taking part in the assault at Chicasaw Bayou, and Ark. Post. Was under Gen. Steele, First Div., 15th Corps, participating in the Deer Creek Expedition, Jackson, Vicksburg, Cherokee, Tuscombia, Lookout Mt. (the 4th Ia. was first to occupy Lookout Mt.), Missionary Ridge, Ringgold, Atlanta, Resaca, Dallas, Kenesaw, Ezra Church, Jonesboro, Lovejoy's Station. Following his muster out of the service (Nov. 1864) he located on a farm near Quincy, later removing to Corning, where he served two terms as Postmaster. He was one of the makers of history for the republican party in Adams Co., and his advice was always sought on important questions relating to the party welfare. He was also prominently identified with the Grand Army post of Corning, and with the Masonic fraternity, having been treasurer of Eureka Chapter, R. A. M., from the time of its establishment in that place until the day of his demise. Y., Katherine Hollenbeck, b. ———, d. about 1874, Savannah, Ga., interred there.

Mr. Newcomb was prominent as ship-builder and ship-master at Hampden, Me.; then kept hotel at Boston, N. Y., Savannah, Ga., Baltimore, Md. (hotel called Indian Queen), and Long Island. Also held government position at Long Island.

Boston Deeds, 241/185, show that, 1812, "Reuben N., Jr., mariner, and w. Abigail mort. 2/3 of Brick house in Back St. Boston; disch. 1813." He had a case in court at Bangor, 2 July 1816.

He was a prisoner in Spain when his ship was mistaken for English; through effort of Washington Irving he received, afterwards, about $20,000.00 for ship and cargo.

When Thackeray was in this country Mrs. Katherine Newcomb met him and asked him why he had selected the name Newcome for his novel. He replied: "Because it is a new name." The old lady was quite indignant and informed him that it was a very old name.

Mr. Newcomb was educated in the common schools of Grant Co., Wis.; graduated, 1872, from Platteville State Normal School. After teaching school at Sun Prairie, Wis., keeping a general store, Belmont, Wis., prospecting near Georgetown, Colo., during the gold excitement of 1875-76, and selling sewing machines in western Iowa, he was ordained in 1882 as a minister, his first charge being the Congregational Church of Pattersonville (now Hull), Ia. While there he founded the Pattersonville Educational Institution, a Christian academy which had many years of successful existence, becoming unnecessary with the establishment of public high schools.

In 1885 he removed from Iowa and was pastor at Clintonville, Kaukauna, Eagle River, Windsor, Ithaca, Pine River, Green Lake, and Osseo, Wis. In Jan. 1907 removed to California, becoming pastor at Orange. In 1910 at Western Park, Kans., following residence at San Diego, Calif., for his wife's health. Later at Ivanhoe, near Rockefeller, Ill.; again, resided Alto Pass, Ill. All of the churches under his care grew in educational, literary and charitable movements—he persisting in his guiding motive to "make the world better for my having lived in it."

Mr. Newcomb enlisted, 31 Dec. 1861, in Co. I, 93d Regt., N. Y. Vols., resigned 14 Jan., discharged 15 Jan. 1865. While at N. Anna River, Va., 24 May 1864, acting as personal aide on staff of Brig.-Gen. Pierce, he was wounded by the explosion of a shell, fracturing and dislocating right foot and ankle, and contusing whole frame. At this time he was lieutenant of Co. C. He was promoted to captain, from 6 Oct. 1864; detached for a time from his company, serving on staff of Gen. Mott as assistant mustering-in officer, Third Div., Second Corps. Brig.-Gen. John S. Crocker wrote Gov. Fenton of New York requesting that Mr. Newcomb be commissioned brevet lieutenant-colonel and brevet colonel for brave and valuable services at battles of the Wilderness, Spottsylvania and N. Anna; served for three years in his command, one of the bravest men he ever saw; on brigade staff through above-mentioned battles and until dangerously wounded; at Spottsylvania all of his staff except Mr. Newcomb had been wounded, thus requiring extraordinary services of the latter; on 12 May 1864, the brigade charged and captured the enemy's works and many heavy guns, to secure which it was necessary to push forward a few hundred men, and volunteers were called for. Men were obtained but Mr. Newcomb was the only officer volunteering; led by Gen. Crocker they accomplished the object, the danger indicated by the fact that more than two-thirds of the men were either killed or wounded. Mr. Newcomb was considered by the general as one of the bravest and most efficient officers in his brigade of nine regiments. At Spottsylvania he won the special commendation of Gen. Birney commanding the division.

At Georgetown, D. C., Mr. Newcomb engaged in the practice of medicine; he was later document and bill clerk, House of Representatives, U. S. Capitol; on pension roll of 1 Jan. 1883.

Mr. Newcomb received his education at Punahou College, Sandwich Islands, at Poultney Academy, Vt., and at the College of California. He mastered several branches of business to qualify himself for his later position; was a good chemist, practical assayist, skillful telegraph operator; for a time devoted himself to the study of law in its several departments; made himself practically acquainted with stock operations on the Pacific coast. Became city editor of the San Francisco Morning Call, circulation 30,000, and was one of the finest writers in his special department in the state. As a caricaturist he achieved a reputation second only to Nast. He was first president of the Bohemian Club, San Francisco, organized 1872. Residents of California who were graduates from colleges and universities formerly met annually at Oakland, organized into an alumni society, with historian, poet, etc. In 1872 Mr. Newcomb was named poet and delivered the following:

ALUMNI POEM.

As some great bay tree, scarred and bent by years
And oft-recurring tempests, lends his aid
To some young pine which all ambitious rears
His head towards heaven through the guardian shade,
So stood the Elder by his galley's prow—
His hand upon the youth's unfurrowed brow.

He spoke: "O latest born! this wide expanse
Of boundless sea, o'er which I came, is mine;
This shore, whereon thine eyes delighted glance—
Greets buds of fairest promise—this is thine.
But mark! the bold waves gnaw the helpless strand;
My sea shall one day swallow up thy land.

"Heroes and poets lie beneath that wave
In numbers greater than its grains of sand;
The names of some I spare; Ulysses brave—
Sappho the fair—the Argo's daring band—
The demi-gods—blind Homer—these their names,
Are all my ancient reign which now remains.

"The countless myriads, great as these, are lost
In dark oblivion, which the world I bring:
These, in their turn, will one day join the host
Of those whose deeds forgotten none can sing.
For immortality is but a word—
My centuries blot out both song and sword.

"Think not, O Present! that within thy reign
Shall men be born whose names shall ever live.
Look! read this verse of one who dared complain
Because the hastening world refused to give
The meed of fame he asked for. Look!" he said,
And gave a parchment to the youth, who read:

"Where glutton crabs crawl out from spongy clay
And seek the stranded, gasping fish among
The slimy reeds, which tides drown twice a day,
Where they are flung;

"When mournful voices of the edding tide
Intone the requiem of the dying day,
Upon the cold bay's time-worn, hollowed side,
A white corpse lay.

"Its staring eyes were scarred by cruel sand;
A seaweed to the pallid lips clung fast;
One arm lay on the breast; within the hand
A book was clasped.

"The book held rhymes of him who now lay dead,
The orphaned children of his brain's quick wit:
Upon the fly-leaf—and in blood, 'twas said—
These words were writ:

"'O Life!
Thou harlot, robed in white,
Which promised joy and gave but strife:
Thou noonday changed to night;
Farewell, O Life!

"'O Fame!
Opals lay on the strand,
At which I clutched. When morning came
My hand held only sand;
Farewell, O Fame!

"'O Hope!
Which urged my weary brain
To tasks beyond its feeble scope,
And left it racked by pain;—
Farewell, O Hope!

"'O Muse!
Whom I so truly loved,
I kiss the latchets of thy shoes;
Through thee to death I'm moved—
Farewell, O Muse!

"'O Death!
Thou lengthened, peaceful sleep;
Thou sure relief from tiresome breath;
Thou rest for them that weep—
I come, O death!'

"The sun sank slow behind a blood-red cloud,
And gloomy fogs rolled down the darkened bay,
The ebb-tide turned and came with murmurs loud
To claim its prey.

"Two fishers, hastening on their homeward way
With lusty strokes, to 'scape the coming storm,
Sought refuge in the crescent cove, where lay
The lifeless form.

"The sea-bruised poet in their arms they took,
And through the tempest bore him to the town,
And in the Dead House drear, where all might look,
They laid him down.

"Then woke the busy world with frightened start,
To read the words the poet wrote in blood,
And cried—Alas! how sad! Poor wounded heart
To die by flood.

"And, roused by tragic deed, they sought the book
Passed by or scoffed at in the peaceful days,
To find its pages rich with noble thought,
Immortal lays.

"They buried with great pomp the poet dead,
Whom living they had never deigned to know,
Heaped flowers above the poor remains which fed
The worms below.

"In gold and pearl they bound his poems rare;
They raised a statue to his honored name;
And twined the laurel in its marble hair—
They gave him—Fame!

"O cruel jest! to crown the soulless clay
With honors you denied in life! O shame!
To take the sacrifice of death as pay
For empty Fame!"

Thus read the youth, and threw the parchment far
From off the shore, and in the restless wave;
His cheek flushed red, his eye gleamed like a star,
His scornful lips these words of censure gave:
"Your heroes, father, were as vain as blind;
Mine strive not for themselves, but for mankind.

"My reign will reap the straggling ears of grain,
  Which ancient peoples for themselves did sow;
But I will plant the yellow corn again,
  That those who come may bounteous harvests know:
For nobler 'tis to toil for unborn men
Than strive for selfish fame with sword or pen."

Thus said the youth; but while he spoke, the wave
  Had gnawed the base from out the grass-topped shore,
Which, trembling, sank into an ocean grave,
  And youth and verdant land were seen no more.
Over the place the old man's galley crossed;
The boasting Present in the Past was lost.

In 1880 Mr. Newcomb was made notary or appointment clerk in the executive chamber, Albany, by Gov. Cornell, a position which he held through the different administrations, continuously, until that of Gov. Odell, 1903, when he was transferred to the Adjutant General's office; at time of death was secretary to the Governor of New York. He was a member of the Fort Orange Club of Albany. "Thomas Newcomb was a man of ability and of genius. Naturally of a keen intellect, his education developed him into a humorist of the most pleasing, refined type. His lyrics were models in composition and his prose was cleancut and of the purest diction. He was equally as clever at delineation with his pen as he was in composition and many excellent examples of his talent are cherished by those fortunate enough to possess them. His reputation as a newspaper writer was known from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

Mrs. Newcomb resides at Brooklyn, N. Y.

850. LUTHER[8] NEWCOMB (Luther[7], Daniel[6], Silas[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 10 Apr. 1826, Derby, Vt., d. 2 Jan. 1876, Montpelier, Vt.; m. 25 June 1857, Amanda V. Thomas, b. 21 Oct. 1834, W. Fairlee, Vt., dau. of Gen. Stephen and Anna (Peabody).

Mr. Newcomb resided at Montpelier, Vt., where he was for many years county clerk; at time of his death was clerk of the court. His funeral was attended by members of the bar in a body, six of them acting as pall-bearers. A part of the resolution of the members of the bar follows:

Resolved, That in the decease of Mr. Newcomb, the members of the Bar of Washington county lose a valuable officer of the court, one whom we honored as a man, and loved as a friend. Mr. Newcomb's official uprightness and capacity were always acknowledged. His long service is testimony of the public appreciation of his worth. His open-hearted frankness made and kept us his friend. In his death we feel both the sense of public loss and the sorrow of personal bereavement.

In his address, Hon. Charles W. Willard said in part:

Those that had attained the meridian of life knew too well that very few of the friendships of youth endures vicissitudes of manhood struggles, but he could truly say that during all these long years, each succeeding morning brought to him the consciousness that Luther Newcomb's heart was true as steel and that his friendship surpassed the love of man for woman. The man who looked into Luther Newcomb's eyes saw nothing but the clear truth beaming therein and the man who listened to the frank tones of his voice knew that there was no concealment in his statements, and no secret reservation behind his words.

He was a man who did his duty with his whole heart; a man without deceit or guile.

1892. iii. JAMES EDWARD, b. 27 Aug. 1857, d. 27 Aug. 1912, Lake Kushaqua, N. Y.; m. 23 Mar. 1885, Elizabeth Wilmot of New York City, b. 12 Feb. 1863, dau. of William Allen and Catharine M. Bellenger Borden. Res. New York City. Dr. Newcomb was educated in the public schools of New London, Conn., graduating as valedictorian of the first class from Bulkeley High School; for a year engaged in business with his father; then entered Yale, graduating, B.A., 1880; graduated, 1883, among first ten of very large class, from College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University, New York City; then for eighteen months interne at Roosevelt Hospital, N. Y., where he later was member of permanent staff—consulting laryngologist to the hospital; chief of the nose and throat clinic, physician to the training school for nurses, member of Roosevelt Hospital Alumni Association. At the time of his death had completed thirty years' service to the hospital. When Medical Department of Cornell University was established in 1898, Dr. Newcomb was made clinical instructor in laryngology; June 1909, assistant professor and placed at head of department of diseases of nose and throat. For many years chief of Nose and Throat Clinic, Demilt Dispensary; physician at the Home for the Indigent and Destitute Blind, New York City; at one time lecturer on materia medica, New York Veterinary College; lecturer of Society for Instruction in First Aid to the Injured; one of the Sanitary Inspectors, New York Board of Health; for several years lecturer on laryngology, Columbia College. His private practice was successful from the start, and he gradually specialized in diseases of nose and throat. For eleven years secretary, American Laryngological Association, then president, 1911. He was also a member of N. Y. Acad. Med.; Am. Acad. Med.; N. Y. Med. Soc.; Greater N. Y. Med. Soc.; Hosp. Graduates' Club; Am. Med. Soc.; life member, New London Co. (Conn.) Hist. Soc.; trustee, Calvary Bap. Chh., New York City, for many years, also, treasurer. He was editor of the American edition of Grunwald's Atlas of Diseases of the Mouth, Pharynx and Nose; co-author with Burnett and Ingals of "Diseases of the Nose and Throat"; contributor to Wood's Reference Hand-Book of Medical Sciences and to Twentieth Century Medicine. Mrs. Newcomb has been largely identified with anti-tuberculosis work, especially for self-supporting women in New York State. This led to the very successful establishment of Stony Wold Sanatorium at Lake Kushaqua, N. Y., of which she has been president since its establishment in 1901. Dr. Newcomb was also interested in the propaganda against tuberculosis and was a member of the Medical Board and one of the examining physicians for the sanitorium. Dr. Newcomb left one thousand dollars to Calvary Chh.; three hundred dollars for a foundation, income to be given as annual prize in English composition, Bulkeley School; books and pamphlets on rhinology and laryngology to Dr. Swain of New Haven; rest of medical library to New York Academy of Medicine; residue of estate to Mrs. Newcomb.

Y. City, dau. of William and Mary L. (Reynolds).

In June 1853 Mr. Newcomb removed to Beloit, Wis.; for several years was member of the firm of Wright and Newcomb, booksellers and paper manufacturers there. The firm commenced the manufacture of paper on a large scale, and in company with his brother, Richard F. Newcomb, manufactured immense quantities of news, express and wrapping paper and paper bags, with the card of the party ordering printed on each sheet or bag. Their paper mills were located at Rockton and Quincy, Ill., firm called North West Paper Co., of which John C. Newcomb was secretary and treasurer; the principal office in Chicago. They lost heavily by the Chicago fire of 8-9 Oct. 1871, in which their warehouse and printing-office were destroyed; three days later they opened a new warehouse and so large and profitable was their business that the losses were more than made up the first year. John C. Newcomb removed to Chicago, 1871; retired from active business several years before he died.

Mrs. Newcomb and her son and daughter reside at Braeburn, Berwyn, Penn.

970. GEORGE WHITEFIELD[8] NEWCOMB (Asahel[7], William[6], Peter[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 12 Apr. 1825, Putney, Windham Co., Vt., d. 3 Apr. 1901, Chicago; m. 1 Feb. 1860, Lyons, Ia., Mary Eliza Eddy, b. 12 Mar. 1832, Granville, Washington Co., N. Y., d. 11 Sept. 1892, Chicago, dau. of Azariah and Harriette Marie (Hooker).

When he was three years old, Mr. Newcomb's parents removed to Whitestown, Oneida Co., N. Y. He was educated at Whitesborough Academy, Whitestown Seminary and at Hamilton College, graduating from the latter in 1849. He taught at three public schools, Whitestown, and in the academy at Sherburne, Chenango Co., N. Y. After leaving college he was principal of Ames Academy, Ames, Montgomery Co., N. Y.; elected principal of Utica Academy, Utica, N. Y., 1851, but after a few weeks of teaching resigned on account of ill health. In July 1852 removed to Chicago, Ill., where he resided until his death. There he studied law in the office of Mark Skinner and Thomas Hoyne; admitted to the bar in February 1853. His business gradually changed into that of loaning money on real estate securities, and from small beginnings, by strict integrity and great industry, controlled hundreds of thousands of dollars, and justly prided himself that no person ever lost through him. His residence was 236 Warren avenue, and after the great fire of 8-9 Oct. 1871, his place of business was 1944 W. Madison street. The accompanying portrait of Mr. Newcomb was engraved from a photograph taken in 1873.

Mrs. Newcomb descended, through her mother, from Rev. Thomas Hooker, the first clergyman of Hartford, Conn., one of whose descendants has a memorial window in the Episcopal Church of Hartford, and she was descended through her father, he a grandson, from a captain who served during the Revolutionary War with Washington. When quite young she removed with her parents from Granville, N. Y., to Columbus, O., and from there to Fremont, O.; then to Cincinnati. In the early days of Ohio her father, being a public-spirited citizen, entertained as guests at his home public men and clergymen, and in this way she became acquainted with Bishop McIlvaine, who afterwards confirmed her as a member of the Episcopal Church, and many others. She was devoted to her religion, had a big heart, a broad mind, and excellent good sense; during the eleven years of her confinement to her home before her death she found great comfort in her Bible and writings about the Christian faith.

All of the children were born in Chicago.

Losing his father when a little over two years old, William O. Newcomb became a member of the family of his uncle, William[7] Newcomb, where he remained until he was sixteen years old, then, 1836, removing to Gainesville, N. Y. He lived at East Gainesville and at Castile; in 1850 removed to Perry, Wyoming Co., where he owned a good farm upon which he resided. He continued in his trade as tailor until 1841, afterward becoming a farmer, largely engaged in the cultivation of hops. He was an industrious, honest and most worthy man, forward in good words and works.

Mr. Newcomb emigrated with his parents to Illinois when he was thirteen years old, arriving 11 July 1837, at Joliet, and for the next three years resided upon a farm in what is now the town of Franklin, later called Naansay, in Kendall Co., about four miles southwest of the village of Plainfield, where his parents died in 1840, leaving him an orphan at the age of sixteen. He then removed to Elgin, Kane Co., Ill., which continued to be his residence, with the exception of a few short intervals.

Mr. Newcomb was a pioneer in educational work—beginning in 1844 in a brick school house which is probably still standing; from 1851 to 1853 he taught in West Elgin in a frame building, still in existence. In 1854 he opened a private school in the Methodist Church, where he taught for two years. In 1856 became assistant principal of the Academy. In 1860 he was elected superintendent of Elgin public schools, which position he held until 1866, and during all of this time he was examiner for the northern part of the county. By municipal election, April 1873, he was elected a member of the board of education; re-elected in April 1874, and served until 1877; he was secretary of the Board.

On 2 Mar. 1864, John B. Newcomb was elected a corresponding member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, at a meeting held in Boston. On 4 Mar. 1896, he was elected a member of the Society of Mayflower Descendants. He was meteorological observer for the Smithsonian Institution 1858-9-60-1, inclusive; city sexton of Elgin Cemetery, 1865-9 and 1885-9, inclusive; member of Association of American Cemetery Superintendents, 1888-91, inclusive. He was author of the "Genealogical Memoir of the Newcomb Family, 1874." No one, unless he has during a long period of

Mr. Newcomb was educated at Vienna High School; served on the frontier during Fenian raid of July 1866, and after a course at a Military School in Toronto, went West in the fall of that year. He spent three years fur trading in the far north near Hudson Bay. He returned to the Selkirk Settlement in 1869, when he started a cattle ranch south of Lake Manitoba. In Feb. 1870, he was arrested with other Canadians by the rebel government under Riel, and was sentenced to be shot, but was released after being a prisoner for many weeks in Fort Garry. After the collapse of the rebellion, he was appointed Captain of a rifle corps by the Canadian Government and was stationed, with his company, in Fort Garry, during the attempted rising in 1871. In 1873, he entered the Canadian Civil Service. After serving as Government Agent of Dominion Lands for a number of years, he was transferred to headquarters at Ottawa, where he still resides. Mr. Newcomb has retired from actual business and, with Mrs. Newcomb, has been spending the winters in Southern California and Florida.

1117. HON. JAMES PEARSON[8] NEWCOMB (Thomas[7], Simon[6], Simon[5], Simon[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 31 Aug. 1837, Amherst, Cumberland Co., N. S., d. 16 Oct. 1907; m. first, 31 Aug. 1864, San Francisco, Jeanie Davis, b. ———, in Illinois, d. 2 Aug. 1866, San Francisco, dau. of John and Helen (———); m. second, 23 Nov. 1872, in Vermont, Antoinette Hitchcock, b. 3 Feb. 1854, Shoreham, Vt., dau. of Dr. William Aaron and Emily E. (Hunsdon).

Mr. Newcomb emigrated with his parents to Texas when two years of age, settling at Victoria. Before he was twelve years old, he had already acquired a fair English education, and had some acquaintance with the classics. After his father's death he served four years in a printing office. In 1854, when seventeen years of age, he started a newspaper at San Antonio, Texas, and made it a success; sold out in 1856, and went to Vermont University at Burlington, Vt., to acquire a collegiate education; entered college, but remained only part of a term, being called home to attend to his father's estate. He again began the newspaper business, and published, at San Antonio, the Alamo Express, which rapidly rose to be one of the principal papers in the city, where it combated secession with undying vigor in the midst of enemies. On the 13th of May 1861, four days after the surrender of Col. Reeve's command of United States troops to Van Dorn's force, Mr. Newcomb issued an "extra," giving account of the surrender and some strictures on the perfidy of the transaction; at midnight of same day a mob of "Knights of the Golden Circle" and Rangers broke open his office, destroyed his press and material, and set fire to the building. The alarm of fire was given, the city engines and people turned out, but to no purpose; the morning light displayed the charred ruins of the Alamo Express, the last Union paper in Texas. This caused great excitement, and for fear of retaliation the secession offices were guarded; immediately after, a plot for the hanging and banishment of 150 of the most prominent Union men was discovered. The next day after the destruction of his office Mr. Newcomb became a refugee; left the city for the Rio Grande and passed into Mexico; organized a party at Monterey to cross the country to the Pacific, thence to California; the journey was successfully performed amidst many dangers and hardships, the party arriving at San Francisco Feb. 1862. He volunteered to accompany the Union forces then organizing for a campaign across Arizona to Texas; served as a scout for the army in its march from San Pedro, Calif., to the Rio Grande; discharged at his request after the army went into permanent quarters; returned to San Francisco, where he printed, in 1862, a "History of Secession Times in Texas, and Journal of Travel from Texas through Mexico to California," an octavo pamphlet of thirty-three pages; was also editor of the San José Tribune. He was mining in Arizona during 1864, making and losing a fortune. In the spring of 1867 he returned to San Antonio, again engaging in the editorial profession. He served with honor as a member of the Constitutional Convention in 1868-69, which gave the State its reconstructed government, being elected by the people by a large majority; was nominated by the Governor and confirmed by the State Senate as Secretary of State under Governor Davis, serving from 1870 to 1874. In 1874, he was editor and proprietor of the State Journal, the central organ of the Republican party in the state; in 1877, was admitted to the bar but never practiced law to any extent. In 1897, he began the publication of the Texas Sun, a newspaper devoted to the subject of immigration, and later, edited the Evening Light, which is still published as the San Antonio Daily Light. In later years, Mr. Newcomb held various public positions, among which was that of postmaster, during President Arthur's administration. He was considered one of the most active politicians and one of the best newspaper writers in Texas, continuing his editorial work up to the time of his death. He was a man of untiring energy and varied accomplishments; ardent and warm-hearted, whose will and pen were always enlisted in the cause of truth and right. He had hosts of warm friends, both personal and political, and many political enemies. His engagement in politics did not arise from a love of political life, but from a desire to see good government firmly planted in his state; his prominence came to him without his seeking; he passed through many trials and emergencies, and was thoroughly acquainted with the history and men of his time. Having a deep love for nature, he moved with his family, in 1904, to his farm, Great Oaks, ten miles from San Antonio, where he continued his writing.

In July 1906, he received an injury in a runaway accident, which resulted in cerebral hemorrhage and caused his death more than a year later. He was possessed of such a wonderful constitution and such marvelous vitality of mind and body that, even after the second serious attack of hemorrhage, he drove back and forth to town attending to business and getting the cotton crop to market. At this time also he wrote a sketch of the Republican Governor of Texas, E. J. Davis, for a book on the Presidents and Governors of Texas. His body rests in the Masonic Cemetery, San Antonio.

Mrs. Newcomb resides in New York City.

1119. Prof. Simon[8] Newcomb (John[7], Simon[6], Simon[5], Simon[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 12 Mar. 1835, Wallace, N. S., d. 11 July 1909, Washington, D. C.; m. 4 Oct. 1863, Washington, Mary Caroline Hassler, b. 16 June 1840, Washington, dau. of Charles Augustus and Anna Josepha (Nourse).

Mr. Newcomb came to the United States in 1853; taught school 1854-56 in Maryland; graduated from the mathematical department of Cambridge (Mass.) Scientific School in 1858, and assisted in the preparation of the American Nautical Almanac. In 1861, he was appointed Professor of Mathematics and Astronomy in the United States Navy; was employed in the Naval Observatory at Washington until 1877, having been sent by the government, in 1870, to note the sun's eclipse in the Mediterranean. The degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by Columbia University in 1874, the same degree by Yale in 1875, and by Harvard in 1884, also by the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1891. In 1875, he received the degree of Ph.D. from the University of Leyden, Holland, and the same degree from the University of Heidelberg, Germany, in 1886. In 1892, the University of Dublin, Ireland, conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Sciences.

From 1877 to 1897, Mr. Newcomb held the position of Senior Naval Professor and Superintendent of the American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac Office, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., and from 1884 to 1894 was professor of mathematics and astronomy in Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md. In 1869, he became a member of the National Academy of Sciences and was its Vice-President from 1883 to 1889, and in 1904 was president of the World's Congress of Scientists at the St. Louis Exposition. He belonged to the highest scientific societies of Europe and America and received gold medals and other honors from foreign governments. As a mathematician and astronomer, he had no superior, if, indeed, an equal, in America, and but few in Europe. A complete list of his scientific papers would include about fifty titles and references, the following being numbered among them: "On the Secular Variations and Mutual Relations of the Orbits of the Asteroids." "An Investigation of the Orbit of Neptune with General Tables of its Motion." "An Investigation of the Distance of the Sun." His best known books are: "Popular Astronomy" (1877). "School Astronomy" (1879), and a series of Mathematical text books (1881-87).

Mr. Newcomb was also a political economist and wrote "Principles of Political Economy" (1886), "ABC of Finance" (1877), and "A Plain Man's Talk on the Labor Question" (1866).

He was buried with military honors at the Arlington National Cemetery in 1909.

Mrs. Newcomb was the daughter of Ferdinand Rudolph Hassler, a United States Navy Surgeon, a native of Switzerland, and an eminent scientist, who held public positions in Switzerland and in the United States. She is artistic and literary in her tastes, having, in her younger days, given particular attention to the painting of flowers in water color, and in later years devoting much time to reading. She also speaks both French and German.

CHILDREN:

i. ANITA ROSALIE[9], b. 4 Nov. 1864, Washington, D. C.; m. 14 Feb. 1888, Washington, W. J. McGee, b. 17 Apr. 1853, Farley, Iowa, d. 4 Sept. 1912, Washington, son of James and Martha Ann (Anderson). Dr. McGee, as Mrs. McGee is known, received a large part of her medical training abroad, studying at Newnham College, Cambridge, England, and at the University of Geneva. Later, she spent three years in travel in Europe, continuing her studies. Upon her return to this country, she took post-graduate work at the George Washington University, after which she took a course in Gynecology at Johns Hopkins University. In 1898, she was selected to the most unique office ever held in the governmental service of the United States by any woman, that of Assistant Acting Surgeon General in the Army of the United States, shortly after the outbreak of the Spanish-American War. During the Spanish War, the Philippine Insurrection, and the Boxer Campaign in China (1898 to end of 1900), Dr. McGee was Assistant Surgeon in the United States Army and assigned to duty "In Charge of the Army Nurse Corps." She selected about two thousand women nurses for military service, and organized them into the Nurse Corps, which Congress made a permanent part of our army. In the Russo-Japanese War, Dr. McGee was the only person in America whose offer of personal assistance was accepted by the Japanese Government and Red Cross Society. As President of the society of the Red Cross of Philadelphia, she took a party of trained nurses to Japan for a period of six months of work in the Army Hospitals in that country, the entire party going without compensation. They were welcomed as guests of the Japanese nation and assigned to posts of honor as nurses in the most important hospitals of the army and on the finest hospital ships. In appreciation of their services, each nurse received decorations, and His Majesty, the Emperor, bestowed on Dr. McGee the Order of the Sacred Crown, a very rare honor, and she received also the "special" decoration of the Red Cross Society. She has served many terms as a National

Officer of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and is known as a forceful debater and public speaker. She is a member of the United Spanish War Veterans (only woman eligible) and Surgeon General of the National Auxiliary to that body; member of the Medical Society and Medical Association of the District of Columbia, and of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States; Fellow and Ex-Secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; member of the Anthropological Society of Washington and of the Washington Club. Children: 1 Klotho McGee, b. 10 July 1889, Washington, D. C.; m. 12 Oct. 1912, Berkeley, Calif., David Madison Willis, b. 21 Aug. 1886, San Francisco, son of Ambrose Madison and Ella Maud (Bagley). Mrs. Willis was educated in the public schools of Washington, and was a student for one year at a private school at Sandy Springs, Md., and for two years, 1905-7, at Moses Brown Boarding School, Providence, R. I., where she took a prize in 1906 for extensive study of selected literature. Mr. Willis was educated in San Francisco and studied for two years at the University of Virginia; returned to San Francisco and became a draftsman. Children: (a) Newcomb Madison Willis, b. 12 Aug. 1913, San Francisco. (b) David Madison, b. 26 Aug. 1914, San Francisco. 2 Donald, b. 10 Sept. 1895, Washington, D. iii. Emily Kate, b. 30 June 1869, Washington; m. 8 Apr. 1890, Washington, Francis Asbury Wilson, b. 28 Aug. 1857, Lawrence, Mass., son of George Pickering and Emily O. (Fisk). Mrs. Wilson received a careful education in Washington, and in 1882 went to Europe where for several years she traveled extensively in England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, and Belgium, and attended boarding school in Neuchatel, Switzerland, Art School at Geneva, Switzerland, and boarding school at Charlottenburg, near Berlin. She had unusual talent in drawing and languages, and after her return from Europe studied art in Washington. Mr. Wilson is a descendent of John Wilson, first pastor of the First Church in Boston, and a character in Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter." In 1898, Mr. Wilson moved with his family to New York City, where he held the position of Advertising Manager of the American Tobacco Co., 1898-1902, and other positions in same company. In 1906, he became Secretary for the Henry Clay & Bock Co., Ltd., of New York. Children: 1 Marjorie Newcomb Wilson, b. 28 Feb. 1892, Boston, Mass. 2 Mildred Newcomb, b. 23 Nov. 1894, Boston, m. 3 June 1918, Washington, Major Daniel Noce, b. 3 Nov. 1894, Denver, Col., son of Angelo and Assunta (Liverone). 3 Hildegard Newcomb, b. 22 Sept. 1904, Bridgehampton, N. JEDEDIAH[8] NEWCOMB (William[7], Silas[6], Silas[5], Thomas[4], Thomas[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 30 Jan. 1820, Thomaston, Me., d. 2 July 1852, Yankee Jims, Calif.; m. 1 Mar. 1846, Burnham, Me., Deborah Charlotte Shaw, b. 26 Feb. 1826, Wayne or Fayette, Me., d. 6 Sept. 1906, Oat Hill, Napa Co., Calif., dau. of Goddard[7] (Nathaniel[6], Caleb[5], Samuel[4], Caleb[3], Joseph[2], Roger[1]) and Mary S. (Chandler). Mary S. was dau. of Asahel and Deborah (Bourn) Chandler of Sandwich, Mass., Wayne, and Burnham, Me.

Mr. Newcomb was raised on the old homestead farm on "Ridge Road," where his parents settled in 1825. His education was limited to such as he could obtain at a district school; he learned the trade of carpenter, and, in 1845, built himself a home upon a farm on the "Mount Road," a short distance from his father's farm. Soon after the discovery of gold in California, he began to make plans for a trip to the gold fields, and, in 1851, disposed of his farm, moved with his family to the home of his wife's mother, Mrs. (Shaw) LaCroix, in Burnham, and late in Dec. 1851, sailed from New York City for California, via Vanderbilt's Nicaragua Line, Steamer Prometheus; crossed the Isthmus of Panama, arriving in Sacramento thirty-one days after leaving New York. He was accompanied by associates from his home town, and they at once joined others going to Yankee Jims and vicinity; here he procured work, but in June one of his companions was taken ill with typhoid, and Mr. Newcomb, leaving his work to care for him, contracted the disease and died quite suddenly.

He was a young man of high ideals; honorable, strictly temperate, and possessed of a happy, cheerful disposition. He was firm in his convictions of right and wrong.

After Mr. Newcomb's death, his widow, with her children, remained with her mother until August 7, 1856, when she married Isaac E. Hill of Pittsfield, Me. He died Nov. 29, 1880, at Belfast, Me., and she removed to Colorado; later, to California, residing with her son Bethuel.

Mrs. Newcomb was, by nature, endowed with a cheerful, kindly, and happy disposition; was a home-loving woman of high moral character, and a true Christian.

1167. JONATHAN[8] NEWCOMB (Jonathan[7], Reuben[6], Simeon[5], Simon[4], Thomas[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 21 Apr. 1794, Hampden, Me., d. 2 Apr. 1881, Bath, Me.; m. 31 May 1821, Iris Ann Huzzey, b. 18 Nov. 1800, Albion, Me., d. 9 Sept. 1890, Bath.

In the year 1812, Mr. Newcomb made a voyage from Bangor, Me., to Lisbon, Portugal. On his return voyage, when near the coast of Maine, he was captured by an English war ship and taken to St. John, Newfoundland, and put in prison. He had been in prison but a few days when the English fitted out the Alert sloop-of-war to go to sea and capture the U. S. frigate Essex. This happened on a Sunday morning. The next Sunday morning, the Alert came into port flying a white flag. She had met the Essex, and was captured in a few minutes. An agreement was made between the two captains, that the lieutenant of the Essex was to take the Alert into St. John and put all the English ashore and take as many Americans out of prison as there were Englishmen, and put them aboard the Alert, and she was to have safe passage to New York. Jonathan Newcomb was one of the crew that took the Alert to New York.

After arriving in New York, Mr. Newcomb went down to Connecticut and shipped in a privateer, making a cruise. He made three cruises during the war in three different vessels. One in the brig Scourge, one in the Anaconda, and one in the Prince of Neuchatel. He had two severe battles, each of which lasted four hours, with vessels twice their size, and came out victorious in both battles. He was taken prisoner by three English warships, after peace was declared. He was then taken to Plymouth and marched out to Falmouth and put in prison there, and kept in prison nine months. He was in prison in Falmouth, Eng., during the time of the massacre of the prisoners by the English soldiers. Finally, he was brought home by a French ship to Boston.

He was a stevedore at New Orleans, La., about thirty years, and later resided at Boston and New Bedford, Mass., and Lisbon, Me.

Mr. Newcomb removed, Mar. 1856, from Pike to Hannibal, Mo., and became passenger conductor on the Hannibal & St. Joseph Railroad the following year. In the summer of 1861, his train was fired into repeatedly by the Rebels, who were well acquainted with his Union sentiments; he, several times, narrowly escaped being shot. On the 4th of September, while stopping a few moments at Shelbina station, he was made captive by a party of mounted soldiers and taken away by them. At night, they encamped in a barn, and, to prevent their prisoner's escape, placed him between two of his captors. Sleep, while it refused to visit him, proved a valuable ally, for during the heavy slumber of his guard, he contrived to free himself unobserved, and, taking one of their horses, was soon out of their reach. The night was only starlight; after riding some time, he could not tell if he were on the road to safety or not, when suddenly he was commanded to halt. Conjecturing what was true, that he had come upon a Rebel camp, he concluded not to heed the order, but dashed ahead. A shot followed him; his horse stumbled and fell, and, without waiting to examine its condition, he leaped to the ground and ran toward the timber, which was not far distant. Parties were sent in hot pursuit, but he succeeded in eluding them all, and at daylight secreted himself in a cornfield, where he remained until evening, when he again took up the line of march and reached the house of a friend near the railroad, and was conveyed by him in a wagon, amid grain bags covered with straw, to a railroad station, from whence he returned to Hannibal. In Dec. 1861, he removed to Elgin, Ill., later, resided at Turner Junction and Richmond, Ill. During the last twelve years or more of his life, he was passenger conductor on the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad with residence at Lake Geneva, Wis.

Cyrenius Adelbert[9] Newcomb (Hezekiah[8], Hezekiah[7], Hezekiah[6], Peter[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 10 Nov. 1837, Cortland, d. 9 Mar. 1915, Detroit; m. first, 12 Nov. 1867, Hartford, Conn., Mary E. Haskell, of Hartford, b. 12 Sept. 1846, d. 17 Nov. 1887, dau. of William R. and Sophronia R.; m. second, 20 Sept. 1899, Detroit, Mary Hutton Sharp, b. 12 Mar. 1864, Dublin, Ireland, dau. of James and Margaret (Hutton).

Mr. Newcomb belonged to a line of Newcombs that played an active part in the Revolutionary War. He was educated in the common schools of New York and later attended the Massachusetts State Normal School at Bridgewater, and the Clinton Liberal Institute in New York. At the age of eighteen, he began work in the dry goods business in Hannibal, N. Y.; two years later he accepted a clerical position with the dry goods firm of N. H. Skinner, of Taunton, Mass., and nine years later became a partner in the business.

In 1868, he sold out his interest and removed to Detroit, Mich., where he became one of the founders of the Newcomb-Endicott Co., one of the largest mercantile firms in the west. He continued to be the president of this company up to the time of his death although he had given up active business two years previously, owing to failing health.

Mr. Newcomb was a leader in reform and in philanthropic work; was a member of several boards of charity, and was active in civil and political affairs, though never holding political office. He had been a member of the Universalist Church for many years; resided, Detroit, where children were born.

Mr. Newcomb was a lawyer; emigrated with his mother and brothers, in 1833, from Richland, N. Y., to Vernon, Ind.; studied law, and was admitted to the bar of Jennings Co., Jan. 1844; removed to Indianapolis Ind., Dec. 1846; was elected mayor of the city May 1849, re-elected 1851, and resigned in November of same year; was elected representative to the Legislature from Marion Co., 1854, 1864 and 1866, and in 1860, State senator for four years; resigned in Nov. 1861, and was appointed, by Gov. Morton, president of the board of commissioners of the sinking fund (of the State), which office he held until Jan. 1863. During the war, he was the assistant editor of the Indianapolis Journal, a position which he held from 1864 to 1868.

In Feb. 1871, Mr. Newcomb was appointed, by Gov. Baker, as one of the judges of the Superior Court of Marion Co., and in April of the same year, was nominated by the President and confirmed as Assistant Secretary of the Interior, but, after full deliberation, declined the appointment.

The term of his office as Judge having expired in 1874, he was elected by the people, receiving the united support of both political parties. He resigned in 1876, and entered the practice of law as a member of the firm, Claypool, Newcomb & Ketcham. In 1880, he opened an office for himself, associating his son with him. In 1881, he was appointed one of the members of the Supreme Court Commission, a position he held at the time of his death. He was a member of the Third Presbyterian Church of Indianapolis.

Mr. Newcomb celebrated his ninety-third birthday anniversary 16 Mar. 1920, with all living children and four grandchildren. The cake was large to accommodate ninety-three candles. He also celebrated at the Knights Templar Hall with his Masonic friends. He still remembers his trip from Vermont to Illinois by wagon, although his memory is failing in some respects. Horseback riding has been his favorite mode of traveling until the past few years. He lost the sight of his right eye through the kick of a mule. He is still active and mounts upstairs to bed each evening without assistance. A familiar remark of his when accosted with "How are you?" is the reply, "Physically I never was better in my life, but mentally and morally I'll let the other fellow tell it."

2011. Lucius Stephen[9] Newcomb (William O.[8], Orson[7], William[6], Peter[5], Hezekiah[4], Simon[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 21 May 1844, E. Gainesville, N. Y., d. 13 Oct. 1887, Auburn, Calif.; m. 6 Oct. 1866, Perry Center, N. Y., Aurelia L. Austin, b. 22 Oct. 1845, d. 17 June 1893, Auburn, dau. of William and Phebe (Kimball).

Mr. Newcomb was for a time employed in a foundry, later engaged in the sewing machine business, and received patent for needle setter in 1877.

In 1861, he enlisted as bugler in 24th N. Y. Independent Battery; was first mustered into the service as bugler on account of his youth; re-enlisted as veteran 1 Jan. 1864; was made corporal June 1863, sergeant Feb. 1864, and second lieutenant 10 Jan. 1865. His Company and commission were transferred, May 1865, to 3d N. Y. Art., known as Battery L.; received commission as second lieutenant June 1865, to date from 17 Mar. 1865; served as lieutenant from that time until mustered out, 7 July 1865, at Syracuse, N. Y. He was in the four days' fight at Plymouth, N. C., which resulted in his capture, 20 Apr. 1864; was sent direct to the prison pen at Andersonville, where he suffered (as also at Charleston and Florence) those barbarous and wanton cruelties which have stamped the greatest infamy on the Rebellion. He left Andersonville for Charleston, S. C., 10 Sept. 1864; was kept there about one month; had scurvy in the right limb so badly, when he left Andersonville, that he could not straighten it; went to the hospital at Charleston, stayed there in the rain without shelter, finally returned to camp; left for Florence, Oct. 1864, remained there in stockade until about the 18th of Feb. 1865, when he was sent to Wilmington, N. C., thence to Goldsborough, and back to Wilmington to be paroled; was in the hands of the Rebels ten months and three days; he participated in many engagements, and displayed great coolness and bravery; resided, Harper's Ferry, Va., Carbondale, W. Va., and, after 1877, Woodland, Calif.

2234. BETHUEL MERRITT[9] NEWCOMB (Jedediah[8], William[7], Silas[6], Silas[5], Thomas[4], Thomas[3], Andrew[2], Andrew[1]) b. 14 Aug. 1848, Burnham, Me.; m. 12 Nov. 1871, Belfast, Me., Annie Sarah Harkness, b. 17 Mar. 1848, Belfast, dau. of Thomas and Susan (Hall).

By reason of the death of his father, when Mr. Newcomb was but four years of age, he was early thrown upon his own resources; obtained his education at the public schools, with a few terms at private institutions. At the age of nineteen he passed a successful examination to teach, and taught a winter term in New Gloucester. Upon expiration of the term, he accepted a position with the firm of Woods & Conant, retail grocers, at Belfast; at the end of two years, Mr. Woods disposed of his interest in the firm, and Mr. Newcomb was offered and accepted a position with William B. Swan & Co., wholesale grocers and coal and grain dealers, where he remained six years, advancing continuously to bookkeeper and collector, having full charge of the office.

In the spring of 1876, he resigned his position with the intention of going into business in a western state, but was offered a position with the firm of William Pitcher & Son, dealers in hay, grain and coal, where he remained two years.

Early in 1878, he took a course in mineralogy, metallurgy and assaying, removing to Colorado; was one of the early arrivals at Leadville, where he opened a public assay office in July; later superintended the operation and development of mines near Rosita, Silver Cliff and Breckenridge; in 1884, operated a mine in Sonora, Mex.

In 1886, he was employed by an eastern syndicate to superintend the operation of a large quicksilver mine in California. His management was so successful that, later, several other mines were purchased and placed under his charge. His improvements in mining, transportation and reduction of ores rendered the properties very remunerative to the stockholders, and he became an acknowledged authority, particularly upon the reduction of quick silver ores, and is rated high among the successful miners of the Pacific Coast.

In 1916, after thirty years association with this syndicate, and after forty years of active mining life, he resigned and retired in order to attend to personal business matters and the completion of this Revised Edition of the Newcomb Genealogy which he began in 1912.

In the Masonic order, Mr. Newcomb is a member of Timothy Chase lodge, Belfast, Me.; Napa Chapter, R. A. M., Napa, Calif.; Napa Commandery Knights Templar; San Francisco Bodies Scottish Rite 32°, and Islam Temple A. A. O. N. Mr. Newcomb has descended from a long line of patriotic ancestors; besides Andrew, 2d, who had command of troops in the Colonial Wars, his great-grandfather took an active part in the Revolutionary War, his father in the War of 1812, and he enlisted 22 Apr. 1861, at Bath, Me., in Co. A, 3d Me. Inf. Vols.; served more than his three-year term of enlistment; was mustered out 28 June 1864; was captured and made prisoner at the battle of Gettysburg, Pa., confined at Richmond, and paroled at City Point 2 August 1863. He was wounded in the battle of the Wilderness 5 May 1864; enlisted as a private and was later made corporal.

There is an interesting incident in connection with his service. It was during the battle of Fair Oaks and in the heat of the fight that a charge was made by the 3d Maine regiment on the 8th Alabama regiment; many were killed, wounded, and captured; among the latter, Secretary Herbert, then Major of the Alabama regiment, was taken prisoner by a sergeant, and private Newcomb, 3d Maine regiment. Major Herbert drew his revolver and, aiming at a soldier, fired. Another private belonging to the Maine regiment seeing the act, charged on a run with a bayonet fixed to his gun, intending to kill the prisoner. Just as he was about to give the fatal thrust, the sergeant and private Newcomb, with their guns, parried the intended blow and turned the glittering steel aside, thus averting the death of the officer. Mr. Newcomb placed himself in front of the officer and claimed him as his prisoner, and threatened to shoot if another attempt was made; he then, together with the sergeant, conducted the Major to the rear of the column and turned him over to an officer on horseback, and returned to the front and once more entered into the thickest of the fight.

The war closed, the army was disbanded, and Mr. Newcomb came to California.

During President Cleveland's administration, after Hon. H. A. Herbert was made Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Newcomb, who was at that time at Mare Island Navy Yard, noting the appointment and thinking possibly he might be related to the prisoner of Fair Oaks, wrote the Secretary a letter. The Secretary responded promptly, stating that he was the identical Herbert whom Jonathan rescued from persecution and that he had, for many years, been trying to locate him in Maine, not expecting to find him in California. These letters were the beginning of a long-time correspondence.

In May 1894, the Secretary visited Mare Island Navy Yard and became a guest of Mr. Newcomb at his residence, at the special request of Secretary Herbert.

Mr. Newcomb was a shipwright and calker and after his arrival on the Pacific Coast was engaged as such for many years in San Francisco. He later removed to Vallejo and was employed as a calker in the Navy Yard at the time of Secretary Herbert's visit; later, he became a merchant, now retired, at a ripe old age. Children, with the exception of iv, born at San Francisco.

ADDENDA

MISCELLANEOUS NEWCOMBS WHOSE GENEALOGICAL CONNECTION WITH ANY FAMILY HAS NOT BEEN ASCERTAINED.

LEMUEL (?)[1]

GEORGE (?)[1] NEWCOMB, b. early in 1800, probably around 1812, d. ——— 1847, Tennessee (some say Virginia), supposedly at Bristol or Knoxville; m. ———, Becky (Rebecca) ———; they both died of yellow fever when the youngest child was three weeks of age. Their children were adopted by neighbors.

Traditions says that George Newcomb had a brother Lemuel, of Tennessee, who died in the Revolutionary War. This can hardly be recognized, as calculating that the head of the family was married about 1836, at age of 21 years, he would be born about 1815. There is record of LEMUEL NEWCOMB, who m. 15 Nov. 1810, Rutherford Co., N. C., Elizabeth Flemming, b. 1785; he served under James Landon or Landreth, in 4th Regt. East Tenn. Militia, War of 1812, from Blountville, Tenn.; he died in Hawkins Co., Tenn., 10 July 1844. Bloutville is county seat of Sullivan Co. Is it possible that Lemuel Newcomb may have been the father of George[1]? Lemuel m. 1810, may have had a son b. 1812 to 1815, just about the age of George[1]. Louisa (Flowers) Newcomb, widow of George W.[2], believes that George Newcomb's father was Lemuel, a soldier, his wife Priscilla, and a brother William.

GLEANINGS

Thomas Clark, plaintiff against Richard Patishall, Andrew Newcomb, and Richard Wooding, "and the rest of the Sloop's Company," 2 Sept. 1679.

The plaintiff states that on August 28th "he rowled down upon the bridge in New York, 6 barrels and a half of Rowle Tobacco, which amounts to £10," and left the same to be delivered to Thomas Bowman for payment of a debt due to him. And the barrels were taken and carried away by defendants on board the Sloop "Edward and Martha," which belongs to said Richard Patishall. He prays that the Tobacco be returned or satisfaction made. (Note—the "bridge" mentioned above was a causeway, from the main land to the Dock or wharf which was some ways out in the harbor. It was called the "bridge of the Dock" to distinguish it from the bridge and the canal in Broad Street. The "Bridge of the Dock" is where Moore Street now is.)
